ROUT SINN FEIN INVADERS

Crown Troops Drive Forces From Main Positions in Ulster.

London, England, June 5.—A steamer bound from New York for Fenit, County Kerry with corn and a mixed cargo, was held up in Tralee Bay by a British sloop today.

A large quantity of ammunition in barrels was seized, the dispatch states.

A Central News message says the steamer mentioned is the Seattle Spirit, and that she is now berthed at a Fenit pier.

The Seattle Spirit is a steamer of 5,783 tons gross, built at Seattle in 1919, a United States shipping board vessel.

Shipping records show her to have sailed from New York May 18, calling at Boston, whence she sailed for Cork, Dublin and Belfast.

British troops have driven the Sinn Fein invaders from their main positions in Ulster territory, and a large part of the border between Northern and Southern Ireland now is practically a battle front.

The Daily Herald prints a report from Chatham that several warships are about to leave there for an unknown destination, believed to be Ireland, and that the town is filled with naval men, under instructions not to leave port.

New dispatches from Ulster declare that feeling there has been embittered by the murder of Magistrate Flanagan, which caused a great sensation. The victim had largely sentenced many offenders under the firearms act, and had often been threatened, but had ignored the threats. He was accompanied to the cathedral at Newry, where the shooting took place, by his sister, who was one of the assailants, but the latter threw her off and escaped with his companions in an automobile into Lough County, which is free state territory, and where they consequently could not be pursued by the northern authorities.

RECAPTURE PETTIGOE.

Belfast, June 5.—Authentic details of the recapture of Pettigoe show that a British staff officer entered the village at noon yesterday and gave the Republicans holding the town fifteen minutes to leave. Some immediately departed, but about one hundred decided to oppose the military.

At the expiration of the time limit the British crossed the bridge leading into the village, and were received with machine guns and rifle fire. Then the British artillery came into action, and when the first shell landed on a hill behind the town some of the more timid of the defenders made a dash for safety. Four more shells followed in quick succession, and one, striking in the middle of a party of the retreating Sinn Feiners, inflicted several casualties.

Those who had been landed secretly from Bon Island, in Lough Erne, during the night took the Republicans in the rear, but several managed to escape through their superior knowledge of the country.

It is officially stated that but one member of the crown forces was killed.

Seven republicans are known to have been killed, while sixteen were made prisoners, including the commandant. It is understood that Belk, southwest of the Pettigoe, is still held by the republicans, but

Find Body of London Man Lying In Field

VICTIM FOUND BELIEVED TO BE CHAS. A. PEASE

Pan Clutched in Hand As If Intending To Feed Horses.

HAD WHITE RUBBER BOOTS

Notebook in Pocket Thought To Reveal Identity.

BULLETIN.
Provincial police, at noon Monday, arrested a man, giving his name as Summers, in Pottersburg, who, it is alleged, figured in the hold-up near Thamesford last night.

The other two alleged members of the hold-up gang have disappeared.

Lying in a field near Beatty Bros' foundry, Chelsea Green, the body of a man, believed to be that of Charles A. Pease, 23 Euclid avenue, was found by Howard Beatty, an employee of the above firm, about 2 p.m. Monday afternoon.

In one hand a dish was held as if the man were intending to feed horses when death overtook him, and there was a pair of wire rubber boots on the feet.

The body is that of a man apparently 55 years of age, and in a water-soaked notebook found in the clothing is the name of "Charles A. Pease or Pease, 23 Euclid avenue, in case of accident phone 6089."

Sergeant of Detectives Robert Egerton responded to the call of duty in the police car, and the body was removed to Logan's undertaking parlors.

Detective Egerton reports that there are no indications of foul play. One of the spectators who viewed the removal of the body declared that he passed the spot where it was discovered Sunday night, and that it was not there. The note book had been soaked in water no doubt from Monday morning's rain, and the writing in ink was scarcely decipherable.

The man wore a soft hat, and in the opinion of the undertaker had not been dead long.

John A. Rose, whose phone number is 6089, informed The Advertiser this afternoon that he does not know any person by the name of Pease, and is at a loss to understand why his phone number should be written in the notebook.

Mr. Rose, who is sales manager of the Hobbs Hardware Company, formerly resided at 23 Euclid avenue, the address given in the notebook.

The cathedral was crowded with pilgrims from all parts of the world, who had gathered to commemorate the third centennial of the foundation of the Congregation of the Propaganda of the Faith. The crowd was enormous, and the temperature within the cathedral was about 90 degrees. Cardinal Vico substituted for him.

Seven republicans are known to have been killed, while sixteen were made prisoners, including the commandant. It is understood that Belk, southwest of the Pettigoe, is still held by the republicans, but

GOVERNMENT SHIP IN COLLISION

Newcastle, N. B., June 5.—As the Canadian government merchantman Canadian Squatter was on her way up the Miramichi last evening she ran into the draw of the Morrissey bridge, putting the draw out of commission and endangering the lives of a number of people who had gone out on the bridge to watch the steamer pass through. There were several narrow escapes among those on the bridge.

The goods will be subject to the usual customs duty, and parcels must be limited to twelve pounds each.

ESCAPE IN NIGHTIES.

Tells London Women How To Reduce Fifty Pounds In Seven Months

"LOVE has its thrills, but these are nothing compared to the emotional reactions of a woman who finds her waistband too loose, following a period of gastronomical negativity."

So says Nina Wilcox Putnam, English short story writer and author of the new book, "Tomorrow We Die," who succeeds in keeping her income up and her flesh down.

"Once I weighed 98 pounds," Miss Putnam is speaking again. "And I was declared tubercular. After following a doctor's instructions two years I weighed 197 1-2 pounds."

"Then the doctor said the tubercular condition had disappeared. But it certainly was the only thing that was missing. Otherwise, I was all there and 50 pounds to the good."

"THEN I embarked upon the great adventure—getting thin. At first I tried everything. I ate Buns. I read 'Feed and Fade Away.' I wore Dr. Blank's rubber garments."

"Turkish baths intrigued me. Then I found a corset, strongly reminiscent of the Inquisition, which was supposed to put the stomach where the chest should be, and keep it there."

"I went in for electric and human massage, and classical dancing."

"But after all these the scales still hovered close to the 200 mark."

"Then I was driven to dieting. With the help of my doctor, I evolved a system of do's and don'ts that I found effective. By following it I lost 50 pounds in seven months."

"I believe that before following any diet schedule a woman would do well to take up the matter with her doctor."

"I advise every woman, who goes on a strict diet, to take good care of her face and massage it scientifically, otherwise it is likely to become wrinkled."

"I found that I kept my strength and pep unimpaired by eating bran bread three times a day."

"THE first month of the diet is the hardest, because you see no results."

"How often I reached out a trembling hand and surreptitiously patted the soft cheek of a roll, then withdrew it by sheer will power, leaving the little roll unharmed."

"Often the sight of a potato, even the humblest boiled one, brought tears of longing to my eyes. But bread and potatoes are the hand-maidens of avoirdupois."

"Finally 50 pounds had melted away, and I was myself again. I felt more than compensated. What arosels and potatoes against youth and lightness of foot?"

DOUBTS LAYMEN ARE FIT TO DECIDE CLERICAL TRANSFERS

John C. Hay of Listowel Voices Disapproval of London Methodist Conference Memorial To Change Stationing Representation.

Consideration of memorials proposed for submission to the floor of the general conference, together with election of delegates to that body, occupied the greater part of the Monday morning sessions of the London Methodist Conference, meeting in Centennial Church.

Defeat met the memorial setting forth equal lay and ministerial representation on stationing and transfer committees.

The attitude of the delegates who opposed the resolution, including both laymen and clergy, was summed up in the opinion of John C. Hay, of Listowel, who definitely stated that laymen were by no means enough acquainted with the affairs of the districts to undertake the execution of so important a part of the church work.

A more extensive resolution, and one which had also to do with the principle of equal representation, was adopted without comment for submission to the General Conference.

This proposed revision of the church discipline, having as its object the unified control and coordinated operation of the work of the Methodist Church, and that in this revision the principle be applied of equal representation of lay and ministerial members to and for all conference and district committee boards and courts; and further, that the largest possible amount of responsibility be placed upon the annual conference and its committees, boards and courts, with freedom to adopt and carry into effect detailed methods of procedure that will secure stability, efficiency and growth of the church.

After Drawing Up Picnic Budget, Child Loses Entire Capital of $1.60

The budget system is not confined to parliament or the London city council by any means. There is one little London girl who had a total capital of $1.60 to spend at the school picnic last Friday, and she had decided just what she was going to do with every penny, but she lost her purse Thursday night at the Springbank Amusement Park.

The purse was picked up by one of the employees and turned in to the proprietors. In it was the $1.60 and a little note book, which read like this: Cash received for picnic—Daddy, 50 cents; mother, 50 cents; auntie, 25 cents; uncle, 25 cents; total, $1.60 to spend.

On another sheet was the following: How I am going to spend the money—Roller coaster, 20 cents; Ferris wheel, 20 cents; four cones, 20 cents; pop, 15 cents; candy, 25 cents; train rides, 20 cents; anything at all 50 cents; total, $1.60.

Later in the evening a worried little girl with tear-stained eyes asked the big kindly policeman at the park if a little purse had been found. She was a mighty happy youngster when she boarded a street car for the city clubbering her "good time" for the morrow.

see that they have little cause for sneering at grandmother. She can meet them on their own ground and justify her existence as a link in their pedigree.

She was less sharp-witted, no doubt, but she was more wise.

She could not play rough games or take violent exercise, but she could bear inconvenience, tedium and suffering with more fortitude than her descendant.

And, on the whole, she was not a failure in the chief field of womanhood's successes. For men loved grandmother and laid down their lives for her as often as they do now for the women who prefer to be their companions rather than their ensnared saints.

And grandmother, when she married in her teens or early twenties, looked forward with perfect equanimity to the bearing of a round dozen of children. That her descendants, with all the alleviation of modern science, thinks differently, is the complaint of patriotic publicists in Canada.

If she had a smaller waist than her descendant and was less magnificently developed altogether, she had, as a rule, a better carriage and walked better and more gracefully, and she braved all weathers in low-necked dresses and short sleeves.

SWISS DECLINE SOVIET AS GUESTS

Geneva, June 5.—The Swiss government has refused permission to members of the soviet delegation who attended the recent economic conference at Geneva to make a short stay in Switzerland "to attend to private business."

An exception was made in the case of M. Krassin, to whom permission was given to remain in Zurich 24 hours under police supervision, the Swiss government desiring to negotiate for the recovery of one billion francs alleged to have been confiscated by the Bolsheviks from Swiss private citizens in Russia, for which no indemnity was given.

On Saturday, June 17, more than 250 travelers will solicit and leave literature and subscription blanks at every house in the city, and then on Sunday they will make the rounds again to collect the offerings of the citizens.

The city has been divided into 24 districts for the purpose, and a chairman has been chosen for each district. The chairman for the 24 districts are: No. 1, J. Harold Thompson; No. 2, A. A. Morrison; No. 3, Gordon M. Reid; No. 4, W. E. Thorpe; No. 5, A. E. Heaslip; No. 6, Oliver Gidley; No. 7, G. Morley Adams; No. 8, A. J. Smith; No. 9, G. W. Pulling; No. 10, A. W. Howe; No. 11, Charles Legg; No. 12, W. N. Manning; No. 13, K. S. Charteris; No. 14, J. A. Frezelli; No. 15, I. W. Kingswood; No. 16, W. E. Watson; No. 17, J. A.
