CORN BORER IN ELGIN BEATEN

Ottawa Officials Pleased With Result of War.
NOW HAVE UPPER HAND
Pest Will Likely Be Stamped Out In Few Years.

PORT STANLEY, Ont., August 20.—(Special to The Free Press).—That the damage from the corn borer in Elgin County will not be as serious as last year, and that with continued co-operation between the federal and provincial authorities, as well as the farmers, the insect can in a few years' time be completely stamped out, was the opinion expressed to-day by Arthur Gibson, Ottawa, Dominion entomologist.

Dr. E. Treherne, Ottawa, the field specialist of the department, following a conference with H. G. Crawford, Dominion official at Port Stanley in charge of the fight against the borer in Western Ontario, and W. N. Keenan, his assistant.

Mr. Gibson and Treherne went carefully over the work which had been done to stop the ravages of the insect, and made an inspection of many fields in the district. Treherne expressed satisfaction with the progress which had been made in fighting the borer and highly complimented Mr. Crawford for his work. They were of the opinion that through the efforts of the department, along with the provincial authorities, the district of the borer has been co-operating in the fight, Western Ontario has saved thousands of dollars. If no steps had been taken to fight the borer it would have spread all over Western Ontario, and corn as well as other crops this season might have been completely ruined.

HAVE THE UPPER HAND.
Now the Ottawa officials believe that they have the upper hand, although for the next few years there will have to be the greatest vigilance on the part of the agricultural departments of the two governments, as well as the farmers. A tribute was paid by Mr. Gibson to the willingness of the farmers to co-operate with the department. Last fall they were strongly advised to plant their corn in the best places, and this was done, and this is regarded as one of the chief factors in the prevention of the spread of the pest.

The officials advocate in harvesting corn close cropping and the burning of stubble afterwards in order to kill the larvae. They will also urge again late planting of corn next spring.

There have been signs of the borer spreading east and west along the lake shore, under the leadership of farmers from Essex County, which is probably Ontario's greatest corn producing area. It is expected that the Government Laboratory and secure advice as to fighting the borer.

The borer has also been found in Illinois, and it is expected that the two states will visit Port Stanley and Ottawa on Thursday, September 7, 1922, at the hour of 3 o'clock in the afternoon, being Lot No. 2, plan No. 323, and part of Lot No. 16, plan No. 398, S. S. Mount Pleasant avenue. On this property is constructed a good two-story brick house and store, containing six rooms and basement, together with the store and basement, with outside entrance. The house is modern, having gas, water and electric connections. The property will be sold subject to a building mortgage and accrued interest. There will be offered at the same time two good building lots on the corner of Forward and Mount Pleasant avenues. For further particulars and conditions of sale apply to F. W. RAYMOND, Equitable, authorized trustee, 18 Greene-Swift building, London, Ont. or D. H. FORSTER, Equitable, 110 Dundas street, London, Ont.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—After rejecting all amendments to the administration coal distribution bill the House voted to-day, and was forced to quit until to-morrow without reaching a vote.

Every change proposed was either thrown out on a point of order or decisively defeated. At the end of the all-day wrangle Chairman Winslow, of the interstate commerce committee, who presided over the meeting, predicted it would go through as framed.

As the House worked on the measure which its supporters claimed was all that was needed to meet the emergency caused by the coal and rail strikes, word reached the leaders that attempts to settle the anthracite strike had failed. It was reported that the Senate was ready to take up the House coal bill as soon as it was through with the bonus.

President Harding's original suggestion for the creation of a buying and selling coal agency was put before the House by Representative Anderson (Republican, Minnesota), with a provision indirectly authorizing the seizure of mines if found necessary in connection with the coal strike.

With little ceremony, the House voted on an amendment delegating the distribution of coal to the interstate commerce commission in place of a federal fuel distributor.

Berlin, August 30.—Instead of a lag day to raise money for their cause, the German studentenschaft has manufactured thousands of porcelain coins, which are sold in Germany. The first hundred thousand marks worth were manufactured last spring and have been disposed of. The coins are being made in the great Meissen porcelain works at Dresden and from their sale German student self-help organization, the Wirtschafshilfe, expects to strengthen its efforts to help needy students suffering because of the high price.

Officers of the Wirtschafshilfe recently estimated that 60 per cent of the German university students during the coming fall and winter semesters would have less than five dollars a month to live on. This is the amount fixed as the existence minimum. Such a low figure is made possible only by the co-operative dining halls, book and clothing stores operated by the student organization. The estimate was made to the party of American college men which is touring Europe investigating student conditions that with all the offers they make to help themselves and with all the aid which they expect to get from other students of the world, about 20,000 Germans will be forced to leave the university work.

The figure on the coins is supposed to represent the German student struggling to earn an education against great handicap.

PARIS, August 30.—A Jersey cow belonging to John H. Bailey, a farmer near Elora, recently gave birth to a freak calf. The head of the offspring is situated in its neck and can be seen quite plainly. The calf is otherwise normal and quite lively.

Last evening Mr. Smith-Bluff was presented with a smoker's outfit and a generous supply of smoking mixture by members of Court Harmon, A.O.F. Mr. Bluff and his family are shortly to be moving to Toronto, where he has secured a good position. The presentation was made at the recipient's home.

The Harmony Trio from London entertained with music, songs and dialogues.

There will be a complete change in the program to-night.

INSIDE REMOVAL OF THE CHURCH OF THE SACRED HEART is now completed. Rev. Father Holden is arranging for re-opening services on Sunday. Special services will be conducted throughout the day. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan, chancellor of the diocese, will preach.

A hearty welcome was tendered the new Salvation Army officer, Ensign Cosgrove, who will shortly commence his duties here.

A young lad named Gordon Fraser fell from the roof of the Agricultural Park building and broke his left arm.

PLANT TO REBUILD BANK OF ENGLAND

Buildings Hopelessly Inadequate To Hold Big Staffs.
BANK AN INSTITUTION HIGHLY RESPECTED BY PEOPLE OF BRITISH NATION.

LONDON, August 30.—Although in point of years it is a mere upstart, the Bank of England has a hold that is perhaps unique on the affections of the British nation. Even more than the Houses of Parliament, the bank stands in the nation's eyes for solidity, for respectability, for imperturbability.

Its vaults are protected, it is rumored to be believed, by devices before which the imaginations of Jules Verne pale into insignificance—its vaults have become a legend among the people of the world.

Yet the bank building which has become a tradition and, with the assistance of the masterful Greek Amphipolis and the flawless walls, make of the whole an institution.

As well might one contemplate rebuilding the Westminister Abbey or Buckingham Palace, or even the Houses of Parliament, the bank building which has become only a century ago, are hopelessly inadequate to hold the enormous staff which it now needs and which its scattered about in Lombard street, Leadenhall and other parts of the city.

Consequently, rebuilding, whether sacrificial or not, has become a necessity. The question of rebuilding, therefore, has been engaging the attention of the directors of the bank for some time, but nothing is yet settled and the whole matter will of course have to be gone into very thoroughly before anything is done. The proposal which the directors has before it at present is to build a new bank building within the old shell of the present building, but not for sentimental reasons. If the old low outer walls were pulled down and a new high, many-storied building put in their place, the occupants of the houses on the other side of the streets adjoining the bank would be entitled to huge compensation for ancient lights.

It is not, however, a matter of ancient lights which is the issue, but the fact that the bank building is such a way as to shut out the light from his neighbor's windows. The outer walls, therefore, will be left as they are, whatever happens.

That, at least, is something to be thankful for. Unfortunately, if the proposed plan is carried out, it is also true that the old building will remain the same. That is, it will no longer be the rotunda, that "St. Paul's in miniature," through which warrants were cashed in the days when application for payment had to be made in person. At the Lombard entrance the Greek Amphipolis and the great statues over the entrance to the vaults will have disappeared. True, the interior of the old building will be replaced and its figures like the most delicate Wedgwood china in the paneling of the walls, it is to be constructed in the new building. But when the directors assemble there for their daily meetings, they will be looking out upon the old garden court with its stone-flagged paths and white and gray weathered walls.

There is to be an open courtyard, certainly, in the new building, and it will contain many features of the old garden court. But what will be like with the light shut out by four towering great walls from the little tiny bronze fountain?

That is, it will no longer be the rotunda, that "St. Paul's in miniature," through which warrants were cashed in the days when application for payment had to be made in person. At the Lombard entrance the Greek Amphipolis and the great statues over the entrance to the vaults will have disappeared. True, the interior of the old building will be replaced and its figures like the most delicate Wedgwood china in the paneling of the walls, it is to be constructed in the new building. But when the directors assemble there for their daily meetings, they will be looking out upon the old garden court with its stone-flagged paths and white and gray weathered walls.

There is to be an open courtyard, certainly, in the new building, and it will contain many features of the old garden court. But what will be like with the light shut out by four towering great walls from the little tiny bronze fountain?

That, at least, is something to be thankful for. Unfortunately, if the proposed plan is carried out, it is also true that the old building will remain the same. That is, it will no longer be the rotunda, that "St. Paul's in miniature," through which warrants were cashed in the days when
