LORD STANLEY SWORN.

INAUGURATION CEREMONIES AT THE SWEARING IN OF THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11.—Lord Stanley of Preston was sworn in as Governor-General by Chief Justice Ritchie, in the Senate Chamber, this afternoon. There was a small gathering to witness the ceremony.

The Governor was escorted from Rideau Hall by a troup of drawcons, and received by a gnard of honor formed of two companies of the Governor-General's Foot Guards. A salute of nineteen guns was fired from Nepean Point bat-tery at the conclusion of the ceremony. Reply-ing to an address of welcome, read by Mayor Stewart on behalf of the citizens of Ottawa, His Excellency delivered an inter-esting speech filled with the usual felicitations. He was happy to think that although the vicis-situdes of political life connected him but a few months with the office of Secretary of State for months with the office of Secretary of State for the colonies, in England, those few months were not altogether unfruitful with respect to the interest of the great Dominion, of which we all now spoke as members, and he trusted to the latest period of his life his sympathies might ever be with the colonies. One principle should animate the man who wished to attain success in public life, and that was to address himself with single heartsdames to the problems with single heartedness to the problems with which one might be called upon to deal, with an carnest desire to remove difficulties, an earnest desire to soften differences if such should arise. He should endeavor to pursue that course and by the result he was content to be indeed.

After being introduced to the members of the Cabinet and the City Council His Excellency drove back to Rideau Hall, returning subsequently to spend a short time in his office in the Eastern block.

Thirteen hundred car leads of deals have been delivered at Richmond statton, Halifex since lat February last, and the shipments by vestels amount to eleven millions of feet. Freights being very low at present in American ports a large number of steamers and full rigged ships have gone into the carriage of deals, and the shipping ports of St. John, Halifax and Chatham are frequented by a larger class of versels than are usually engaged in the trade.

I he Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the British grain trade, says .- The valve of native wheats are in favor of buyers. The sales of English wheat during the past week were 45,874 quarters at 32s, against 38,856 quarters at 35 during the corresponding week last year. Flour is depressed. The best Essex sells at 21s per sack of 280 lbs., about the lowest quotation ever known. Foreign wheat is week. At Liverpool prices are down ld per cental Corn, under in-creased supplies, declined 4d per cental. There were two arrivals of wheat cargoes, Four were sold and one remains. At to-day's market wheats were sick. The best kinds were down 6d and Russian 1. Flour was 6d obsaper. Corn was 6d to 1s lower. Oats were 3d to 6d lower. Beans, peas and lineed were unchanged.

Gradually but surely the various combines afford evidences of instability and disintegration, and the oatmeal combine is again suffering from grievances at the hands of some of its recalcitrant members. We learn from a former combine dealer in this city that the Association formed for the purpose of levying a tax on porridge consumers is having a difficult time, for although the combine price for ordinary standard is $5 45 per bbl. it can be milch cows. bought for $5 20. We have repeatedly referred in our market reports of late to the difficulty in getting at exact quotations.
No sooner have we published the combine No sooner have we published the combine price for standard than we would hear of sales below it. A great dual of Manitoha oatmeal has been selling in this market during the past month or so, but it has a peculiar flavor which some consumers do not appreciate, and which is caused by the roft wood used in the brokiln drying. Ordinary Manitoba oatmoal rately, has been sold by the car load as low as $5 per Manu bbl., and at $2.421 to $2.45 in bags. It is claimed that the Manitora meal has been a great bane to the combine, its very low value having induced consumers to mee in of its rather peculiar flavor .- Trade Bulletin.

Manure should never be placed in contact with the roots when setting out a tree, but used for a mulch or top dressing.

Cover unightly places with times. Where grape vines wil not serve, there are many annual vines that can be easily grown.

Lettuce requires to be grown in a moist soil and cool westher; for this reason the best is obtained only in the spring or early summer.

Dealers and manufacturers call the longest wools combing wool, the next Delaine or medium, and the shorter staples are clothing wools, and they are graded as superfine, fine medium and coarse. Reports from various locations make it appear that the several forms of wire fencing withstood the blizzards of the past season better than any other sort. Post and rail, and the lighter board fences suffered most. Celery is often grown as a second crop among the onions, five lows of the unions being sown twelve or fourteen inches apart, and the sixth low being left vacant for the later sowing of celery seed or the acting of celery plants.

The great points to be observed in grafting are the making of smooth, clean cuts; the placing in perfect courses the inner barks of scion and stock; then the whole cut surface and every portion of the split to be perfectly covered with the graiting wax and the exclusion of air and water.

An extensive K-mass wine grower's short and plan rule for trumming grape vines. Trim away trom a 3-year-old vine in good condition all but 12 feet of new wood, divided among the different branches, and train the arms of the vine as much as possible in a fan shape on the trellis. Give and stronger vines more wood, weaker ones less.

BRINE SALTING BUTTER.

A practical advocate of brine salting for butter recommends the proportion of one-half pint of salt to a gallon of water in making the weak brine that is used to wash the butter, a little more or less salt being immaterial. Churning is stopped while the butter is in the form of granules about as large as a pinhead: the buttermilk is drawn off, and at least enough of this weak brine is put in to fluat the butter, and the buttermilk is washed out, the trine being drawn off and the process repeated till the trine runs clear. The strong brine next to be used is a saturated solution-as much sait as the water will dissolve. The washing bride is thoroughly drained from the butter, and enough strong brine is poured on to cover it. In this strong brine the butter stands till every single stom is covered with a film of bine. Great difference of opinion prevails in regard to the advisability of brine salting. As good authority as T. D. Curtis fails to see either its utility or economy as compared to applying the salt direct.

RAISING CALVES WITHOUT MILK.

We have been trying different methods to that we get a good price for types milk, from the fact that we get a good price for types milk, and generally keep only enough for table use. We have been raising calves (registered Jerseys) for three years with very little milk, and from the remarks of others our calves always look thrifty, and I am sure they are healthy—more so. I believe, than if allowed to drink milk, especially if fresh, from the cow. Our method is this: The calf if all right, is taken from the mother at two days old, right, is taken from the mother at two cays cid, taught to drink, and fed two weeks on fresh milk from its own mother. Skim milk is then added, till at the end of four weeks the fresh milk is all taken away, and a little flax-seed jelly is added to the skim milk. The calf at four weeks thus taking about two gallons of skim milk with two tablespoonfuls of jelly added, and is kept in a box stall with other added, and is kept in a box stall with other calves (which are tied), and is also tied after three or four weeks. by which time it has learned to eat dry food with the others, when it is "tied and fed regularly bran and oats, what it will eat, before feeding milk. Always keep clover hay in rack before is. When it will eat well, which is at the age of about eight weeks, milk is entirely taken away; bran, cats and oil-meal are fed dry three times a day, with plenty of clover hay in summer. They must have water always before them in winter. Twice a day they are let out to exercise and to drink; the smaller ones will follow the larger ones to the water trough. A little salt is added once a day to the feed—Country Gentlemen.

The woman suffrage movement in this country is forty years old, and there are some women who have courage to admit that they helped to start it.
