From the Free Press, Acton, Cat.

From the Iren Peres, Acton, vi.

No man is better known to the people of the counties of Ifalton and Wellington than Wellington than Welliam Humatroct, a pionere and much esteemed resident of Acton. Mr. Heastreet is a native of this county, having been horn in Tratalgar township in 1817. In his younger days Mr. Honstreet conducted a tanning business. He enbis quently engaged in the droving and butchering business, and some twenty-tive years ago, owing to his superior knowledge of the value of live stock, he took out a license as a suctioneer. In this calling he became at once popular and he was constantly on the road, driving in all kinds of weather, holding anotion sales several days a week. Although possessing a strong, healthy constitution, the continued exposure and hard work of selling some days for six or eight hours at a stretch, he gradually lost his strongth and vigor, and about three y-ars ago found himself a collapsed and worn-out man. In conversation with a reporter of the Free Press he said: "I felt that my days of usefulness were over. My strength had departed, my voice was gome, I was boo weak to on work of any kind and I was undeniably uselesse to myself or anyone-class, who differed very much in their dagnosis. I took their medicines faithfully but no improvement resulted. I did not saffer much pain but was a very zick man. Had roa specite, not strength, could not saffer much pain but was a very zick man. THE PEOPLE WHO ARE LOVED.

THE PEOPLE WHO ARE LOVED.

The people who win their way into the inmost receases of others' hearts are not sensily the most brilliant and gilted, but those who have sympathy, pationce, self-forgetfulness, and that indefinable faculty of eliciting the between the control of the patients. Note of us know of persons who have appended to us in this way. We have many friends who are more beautiful and gifted, but there is not one of them whose companiouship we enjoy better than that of the plain-faced man or woman who never makes a withty or profound remerk, but whose simple quality of humans goodness makes up for every other deficiency. And if it came to a time of real stream, when we felt, that we needed the support of real friendship, we should choose above all to go to this plain-faced man or womann, certain that we should find intelligent anymathy, a charitable construction of our position and difficulties, and and increase to acide the appond what we ought to take. If you could be surprised that the faces they ensire the chocambe beauty of appril is more than the compared with unaffected human goodness and sympathy.—The Watchman.

contributes some early recollections of Macaulay and other famous men. At her father's house the historian was a frequent guest, and we are told that he used to come in after dinner and instantly begin to talk, his words rolling out like beals of thunder and his voice penetrating through the
