PROF. BELL ALMOST READY TO SOAR

Experimental Machine to Make Its Initial Trip Next Week if All Goes Well.

HALIFAX, Oct. 14—Prof. A. Graham Bell's flying machine experiments at Baddeck, are now well advanced. It is learned from Prof. Bell that he is nearly ready to put a large machine into the air and may within the next week or so fly the machine as a kite with a sand bag, the weight of a man, attached to it. If this experiment is successful a man will be placed on the machine without a motor and allowed to glide down to the water from an elevation. Prof. Bell doubts whether he will be able to make an experiment with a motor driven machine before the cold weather comes on, though the motor and propeller are completed. He thinks it wiser to begin by raising the man into the air with the machine flown as a kite and towed by a motor boat. He proposes allowing the aviator considerable practice in gliding before putting the motor and propeller in the machine.
