

A COMPLIMENT FROM FAR INDIA.

All who are interested in the art and science of advertising will find an interesting study in this book, "The Canadian Textile Directory," upon which there does not seem to be a square inch of wasted surface. The number and variety of manufacturers in the textile line to be found in the advertisement pages will surprise any one not conversant with the magnitude of the industry in Canada and the United States, while among them, undeterred by the heavy duties imposed on foreign goods, may be found many of the familiar names of Lancashire and Yorkshire machine makers or furnishers. Canada has copied the United States Customs Tariff pretty closely, charging 30 per cent. duty on the value of machinery (packing included) and 25 per cent on leather belting. Manufactured goods must be done in proportion to the Customs duties on machinery or stores—a fact which Australians and Canadian colonists know to their cost. Among the illustrations are some examples of the work that American printers and engravers can turn out when they like. It is so perfect as to make the rest of the book suffer by comparison. Conspicuous among these are the Forbes Lithograph Manufacturing Company, of Boston, and the Canada Bank Note Company, Montreal, also the Burland Lithograph Company, Limited, of Montreal. Some idea of the thoroughness of "The Canadian Textile Directory" may be obtained from a glance at the index, which includes every branch of business connected with the textile trade, from machine makers and spinners down to retail dealers of all textile products, such as carpets, clothing, silks, felts, oil-cloth, dyestuffs, trimmings, hosiery, and even laundries. Shoddy, canvas, tents, umbrellas, tarpaulin, wood pulp, and paper makers are not forgotten, and even fur dealers find a place in this vade mecum of industrial information. Useful trade statistics are also given, including the United States and Canadian Customs Tariffs, and information regarding associations of a textile and kindred character.—Indian Textile Journal
