THE ABBEV BELLS

Westminster's Peal is Now a Full Octave.

The bells of Westminster, Abbey, which, except on rare occasions of historic importance, have been silent for a long period of years, rang out again on the occasion of the King's birthday, at the close of an impressive dedication service, conducted by the Dean of Westminster.

the peal was different from any due to the Abbey bell-ringers in previous times. For the first time in history, the famous Abbey possesses a full octave of eight bells, and bravely nd merrily the Victory peal sounded. Six bells had been the number of the peal ever since the Abbey had a tower in which to hang them. They were used to celebrate the armistice the last occasion on which they were rung, and before that, on the Coronation days of King George and King Edward. Recently, however, some anonymous donors offered to renovate the old peal, and add the bells neces sary to make the Abbey the possessor of a full octave.

The offer was received with gratitude by the Dean, and two of the old bells were re-cast and two new ones

At the close of the morning service on June 3rd the congregation passed to the northwest tower, and there the Dean formally dedicated the bells in the following terms: "In the faith of Jesus Christ, and in hope of the world's peace, we dedicate the bells now hung in the tower, as well as those newly cast as those that, being old, have been renovated and hung afresh to the Glory of God and for the replenishing of this Church of St. Peter's in Westminster." The Dean then signalled to the bel-

A Woman's Mite.

The poor woman's mite was well illustrated during the last Feed the Juns campaign in London. The story s told that while the Mayor Shoreditch was standing one day in the street holding in his hand a cheque for $\pounds 21,000$, sent to him by a war factory, a poor woman gave him a shilling to invest in war bonds. "It is all I have," she said, "but you are welcome to it to feed the guns and help the boys." The mayor accepted the shilling, and the papers published a notice to the effect that if the investor would call at Shoreditch town hall she would be provided with a war savings certificate. The actual shil-ling, however, is being mounted to be kept at Shoreditch as a token of the ling, he patriotism of its people

Gramatski

The story of an original German spy is told by Le Mercure de France. It appears that this man, Gramatski, condemned to imprisonment by the Norweghan courts, and doing time in his cell, wrote an advanced mathematical treatise and composed an opera. Owing to his good conduct his sentence was reduced by half, and he was about to be liberated when he begged to be allowed to finish his sentence, declaring that he was engaged on a translation of Lund's treatise on mathematics, 'a work of national importance. Gramatski offered to play some of the airs of his opera on the flute for the entertainment of the court, but the court did not appear particularly inclined to hear them. The Norwegian authorities are considering what had best be done with Gramatski.

A ROMANCE-FILLED SEA.

One of the Historic Centres of the Orient.

Surely nowhere else in the world, writes F. B. Bradley-Birt in "Through Persia," is there an arm of the sea so fraught with historic memories as that which guards the approach to Persia on the south. Quitting India at Kara-chi, one sails straight out into another world, a world of Oriental despotism and old romance.

Even at the outset, as one crosses the Arabian Sea, historic memories crowd thick upon one. This way from the ladus, at whose mouth lies Kara-chi, salled Nearchus, admiral of the great Alexander, in the fourth century before Christ, leaving so careful a re-cord of his voyage that its course along the northern shores can still be traced to-day. From the opposite and of the gulf, from Busrah in Arabia, 12 centuries later came Sinbad the Sailor, of wide renown, on his seven voyages of farfamed adventure to furnish nursery tales for all time to come.

Early in the sixteenth century there suddenly appeared upon the scene the high-poped vessels of the Portuguese, first of European nations here as elsewhere in the rush for worlds, west. Then at the beginning of the seven-teenth century there followed in the wake of the Portuguese the British and the Dutch, eager to rob the earli-est pioneers of their hard-won laurels and wrest from them the empire of the seas. From time to time the French appeared like meteors amidst the clash of warring elements, making spasmodic efforts to share the spoil and plunder of this new world of wealth, the fame of which, magnified a hundredfold in Oriental flower of preach and space for and the space peech, had spread far and wide over the west. Throughout the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries this coveted arm of the sea was the constant scene of strife from end to end. With varying fortunes the Portuguese, clinging with dogged tenacity to the first footholds they had won, held their own for 150 years. For a time the Dutch-men swept the seas. Then the British succeeded to the supremacy of the gulf.

tell you. And he makes no bones at all of saying that the 160 or so sub-surface boats which Germany has surrender-ed contain no "secrets" not known already to British officers, and one affeady to british officers, and one of them at least volunteered the in-formation that the plans for many a German submarine had been seen and examined before ever there was one evaluated of the armo time — which captured of the same type — which would seem to indicate, if true, that Germany had no monopoly of secret service efficiency! Britain started with some 80 sub-

AID TO SLIM DINNER

May Be Given by a Satisfying Soup.

Slim dinners sometimes occur in the best regulated households, but with a little forethought on the part of the housewife they may be expanded to adequate proportions with a minimum of trouble and expense. A satisfying soup, an appetizing bit of salad and a hearty pudding flank the slim meat or fish dish and make it seem quite ample.

The soup, however, is the most potent factor in the suggested trio of amplifiers, thus becoming the point of ampiniers, into becoming the point of concentration in giving first aid to the slim dinner. The satisfying soup is not necessarily a meat or heavy cream soup; it may be a light soup, of white stock or vegetables or even fish, pro-viding it has an appropriate edible corrich. These carringhes are not as garnish. These garnishes are not as much used here as they are in other countries, for they are easy to make and give a pleasing variety to the oups. These so-called garnishes are not for looks, but make a soup a satisfy-ing part of the meal and so lessen the expense of the meat course or elimin-ate it entirely, and include the various kinds of dumplings, forcemeat balls, jellied meat, fish or vegetables, cut in squares; toasted or fried bread squares, poached puffs of different kinds, poached eggs, sliced hard-bolled eggs, marconi pastes, cereals, spinach balls; vegetables and filled grapeleaf pack.

Statistics gathered in Italy thro some light on the question of the rela-tive frequency of earthquakes by day and by night. It has been alleged that the supposed greater frequency of noc-turnal quekes is only emergent being turnal quakes is only apparent, being due to the fact that quiet conditions at night makes the shocks more readily perceptible. It, appears, however, that considering only these shocks which were so intense that they could not have escaped notice at any hour, 865 occurred during the twelve night lours.
