ANOTHER U. S. PROTEST

TO DECIDE CASE

of Standard Oil.

PRIZE COURT

Tank Steamer Brindilla Is Said To Be Similarly Owned.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 .- The United States today protested to Great Britain against the recent seizure of the Platurla, a tank steamer, owned by the Standard Oil Company, now detained at Lewis Island, Scotland. This protest is identical to the one filed in the case of the Brindilla, held of the sea, which has so far enabled at Halifax, N.S., and requests the immediate release of the ship. Inasmuch as the Admiralty court at Halifax already has begun proceedings to determine whether the Brindilla is a prize, the British Government is expected formally to decline to release the vessel until a decision is rendered. A prize court it is believed will simflarly determine the status of the

Sir 'Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, called on Secretary Lansing today to learn the relation between the German company, which formerly owned the Brindilla, and the Standard Oil Company. WIII Settle Question According to a report of the commissioner of corporations, in 1907, the German company in question was a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, and completely controlled by the latter. If this fact is proven to the satisfaction of the prize court, all doubt as to the bonafide nature of the trans-American registry, will be removed, as Great Britain informally has advised the American Government that she will gitimate transfer all vessels whose ownership is continuously American. The Platuria was similarly owned by a German subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company. Doubt as to the validity of the change of registry would not be a sufficient cause for seizure, however, and British officials pointed out today that reports of unneutral inten tions on the part of each vessel probably would be considered by the prize will protect the trade. "The only alternative to the methods already adopted would be the marshalling of merchantmen in regular convoys at stated intervals. So far it has not been thought necessary to hamper trade by enforcing such a system.

Loss Smaller Than Expected.

"The percentage of loss is much less than was reckoned on before the war. Out of 4,000 British ships engaged in the foreign trade, only 39 have been sunk by the enemy, or less than 1 per cent in all. Besides, seven vessels are now overdue in Atlantic waters. The rate of insurance for cargoes which at the outbreak of the war was fixed at 5 guineas per cent, had now been reduced to 2 guineas per cent.

Vessels at Fault. "Between 8,000 and 9,000 foreign voyages have been undertaken to and from United Kingdom ports, less than per 1,000 of which have been interfered with, and of these losses a large numof the vessel from Germany to ber have been caused by merchant vessels taking everything for granted and proceeding without precautions, as if there were no war "On the other hand, German oversea trade has practically ceased to exist. Nearly all their fast ships, which could have been used as auxiliary cruisers were promptly penned into neutral harbors, or have taken refuge in their own. Among the comparatively German ships which have put to sea, 133 have been captured, or nearly four times the number of those lost by the very large British mercantile marine. No Occasion for Anxiety, "In these circumstances there is no occasion for anxiety, and no excuse for complaint. On the contrary, the more fully the facts concerning our over. sea trade, and its protection by the royal navy can be disclosed, and the more attentively they are studied the greater will be the confidence and satisfaction with which the situation can be viewed."
