The Grand Trunk's new freight yard, comprising the old parliament grounds property, is a busy place these June days. There are gangs of men employed in laying the material for macadam team roads, while the work of constructing the new shed and of the 16-foot platform, paralleling the sheds and running between them, is in full swing. All the tracks have now been laid.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

In moving the adoption of the report Hon. Mr. Gibson said: As the annual statement has been distributed and copies mailed to all the shareholders, it think we can, as has been the custom in the past, take the report as read. If that meet with your approval we will go on with the consideration of whatever points there may be as to which information may be desired by the shareholders present. It is satisfactory to know that we have had another full swing. All the tracks have now been add.

J. E. Cole of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is superintending the shed's erection, estimated yesterday afternoon that 15 more working days would find it complete, as well as the umbrella roofed platform. The work has been going on for only two work has been going on for only two weeks, yet in that time the foundations have been laid. The ends of which are of brick, practically finished, and the frame construction of the sides raised.

"We should be further advanced," said Mr. Cole, "but for the difficulty in getting iron trusses. There is such a widespread general demand that we cannot get our orders filled. We are expecting 20 to-more."

Mr. Cole asserts that from Portland, Me., After paying dividends amounting to $107,000 and $111,000, we added to the Similar of the sale of new stock, amounts to $601,118 for the year.

Mr. Cole asserts that from Portland, Me., to San Francisco he has not seen more than two dozen instances of facility for handling freight equal to those which the new yards will shortly possess.
