Attempted Outrage by a Tramp On a 17-Year-Old Girl.

A Posse of Determined Men Scoul the Country,

But the Wretch Escapes-Providential Rescue by Mr. Frank Davis.

The people of Newbury and the surrounding country were plunged into the greatest excitement and indignation yesterday over an attempted outrage by a tramp upon Maude Blaine, the amiable 17-year-old daughter of Joseph Blaine, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer living about a mile and a half southeast of Newbury.

It occurred about 8:30 a.m., as Maude was on her way to the Wardsville high school. She was walking on the Hagarty road, a much frequented highway, from Newbury to Wardsville, and when op-posite a thicket was accosted by an unknown tramp.
"I've been looking for you for three days," leered the villian, as he seized her, and began dragging her to the Maude screamed and fought with all her energy, but was utterly powerless in the grasp of the tramp, who was burly brute. Her strength was ex-hausted, and she was sinking into unisness when a rig driven by Mr Frank Davis, of Wardsville, appeared on the highway. It was a providential approach. Mr. Davis had been too far distant to hear the girl's screams, but as he drove up he saw the tramp at empting the assault, and dashed to the rescue. The wretch, who was very light-footed, took to his heels, and esaped over the fields.

A general alarm was at once given and in a very short time from 150 to 200 determined men, 50 of whom were worn in as special constables, were on nis tracks. About 2:30 p.m. some of hem caught a glimpse of the fugitive but he again eluded pursuit, and was seen no more. It is believed that he reached Glencoe, and there took a train. The tramp is described as about 25 years old, clean shaven, short, and stout. He wore a light gray suit. He attended the Methodist Church at New-bury in the morning and the Episcopal Church in the evening, and had no! doubt been watching for a victim.

The St. Paul's Church Treated to Something Unusual.

Thieves Break Into St. John's and Steal the Communion Service.

Hamilton Times: Odd happenings appear to be the rule rather than the exception in Hamilton churches of late. Last (Sunday) evening, while Rev. Neil McPherson, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, was reading the scripture lesson, a woman, well dressed, but without hat or wrap, walked up the center aisle to the pulpit platform, carrying an open Bible in her gloved hands. Removing her gloves and rings she knelt on the steps ing to the pulpit, and with bowed head, remained there throughout the remainder of the service. One of the elders vainly endeavored to persuade her to take a seat in a pew. After the benediction had been pronounced, sne arose and walked down the aisle again and out of the church, leaving her rings and gloves behind. Rev. Mr. McPherson was visibly em-

They forced an entry into the Sunday school and then into the secretary's room, where they got the keys of the munion boxes, which made the rest of their task comparatively easy. They stole the whole of a small communion service, consisting of four pieces, and twelve pieces of the regular church set. BIG STACK OF BROOMS BIG STACK OF BROOMS.

In the burned building there were eady for shipment 200 dozen brooms. Besides this, a new supply of broom corn had just been received. Thirteen dozen of the brooms were saved. The umber piles to the north of the broom actory were soaked with water, but notwithstanding this a large quantity of lumber was destroyed. The big belts in the binder twine department were cut and hauled out, together with a good many articles that would burn with a roar mashed. Its destruction means a loss

FIGHTING THE FLAMES. When it was seen that the twine shop was doomed, the firemen concen-trated their force to save the machine n this they were successful. It was nearly 6 o'clock before the fire was under control, but it was still burning at 7 o'clock. Deputy Chief Thompson and several iremen had a narrow escape from a ESTIMATED LOSS AND INSUR-ANCE. Insurance on broom factory: H. A. son & Co., $20,000; on stock, valued at $15,000; no insurance on building or on machinery owned by the government, valued at $15,000. uilding machinery, owned by the government, valued at $45,000; insurance, Total loss will amount to $150,000. A later estimate of the damage done places the total loss at $60,000, made up as follows: $30,000 on twine factory, building and machinery contained therein; $8,000 on building and machinbroom factory, and $1,000 on the con-servatory and contents, a total of $57,-000. H. A. Nelson & Sons are losers of the stock in the broom factory, which was, however, fully insured. The government loses the balance. The Government carried insurance to the extent of $40,000, on the machinery in the twine factory, so that the actual loss will be comparatively light. The plants in the conservatory were very rare, and beautiful, and their value can be hardly assessed in actual
