A Pack of Deceivers.

THREAT TO PUBLIC INTEREST.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—If ever the electors of this country went mad, and "pulled their nose to spite their face," it was when they elected to power that pack of deceivers known as the Morris Government. This is so apparent that even the Tories, who worked hardest to elect the present Government, are now groaning for a chance to "turn them out" of power again, and thus atone for the political mistake they made in 1909.

One feature of the hypocrisy practiced by the Morris gang is evidenced by the partisan telegraph despatches that are sent daily to the Outports. When one considers that the Morris clique criticised and loudly condemned Sir Robert Bond for sending a few telegraph messages during the Fall election of 1908 it shows a degree of deception without a parallel for these very men who to be doing what they then declared was wrong. If it was a crime to use the wires for partisan purposes then it is a crime to-day, if those messages, sent by Sir Robert Bond, could be considered as sent at public expense (by the use of the wires and officials) and that was their contention, then the same criticism and condemnation attaches to the Morris party to-day, and yet they hazily flaunt their partisan messages in the face of the Outports thinking perhaps that we have forgotten their condemnation. But we have not, and they are calling their own course, like chicken, home to roost.

Are those partisan messages compiled by the Hon. P. T. McGrath? If so, what does the Government think of that newly appointed member of the Legislative Council? Where does the honour come in? While the Outports are being deluged with those party political messages at public expense the merest tittle of war news, even at this critical time, is being sent, and the outport people naturally feel indignant.

Here is a sample of those partisan "public messages" that are sent to the Outports:—

ST. JOHN'S, Nov. 14.
Premier Morris in a letter to city newspapers replying to the Evening Telegram's article respecting his holding shares in St. George's Lumber Co., publishes a letter from Manager Prince of that concern showing that those shares were given Sir Edward Morris in 1908 in payment for legal services and cash disbursements on account of incorporating that Company two years previously, the Company having no funds when Sir Edward presented his bill for payment. The Evening Telegram practically admits the collapse of its charges against Premier in view of this explanation.

What do you think of all that for the Premier and three or four lines of war news same day?

Since reading the above "public message" I have received a copy of the Evening Telegram containing Sir Edward's explanation and the Telegram's editorial reply thereto, and I find that the closing sentence of that message is utterly false, the Telegram does not "admit the collapse of its charges against the Premier in view of his explanation." But on the contrary points out the stronger proof to substantiate its charges respecting those shares held by the Premier in St. George's Lumber Co.

Now what can be thought of a public man who will deliberately color those despatches, which he prepares for an interested public, with his own peculiar partisan prejudices, and flashes over the wires a barefaced falsehood? Such a man is not to be trusted in any public position or service, for being capable of such a thing, he may, if not checked, sent broadcast even greater falsehoods detrimental to public interest and damaging to the individual who may happen to be on the other side of politics.

"Public telegraph needs" is supposed to be, and should be, non-political and we call His Excellency the Governor's attention to this matter at once to stop such a daily scandal. The Outports want the truth, and nothing but the truth will be tolerated. We want "public needs" not Morris politics. If those messages are compiled by the Hon. P. T. McGrath we would like to know it also we want no more of his tricks.

Yours very truly,

Reducing Labor.

Any kind of a Motor Engine is better than none, as nearly all engines are good, at least for a time, so when a person buys an engine for the first time it is such a departure that he is quite delighted and thinks it is the best obtainable. It is only after a year or so when he has familiarized himself with Motors that he realizes that some motors can be had to run better than others. So it will be with the FAIRBANKS. When you see it running you will at once understand the difference between it and the engine you are now using, and you will then realize the superiority of it over all others.

It has displaced all others in the Maritime Provinces, where all makes advertised on this market were for sale, and it will also displace all others here.

It is the Engine you will eventually use.
Over 100,000 in use.

About Nerves.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

The lawyer for the other side,— you remember I told you about him, he is that part of you that if it is given any encouragement will present the arguments for the other side when you are thinking over a grievance or other people's faults,—held such an interesting argument with me the other night that I wanted to pass it on to you.

The argument was on the subject of an invalid neighbour of mine who has no trouble with any of her organs but is a victim of sick nerves.

Whenever things do not go just right she gets fearfully nervous and depressed and makes every body about her miserable by her gloomy voice and face.

Now it seems to me that if she would only make an effort she could rise above the depression and keep from getting so nervous.

Said the lawyer for the other side, "No she couldn't any more than you could help feeling a pain in your arm if you had one. Nervous depression is just as involuntary a thing as pain."

Said I, "Well anyhow she could have prevented herself from getting into such a nervous state. She certainly is to blame for that."

Said the lawyer for the other side, "Could you have helped getting that terrible pain in your back when you had to work so hard last summer? You don't think you ought to be blamed for that, do you?"

"No," said I, reluctantly, "but anyhow nervousness is not to be compared with a terrible pain like that."

"Isn't it?" said the lawyer for the other side. "That's where you're greatly mistaken. Didn't I read in something you wrote that you thought that mental pain was infinitely worse than physical pain? Well, that's what nervous depression is; the worst sort of mental suffering,—a grinding, relentless ache like—well, like that rheumatism you said was the worst thing you ever had. You think it's terrible just to see anyone look so gloomy. Well, how do you suppose it seems to feel that way?"

"There is something in that," I reluctantly conceded.

"Something," retorted the lawyer for the other side, "I should say there was."

It is sometimes hard to understand and sympathize with a person when we know that there is nothing organic the matter, when it's "just a case of nerves."

We sometimes feel as if that meant that a little effort on the part of the sick one would cure her.

In reality such cases mean that the patient will have to use infinitely more effort and patience than if there were merely something wrong with some single organ.

We think of nerves as intangible things; but if you will stop to think about it you will realize that they are just about the reallest things that can be, the very acme and centre of reality.

So in the future when I am inclined to get out of patience with anyone who is nervous I am going to remember the arguments of the lawyer for the other side.

Will you join me?

Ruth Cameron

FOR THE WOMAN WHO THINKS AND FEELS.

Some women complain that they periodically suffer from dull and heavy feelings, or dizziness in the head, nervousness, pain and bearing-down feelings which should not occur to the normal healthy woman. But most every woman is subject to these pains at some time in her life, due to abnormal conditions in life, such as over-exertion, over-taxed strength, bad air, poor or improper food, wet feet, sluggish liver, etc. A regulator and female tonic made from native medicinal roots with pure glycerin, and without the use of alcohol, called has proven its value in thousands of cases, like the following:

Miss DORA M. MARTIN, of Auburn, Nebr., Route 1, Box 54, says: "I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know how much I have done for me. I have used them for thirty years for female trouble and I have never been cured since. I have paid for them in hundreds of dollars; in doctors' bills. I buy the Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery and take them together. I never was disappointed in your remedies and take pleasure in recommending them to any suffering lady. I am now almost fifty years old; at forty-five I took your medicines, both kinds, and I passed that period very easily and left me fat and healthy. I feel like a young girl."

If any lady cares to write me, I will gladly tell her more about the good work of your medicines.

DR. PIERCE'S GREAT FAMILY DOCTOR BOOK, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—of 1008 pages, answers hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know. Sent free in cloth binding to any address on receipt of 5¢ one-cent stamps to cover cost of wrapping and mailing only.

Household Notes.

A thorough whitewashing should be given every cellar at least once a year.

Dusters should be washed often, then dipped in kerosene and dried in the open air.

Very little bluing should be used in washing laces, because the lace absorbs a great deal of blue.

A delicious sandwich is made of home currant bread, filled with cream cheese and chopped peppers.

Allow the onions to stand in water for several minutes before peeling. They will not smart the eyes as much.

Small leftovers of fish or meat can be ground up fine and put into your potato puffs. It will improve them.

Granite ware can be kept in very good condition if it is boiled in soda water for five or ten minutes twice a week.

When the surface of anything has been burned, use a fine grater to scrape off the burn. It is better than a knife.

If your thread insists on knotting, unthread your needle and thread it from the other side. It will not trouble you then.

White potato grated finely and spread over the carpet, is a very good cleaner, and will not injure the most delicate shades.

A good polish for white canvas shoes is made with ordinary lump starch mixed with sufficient water to make a thin paste.

Leftovers of fish can be safely kept in the refrigerator by putting them in a fruit jar with rubber and sealing them tightly.

When darning a stocking try putting it over your own shoe tree. It is more satisfactory than darning it over a wooden egg darning.

When mice trouble you, hunt their entrances to the pantry or cupboard and plaster them with a mixture of soft soap and red pepper.

A professional polish should be put on tan shoes before they are worn. If this is done, they will not be scratched below the surface.

MR. MARTIN.

Wedding Bells at Argentinia.

On Saturday, Nov. 20th, a very pretty wedding took place at Argentinia when Mary Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, of Marquise, was united in holy matrimony to Thomas Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kemp, of Placentia. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Ashley at the Argentinia Roman Catholic Church, and Nellie Healey, a cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and James Collins, of Placentia, as best man.

The bride, who was attired in cream silk, wreath and veil and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms, looked charming and was much admired by all present. The bridesmaid wore a pretty dress of cream silk with hat to match. The bride was led to the altar by her father. After the ceremony was performed the happy couple with their many friends repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous repast awaited them. The health of the bride was proposed by Mr. James Davis, who spoke enthusiastically of Miss Smith's excellent qualities as a teacher, and of the great success she had achieved in the cause of education during the six years that she had charge of Marquise school. He concluded by saying that if she would make as good a wife as she had made a teacher (and he had no doubt that she would), Mr. Kemp was a happy man.

He was responded to by the bridegroom, who thanked Mr. Davis for the many kind words he had spoken of his bride.

After supper the bridal party drove to the future residence of the bride and groom, where another spread awaited them, after partaking of which the gay company talked, laughed, sang and danced until the great day star peeped over the eastern horizon. The bride received many beautiful and valuable presents from her numerous friends. We join with their many friends in wishing the happy couple many years of conjugal bliss.
