

TO PAY $33,344 ON CITY RELIEF

Two Governments Will Shoulder This Share of Local Improvements.

BIG SAVING ON SEWER

London West Construction Will Fall $100,000 Below Estimates.

The federal and provincial governments will be called upon to pay $33,344 towards the cost of local improvements undertaken by the city during the winter as an aid to the unemployment situation.

The estimated cost of a number of works, which the city undertook, was $117,821. The cost of the winter cost was $13,214. The difference, $10,607, is the excess because the work was undertaken in the winter period. Of this amount $19,889 will be charged to the federal government at Ottawa; $13,455 to the provincial government at Toronto and the city must care for $2,921.

The engineer finds that of all the works in two cases the actual cost has exceeded the estimated winter cost. In both instances the work was a shallow sewer to be put down 4 1/2 feet and the encountered 4 1/2 feet of frozen ground, so that instead of the increased cost being 100 per cent, it was 200 per cent. In one case the cost was below the estimated normal cost, while in all others the cost was between the estimated normal and the estimated winter.

Has Good News.
In reporting to the board of works, the various works undertaken last year and to be completed in 1922, for which provision must be made in this year's estimates, the engineer has good news for Hamilton road, Pine Lawn and West London residents.

It has been found that in both these cases the actual cost of the sewers is materially below the estimate. In West London the saving to the ratepayers will be well over $100,000.

The estimated cost of the West London sewer was $529,000. In 1921, the work done cost $236,509, and when the engineer prepared his estimate of the 1922 cost, he placed it at $183,500, or a total of $420,000. Since, however, he has seen cause to further reduce his estimate, and it is believed that the whole West London system will not cost more than $400,000.

$17,000 Below Estimate.
The 1921 cost of the Pine Lawn sewer was $17,472 and the 1922 estimate to be met was placed at $36,448, a total of $53,920. A storm water sewer in the same section was estimated with the Pine Lawn sewer, the cost of both being $109,000. The storm sewer section estimate was $6,491. It cost $4,697, and this brings the total cost of the system to $58,448, or $17,000 below the estimate. Then also the apportioning of the winter cost to the two governments will reduce the share of the actual cost which the ratepayers will have to shoulder.

Comparison of these reports is being made at the city hall with construction work. The Knollwood Park sewer, which cost $11,000 over the estimate, is being installed. The contract price for the work was $2 cents, and the West London 41-11-10 cents. The Knollwood Park sewer was on high dry land. The city, in sewer, was working on low ground and encountered water repeatedly.

"The most satisfactory of all," is the way which the provincial works department terms the reports and estimates from London in regard to figures and estimates sent forward in regard to winter construction.

Woman Misled On Piano Purchase by "25 Years Ago Column"

A SHORT time ago The Advertiser published in its "25 Years Ago Today" column the news that William McNeil, the well-known chicken fancier of Waterloo street north, had won three prizes at Kansas City show prizes at Kansas City.

A day or so after the publication of the item, a woman called the McNeil home on the phone, asking if Mr. McNeil was desirous of selling one of the pianos, as she thought he would hardly want to keep all three.

She remarked that she had seen the news of Mr. McNeil's good fortune in The Advertiser. There was a real laugh when she was told the event had happened 25 years ago.

Mr. McNeil really won four prizes in all, getting his fourth a year later.

DEPLORES DELAY OF SCHOOL PLANS

Members of the advisory vocational committee of the board of education met Monday at 8 p.m. at the London Technical and Art School. Routine business only will claim the attention of the trustees.

School Trustee J. R. Wright, chairman of the committee, deplored, Monday, the fact that as yet the various committees of the board had failed to get together and discuss the year's proposed building program.

"We should have the plans by this time," he explained, "and should rightfully be soon asking for tenders. An early start is desirable in order that the contemplated building still be complete before the hot weather sets in. I heard some time ago that the committee was to meet, but have heard nothing further since."

SAYS FOREIGN ELEMENT IS CHURCH'S PROBLEM

Dr. Colin Young will address District Presbyterian Community Conferences.

Dr. Colin Young who is to address the church and community conferences which are being held in connection with the London Presbytery on the subject of "Christianizing and Canadianizing the Non-Anglo-Saxon Immigrant," arrived in London Monday morning. Dr. Young has been engaged for some time in work amongst non-Anglo-Saxon immigrants in various large commercial districts and is able to view the subject from angles which are not touched in the political phase of the question.

"Legislation can do much for these people, but the church is the great power for good in making Canadian citizens of them and assimilating them into the great national life of the country," Dr. Young stated. "Not only in the larger cities, but in rural communities, the foreign element presents one of the greatest problems which confronts the church."

Dr. Young is to conduct services next Sunday morning at King Street Presbyterian Church, and in the evening at Knox Presbyterian.

His itinerary for the coming week is Monday, Knox Church, St. Thomas; Tuesday, Dutton; Wednesday, Rodney; Thursday, Glenora; Friday, Mount Brydges.

AIM TO FRUSTRATE SPLIT IN TRAINMEN'S UNION

Switchmen and Trainmen Will Meet Sunday For Adjustment of Differences.

Certain differences said to exist between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Switchmen of America will be considered, it was explained Monday, at a general meeting of the local members of the former body Sunday next.

For several weeks past an effort has been made throughout the country to reorganize the switchmen and many organizers have visited London and other points in Canada in an effort to establish lodges. In the local yards alone it is known that many of the switchmen have expressed themselves willing to break away from the Brotherhood of Trainmen, which organization they now are a part of.

It is reported that Sunday's meeting is designed to consider the local situation thoroughly in an effort not to doubt to combat the move.

URGES CANADIAN IDEALS IN MUSIC

Mrs. Fletcher-Copp Gives Interesting Demonstration of Method At Musical Art.

EXPRESS EMOTIONS

Music a Medium As Well As English Language, Points Out Speaker.

Demonstrating her own method of teaching music, Mrs. Fletcher-Copp greatly interested both teachers and parents who heard her at the Institute of Musical Art Saturday night. Mrs. Copp played several compositions which had been written by children from the age of seven to fifteen, and the audience were amazed at the manner in which the young people expressed their emotions by means of their thoughts by means of the piano. None of the compositions were at all difficult or intricate, but the picture which had been in the mind of the child was very evident.

Stressed Value.
Mrs. Copp stressed the value of musical education in the schools, and compared the results which are expected from a child who spends an hour a day at music for three years with the results expected after a child has spent seven or eight hours a day in school for the same length of time.

Children are taught to express their thoughts in English, and yet each one is not expected to become a famous author. I believe that the same method should be carried out in music. The child should be taught to express his emotions by means of musical instruments. It is not expected that each one will become a noted musician, but the ability to pour out his feelings by means of music will benefit his whole life.

Potential Musicians.
"There are potential musicians in Canada, as in every other country. Instead of satisfying our musical appetite by reproductions of German or Polish music, we should encourage the building up of musical literature typical of Canada and the thoughts of Canadians. We can only do that by laying the foundation of our children's musical education while they are in the proper mood to be taught and by teaching them to find expression for their own emotions."

Mr. Finn explained how different kinds of soil require different amounts of each ingredient in a fertilizer in order to realize the greatest benefit from the application.

Owing to the scarcity of roots no exhibit was held, but it is hoped that at the next meeting which takes place early in April, a display of spring vegetables will be on hand.

President Ninian T. Sanderson was the chair and there were about forty present.

Present Petition In City Protestant Churches Against Tax Allotments

Petitions protesting against increase of privileges and tax allotments to separate schools were presented in many Protestant churches throughout the city Sunday at morning and evening services.

Reports from various churches show that in every case the petitions were largely signed, but that in many cases it will be necessary to provide for signatures again next Sunday, as sufficient documents were not provided for the large number who wished to sign.

During the week, the petition will be circulated in the industrial concerns of the city, and also by means of a house-to-house canvass, and it is expected that by the time the canvass is completed, the number of signatures will reach the tens of thousands.

An address given in the Masonic Temple, Monday, Feb. 27, by Dr. Edwards of the Public School Defence League assisted in arousing public sentiment in the matter, and great interest is being evinced in the movement to prevent any further concessions to separate schools.

The matter up and are desirous of obtaining a large number of signatures for the petitions.

SPEAKS ON BEST USES OF ARTIFICIAL FERTILIZER

Use On Wrong Soil To Blame For Poor Results, Says Mr. Finn.

The London branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association held their regular bi-monthly meeting in the local office of the department of agriculture, Saturday evening. After the usual business and discussions R. A. Finn, agricultural representative, gave an interesting and instructive address on fertilizers.

"Owing to the increasing difficulty of obtaining barnyard manure, the growers feel the necessity of the use of artificial fertilizers, and also the knowledge of applying it," stated Mr. Finn.

With the aid of a chart Mr. Finn made clear the foods necessary to the growth of plants, and the fertilizers from which this food could be obtained.

Very frequently farmers purchased fertilizers which, though entirely satisfactory to their next neighbor, were of little value to their own crops and usually the blame was placed on the fertilizer.

Mr. Finn explained how different kinds of soil require different amounts of each ingredient in a fertilizer in order to realize the greatest benefit from the application.

Owing to the scarcity of roots no exhibit was held, but it is hoped that at the next meeting which takes place early in April, a display of spring vegetables will be on hand.

President Ninian T. Sanderson was the chair and there were about forty present.

TELLS ROTARIANS HOW NEWS FOUND

Arthur Ford Traces History of Journalism To Present Day For Club Members.

CAESAR EARLY EDITOR

Lauds Service Given by Canadian Press To Public of Canada.

The art of gathering reports of all events of the day for the modern newspaper, was interestingly described to members of the Rotary Club at luncheon Monday by Arthur Ford, managing editor of the London Free Press, and president of the Kiwanis Club.

Introducing the speaker, President Yendall declared that Mr. Ford's address had been looked forward to by Rotarians as they "would like to know where the reporters get some of their news."

In his opening remarks the speaker outlined the history of journalism, crediting Julius Caesar with the first idea of presenting news to the people by his daily bulletins. The Chinese also inaugurated a primitive news service years ago, and the first English newspaper was published in 1702. This consisted mainly in a series of political pamphlets.

"It was not until the 19th century that there was really an attempt made to get news," said Mr. Ford. "The New York Sun was the first newspaper to show real enterprise in this manner, and was quickly followed by other New York newspapers."

Telegraph Unknown.
He pointed out that in those days the telegraph service was unknown, and news was carried from point to point by carrier pigeons, fast ponies and special trains chartered for the purpose. The telegraph a few years later revolutionized journalism.

Mr. Ford described the methods employed whereby the report of the luncheon would appear on the streets before some Rotarians returned to their respective offices, asserting that no industry calls for more speed and intelligence.

"Is it any wonder mistakes are made at times?" he asked his audience. Reuter, a young Belgian, was the first man to inaugurate a news service relaying reports to many papers," said Mr. Ford. "The Reuter Press being named after him. He explained the duties of the Associated Press, and the many difficulties overcome to gain an insight in the latest news."

Canada's First Paper.
The Montreal Gazette, founded by Benjamin Franklin, as a weekly, but now a leading daily, was the first Canadian newspaper to be published. The speaker then traced the history of Canadian newspapers and the forming of the Canadian Press Limited, which places the history of the world during the past 24 hours on every London breakfast table for a few cents.

He emphasized the fact that the Canadian Press Limited is a co-operative venture to gather international news, with practical every Canadian newspaper as a member. There are no dividends or profits, each publication sharing the cost of the news-gathering.

"I think on the whole the Canadian press is doing a real service to the Canadian public today," he concluded.

The luncheon was well attended. 107 Rotarians listening to this interesting address.

The prize in the drawing contest, donated by Archie McPherson, was won by Dr. Ross Thomas. During the luncheon Wilfred McCormick entertained with a solo, assisted by a chorus of seven fellow Rotarians.

Gives Lone Prisoner From Prince Edward Island Week's Rest In Jail

E. D. Bennett, of Prince Edward Island, admitted in police court Monday morning that he was a long, long way from home, and that there was not much chance of getting back with the homebound for some time to come.

"How did you get here?" queried the court.

"Different ways," replied Ed, who was found by the police begging on the street.

"I certainly would like to get a job," smiled the prisoner.

"How about going to jail for a week, till we see about a job?" asked the magistrate.

"That would be fine," said the prisoner, as he was led away to the cells.

ACCEPTS CALL TO GODERICH CHURCH

The Goderich pulpit becomes vacant by reason of the transfer of Rev. A. F. Reyecraft, to the First Methodist Church, London.

MOUNTS SEAT SO COURT COULD GET GOOD VIEW

Ernest Hill Pleads Guilty To Theft From Motor Car.

Ernest Hill is fairly tall, but when asked to stand up in police court Monday morning Ernest surprised even the chief by mounting the seat in the prisoner's box so that the magistrate could get a good view of him. It was quite easy to see that Ernest was making his debut in police court circles.

Hill was charged with stealing a headlight bulb and a mirror from the motor car of John P. Parkinson on Sunday, valued at $2.25, and a bulb from the car of John Glazier, valued at $5 cents.

"Hill, who is but a mere boy, wanted an adjournment.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked the court.

"I'm guilty, sir, to both offenses," declared the lad.

"I'll ask for a remand, as I would like to look into this case," stated A. R. Douglas, acting for the crown. His request was granted.

RECOVER BICYCLE FROM JUVENILE

MAJOR MURPHY TO SPEAK

Will Address Businessmen On Legal Transfers.

Major T. J. Murphy is to address a noon luncheon meeting of the chamber of commerce at the Tecumseh House Wednesday, March 8. Major Murphy will speak on the question of introducing a less complicated system of registering property transfers, in place of the present system, which has been described as "difficult, cumbersome, complicated and exceedingly uncertain."

Much interest is evinced in this subject, since it is claimed that a great deal of money could be saved yearly in London if a less costly and simpler method of establishing the validity of legal titles and effecting the transfer of property were adopted.

IS WASH TUB BREW UTENSIL?

Counsel Queries When Man Is Charged With Brewing Beer Without Permit.

ADJOURN MANY CASES

Beer-Laden Truck Drivers Have Case Adjourned Until Tuesday.

Monday was another "day of adjournments" in police court, ten cases being laid over by the court.

Ed. Hornick and Oliver Connor of Windsor, drivers of the beer-laden truck captured by the police a week ago Friday, had their case adjourned till Tuesday morning at the request of License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside, who stated that N. Jefferies, K. C. of Guelph, would be on hand to prosecute the case under section 41 of the O. T. A. V. H. Furlong, of Windsor, will defend the prisoners, who are charged with having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling.

"This is the last adjournment that I will give this case," declared Deputy Police Magistrate P. H. Bartlett.

The case of Julius Siskind, charged with allowing bets to be made on his premises, was adjourned till Wednesday.

Unable to Decide.
Regarding the case of Austin Meikle, charged with brewing beer without notifying the department of inland revenue, Mr. Bartlett stated that he was unable to make up his mind about the affair as yet. The evidence was taken last week.

"Is a wash tub a brewing utensil?" queried J. M. McEvoy, K.C., counsel for the defence. "If a man buys a package of something that will turn into beer if it is thrown into a wash tub with some water, I don't think that you can call it brewing."

"It is a revelation to me that a man can do such a thing without any cost by simply notifying the department," stated the court.

"A woman who brews yeast in her own kitchen commits an offence. That is brewing, and the crock she uses is a brewing utensil, just as much as a wash tub," declared Mr. McEvoy. "I think it would be a serious hardship to convict this man, and I also think that if you think it is an offence, that the public should be warned about it."

"This is a very important matter to the public, and I don't think that the general public understands the matter."

Written Decision.
"The difficulty is in the simplicity with which it is done," continued Mr. Bartlett. "I will give a written decision in the matter on Friday."

The cases of Peter Beccaria and Steve Perione, charged under the inland revenue act with keeping stills, was adjourned until Monday to get certain information and views of the "dame."

John and Mike Bunk, scheduled to appear Monday on charges of a similar nature, had their hearings put over till Wednesday.

George Jones pleaded not guilty to stealing a bicycle from in front of the Patricia Theatre owned by Francis Baines of the Alexandra Apartments, Saturday.

Sergeant Wm. McCullough and Constable Langford told of seeing Jones with a bicycle, and the prisoner pointed out the spot
