GEMS FOR THE DUCHESS.

Pearls, Diamonds and Gold.

Montreal Herald: Three hundred and sixty-six pure, flawless diamonds, a large Canadian pearl of rare beauty, set in a corsage brooch of Canadian gold beaten and enamelled into a perfect counterpart of a spray of Canadian maple leaves, will be the gift of the ladies of Montreal to the Duchess of York. The brnament, which is now completed, after six weeks' work, is a marvel of the jeweler's art. The spray Ladies of Montreal Will Present Duchess of York. The brnament, which is now completed, after six weeks' work, is a marvel of the jeweler's art. The spray of six maple leaves measures almost four and a half inches in length. No two leaves are alike in size or shape. At have been designed and enamelled directly from nature, and are as perfect imitations of Canada's national emblem as the most highly skilled workmanship could produce. Around the edge of cach leaf between fifty and sixty diamonds are embedded in the gold, while in each case the junction of leaf and branch is formed of a diamond larger and more beautiful that the others. Every stone has been specially selected and cut. The pearl, which is set at the s.art of the spray, weighs about 20 grains, and is perhaps the most perfect Canadian pearl that has ever found its way into a brooch. It was found in the Lake St. John district of Quebec, where some fine jewels from time to time reward the tireless searcher.

When presented to the Duchess the brooch will repose in a handsome chest of solld silver nearly eight inches square. The case is not yet completed. Upon its lid when finished will be carved a wreath of maple leaves encircling the arms of Montreal. A suitable inscription will be engraved upon another part of the chest. With the exception of the diamonds, which have not yet been found in Canada in any abundance overwhilds cannected.

which have not yet been found in Canada in any abundance, everything connected with the gift is purely Canadian.

The Amalgamated Journal in to-day's issue gives the result of the civic federation conference in New York. The members recommended the acceptance of the final terms of the combine, but The Journal says President Shaffer was unable to get the Executive Committee together before the expiration of the time limit. The Amalgamated Board then decided to make another effort to get negotiations started, and President Shaffer at once proceeded to ascertain what could be accomplished.

Hugert v. Bedells and Davis v. Eason were dismissed; Hecke v. Haight was fixed for Wednesday.

Of the non-jury list, Weston v. Taylor, Gillman v. Gray and Chandler v. Goettger went over to the next court; Alger v. Canadian Sportman was settled; Pherrili v. Scarborq was fixed for next Tuesday, leaving five cases to be dealt with.

The first case to come to trial was that of the Diamond Machine & Screw Company against Frank S. Jackson, to get $178.05 for money said to be paid, and $1.90 for goods sold. It was a partnership dispute. Judge Morgan gave judgment for the plaintiff for $163, and reserved his decision as to costs.

inal Court at 11.40 a.m. to-day. Judge Chetiain arrived at 11.30 a.m., and a few minutes later the nine prisoners charged with conspiracy to kill the President were led in and given seats behind a row of balliffs. Sheriff Magerstadt was present in person. Thruout the room were deputy sheriffs and detectives in plain clothes, the sheriff having determined to-take every possible precaution against trouble. The writ of habeas corpus having been complied with by the production of the nine prisoners in court, counsel then made returns in behalf of the sheriff, the chief of police and Justice Prindiville, who, according to the petition, had the prisoners under restraint illegally. The prisoners brought into court were:

Abraham Isaak, Abraham Isaak, jr., Clemens Pfeutzner, Hippolyte Havel, Henry

mens Pfeutzner, Hippolyte Havel, Henry Travaglio, Michael Roz, Martin Roznick and Morris J. Fox. Emma Goldman was not present, but Justice Prindiville had promised to follow whatever decision was made by Judge

The case was postponed until 10 o'clock to-morrow, no decision being given on any of the points raised.

may differ, but it seems to us that the judgment of these critics, harmonizing in perfect accord, counts something for true guidance when you are selecting a piano. Those who have investigated conditions know that in point of workmanship there is no piano to which as exacting care is given as to this.

Added to the experience of half a century is the up-to-date business spirit of the present day that means progress and enterprise-and thus this piano stands supreme in the Canadian piano world. A piano is not bought for a day. It ought to last for a lifetime-and if you buy one from this factory it will last a lifetime-and be a delight to you throughout all the days.
