THE BIG SALE OF GOOD FURS

We are selling THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH

at Less Than Manufacturer's Cost

If you have not visited this exclusive sale of ours there is something in store for you. The principal end of the sale is composed of a shipment of $50,000 worth of furs which we purchased at our own price in New York from a big manufacturer there who was overstocked. These furs are being sold at less than the manufacturer's cost.

We have also put on sale some fur garments just received from our own workrooms and which were turned out too late for the holiday trade.

BREEDING WOULD SUFFER IF RACING SHOULD STOP

Disinterested Expert Testimony Also Endorses Theory That Betting is a Necessity.

O'l TAWA, Jan. 19 .- (Special.) -- As far as can be established by testimony, the opponents of the Miller bill to prohibit racecourse betting have shown beyond doubt that thorobred blood is necessary in horse breeding, that the standard can only be attained and maintained by racing, and that in-terference with the legal right to make wagers on the course would deteriorate

Replying to a question as to whether races were "fixed" and the results known beforehand, Mr. Ogilvie sæid there was only an infinitesimal possi-bility of such a thing. He thought it sufficient answer; to point, out that reputable owners would not remain in the business if it were otherwise.

Why O.J.C. Has a Surplus.

Hon. Col. J. S. Hendrie of Hamilton told the committee that the Hendrie estate breeds horses, but does not race them. The racing was the personal venture of his brother, Geo. M. Hendrie, and himself. Few owners in Canada made expenses meet, even with the present sized purse, and all would retire if this bill passed, as it would certainly kill racing. The fifty years of his father's racing experience had cost him several thousand dollars.

To Mr. Raney's queries about the Ontario Jockey Club's financial position, he said that the only reason for the existence of a surplus was the persecuthink is pretty well demonstrated. The supporters of the bill have not been able to offset in the slightest the strong supporters of the bill have not been able to offset in the slightest the strong showing that is made against it.

To-night Montreal sent up a deputation, including Hugh Paton, president of the Shedden Company, and director of banks and other institutions; Bartlett McLenman, president of the Montreal Transportation Company; G. W. Cook, the lumberman; Dr. H. B. Yates, Colin Campbell, A. E. Oglivie, Dr. Migneau, Col. Whitehead and W. V. Henderson, a farmer from the adjoining county. These are men of weight and influence in any community, and are practically informed on the matter at issue.

Not all were called at witnesses, but Mr. Paton, Mr. McLennan and Mr. Henderson were splendid representatives. All are breeders and owners with long knowledge of actual racing conditions, utter ignorance of which has been so frequently demonstrated this week by the counsel for the parties endeavoring to alter them by process of law.

The Montreal men made it clear that endeavoring to alter them by process of law.

The Montreal men made it clear that any action prohibiting the liberty to make wagers on the course would detrimentally affect the breeding industry. They were not aware of any evils resulting from the practice, nor did Mr. Raney particularize anything. Hamilton Club's Statement.

Mr. McLennan was able from actual experience to speak of the disastrous effect of the New York legislation on racing in that state, while betting was by no means suppressed in fact.

The calling of Secretary A. R. Loudon of the Hamilton Jockey Club resulted in several warm passages. He proof the Hamilton Jockey Club resulted in several warm passages. He pro-duced the club's statement of business, showing that the capital was $10,000, and the estimated value of land and structures between $175,000 and $200.-000. The receipts last year were: Gate, $59,400; advance information, $74,800; bar, $8350. The purses paid out were $79,850. The net profit on the spring meeting was $38,613, and the fall, $32,-257.

Quite a different aspect was put on

Quite a different aspect was put on this when it was shown in the examination by J. L. Counsell, on behalf-of-the club, that the property cost its original owners, the Hamilton Park & Suburban Co., $150,000, all of which was lost, for the early years of the club were hard struggles for existence. The present estimated value of the property would be reduced by 75 per cent. unless it was preserved for racing purposes, and every year but this the club has been in debt to the bank at the opening of the season. That would be the case again if the club made the improvements it had under contemplation.

Members Show Pique. Mr. Stratton suggested that it favor ed Mr. Raney's opponents to show tha the $95,000 in purses could not be paid out unless revenue were received from betting. There was a long argument over hearing this sort of evidence, some of the committee failing to see how t concerned the matter they are deal it concerned the matter they are dealing with.

Mr. McCarthy said he hoped it was not intended by Mr. Raney to take the line that it should be made a crime to carry on race meetings successfully.

Mr. Sinclair asked to be shown that investigation of the books of the club was pertinent to the business in hand, but Mr. Raney got past without enlightening the committee as to his purpose.

Mr. McCall was very outspoken. "My belief is," he said, "that it is a case of looking for material for raising a clamor at some future time. There is some more information I am going to ask for, particularly about the petitions for this bill, with which we have been flooded. I want to ascertain the degree of intelligent public opinion in them. I am of opinion that it is manufactured and fictitious, and I base that factured and fictitious, and I base that on the knowledge of how they were worked in my own constituency."

Adam Beck a Witness. Hon. Adam Beck was the first witness called by Mr. Raney, but he proved the case for the other side by his statement of the value of the thorobred s passed immeasurably in every desirable quality by the English thorobred.

An Example From Quebec.

Another master of hounds. A. E. Ogilive of the Montreal Hunt, said that between the close of the old Bel-Air Jockey Club and the opening of the new Blue Bonnets track there was an interregnum in breeding, and not a thorobred stallion in three counties, but it had revived since racing was reestablished.

This was due to the good purses of the Montreal Jockey Club, supplemented by an annual grant of $2000 by the provincial government for races for Quebec-bred horses.

Like Dr. Webster, he knew of nevils connected with racing, and he much preferred betting with a bookmaker to doing so with private individuals.
