CADDIES OF TEA ARE WASHED ASHORE AT MACLAREN'S BEACH
On awakening fairly early this morning and looking out towards the sea, a resident summering at MacLaren's Beach observed several large boxes cast up by the waves, apparently part of the cargo of some wrecked vessel. Hastening down, he found they were good-sized caddies of tea, and after much labor succeeded in getting one to his house some little distance away. There he opened it, but to his disappointment found that the water had soaked through the caddies of the "valley" he had thought of taking at the H. C. of L. Allusion, Ltd., as the boxes were not improved by the water, he had turned them over to the beach-keeping. He had hardly finished when he looked out again and at once became cheerful because several others were busy with the same task, and no doubt made the same discovery.

FUNERAL OF REV. F. J. McMURRAY
Many Attend Pontifical Requiem—Eloquent Tribute by Rev. F. L. Carney

With the body of Rev. Francis J. McMurray lying in state before the altar in St. John the Baptist church, where he had so faithfully served as pastor, this morning at 9.30 o'clock, old time, pontifical high mass of requiem was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop LeBlanc and a glowing tribute to his memory delivered by Rev. F. L. Carney of Fredericton. The church was draped in purple and black and filled to the doors with friends who mourn the loss of a beloved priest. In the sanctuary were members of the clergy from all parts of the diocese. The congregation was deeply moved by the words of Father Carney, who spoke eloquently upon the life of the late pastor.

The body was removed from the rectory to the church last evening and borne through two lines of parishioners to a place before the altar, where throughout the night members of the Holy Name Society maintained guard. Many of the congregation remained in the church until late in the evening as well. The vigil was finished this morning and pontifical mass of requiem for the repose of his soul began at 9.30 a. m. The service was presided over by Rev. Wm. Hogan, C. S. S. R., as deacon. Rev. A. J. O'Neill as sub-deacon. Rev. Dr. Guertin, high priest, and Rev. F. P. Walker as master of ceremonies. Included among the clergy in the sanctuary were Monsignor Belliveau, Grand Dignitary; Dr. A. W. McLaughlin, Milltown; Reverend Fathers Ryan of Woodstock, Donahue of Johnville, Gaudet of St. Marys, Lechay of Riverside, O'Brien of Northville, Howland of St. George, Savage of Moncton, McDermott of Sussex, O'Flaherty of St. Stephen, and the priests of the local churches. The Bishop announced that for a little while Rev. Father McBride would have charge of the church until a successor to Rev. Father McMurray was appointed.

Members of the congregation carried the pall—D. B. Griffith, J. McCarthy, Thomas Killen, John Sullivan, D. Hunt and J. M. Elmore. The cortege was particularly lengthy and representatives of all walks of life. Miss Nellie Colahan presided at the organ in the cathedral. The funeral procession was passing the Cathedral the organist there, Arthur S. Godson, played "Lead Kindly Light," "Agnus Dei," and the "Dead March" from Saul. Interment was in the new Catholic cemetery.

During the funeral service by Rev. Father Carney many eyes in the congregation were dimmed as he spoke so intimately of the life of their late pastor, so fondly of his memory, tracing his career from boyhood. When he had finished Bishop LeBlanc also spoke, paying a tribute to the worth of Father McMurray as priest.

"Your late pastor was blessed in having a good, pious Irish mother," said Rev. Father Carney, "whose ever watchful eye looked over his welfare and who guided and encouraged him upon the path of his inclinations to enter the church." He spoke of his studies at St. Joseph and at Quebec Seminary and of his return for ordination on January 25, 1889 by the late Bishop of St. John. I am the only one of the priests here today who was present at his ordination—our priestly friendship began on that day and was never severed.

Father Carney then went on to speak of his fourteen years "working for God at the Cathedral, part of the time as rector, until promotion came and he was sent to Woodstock. He continued there in works of zeal till he was appointed here in 1914." On the day of his ordination, the speaker said, the bishop had addressed the young levite upon the dignity, importance and duties of the priesthood, offering the holy sacrifice of the mass, to lead his people in the faith, to preach to them, to bless and instruct them by word and example. With these words fresh upon him, having received his mission from the living representative to God, he went forth to do his duty as His priest. He did it well and was especially successful and careful in instructing the young, for in them he recognized the men and women of the future.

He administered his duties faithfully and was most exact with all the sacraments. He was at his best in the confessional and loved it, not because of hearing of sins, but because he knew that the angels God were rejoicing at the repentant. He followed the words of God, going "into the by-ways and the highways teaching and spreading His blessing" going around doing good like his Divine Master. He was consecrated to the service of God and could not enter a home without bringing with him a blessing.

Father McMurray was not an orator, said Father Carney, he was just a plain, simple man, conscious of his shortcomings; but he was a great worker in the interests of his church and his people. It was always an edifying sight to see him about his duties, because he knew the power vested in him as God's representative, he did all well and carefully. He was an ideal pastor, a model to all priests of the diocese, who looked up to him with love and respect. His friends were legion, and not only was he loved in St. John, but in Woodstock, his own people and the non-Catholics as well, revered him. He died as he had lived, a life of love and reverence for God.

The day he was stricken he had offered mass, then performed a work of charity, but he was a great worker in the interests of his church and his people. It was always an edifying sight to see him about his duties, because he knew the power vested in him as God's representative, he did all well and carefully. He was an ideal pastor, a model to all priests of the diocese, who looked up to him with love and respect. His friends were legion, and not only was he loved in St. John, but in Woodstock, his own people and the non-Catholics as well, revered him. He died as he had lived, a life of love and reverence for God.

"Death has removed him from our midst. Those eyes that looked out for the sinner are now closed in death; those hands that were raised in the holy sacrifice of the mass move no longer in blessing and those feet which carried him upon so many works of charity are forever still. But dry your tears, because death with him was simply a victory—he has gone back to God from whom he came. He has rendered a glorious service to his church and his people. He has been a saintly and upright life, if he has anything to atone for, help him by your prayers—as you loved him in life, show your love also for him in death by praying for his soul. Offer your Communions, your prayers at mass, say your rosary and other prayers for him—do that and you will honor God, please God, and bring relief to the soul of your late beloved pastor."

At the close of Father Carney's address His Lordship spoke briefly of the esteem for Father McMurray, saying he possessed all the qualities of a good priest, zeal, sympathy, good example and others. He was zealous for the house of God and wherever he went he tried to beautify it and the grounds about it. "He was zealous for the salvation of souls and worried over those straying away, doing everything possible to bring them back. He was sympathetic to a high degree. When your sons died on the battlefield of France you had no better friend than Father McMurray. When some of your family were sick or died there was none better to console with you. He led a saintly life and was an influence for good. Even on the day of the picnic he was not well but he showed his power of example on account of the good cause. You have had many priests in your church and will have many more but none you will find more saintly than Father McMurray. I ask you to remember him in your prayers that he may rest in peace and that God may reward him for the good he has done."

MR. MOORE IS BADLY INJURED

Latest Report From Hospital More Encouraging—Auto Accident Last Night

John Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Moore, was seriously injured last evening in an automobile accident and was reported in a critical condition in the hospital this morning. Balfour Patterson, who was driving the automobile, and who was also injured, was able to leave the hospital this afternoon and return to his home.

Two men were proceeding along Rothesay Avenue last evening, and while turning the bend near Torryburn station, the car in some manner turned turtle, throwing Mr. Patterson into the road and pinning Mr. Moore under the car. Both were unconscious when picked up, and were hurried to the hospital. It was soon apparent that Mr. Moore's condition was serious, as his chest had been quite badly crushed, and he was injured internally. Mr. Patterson sustained slight concussion, in addition to a bad shaking up and some minor cuts and bruises.

It is thought that the accident was caused by a chain catching in the gear and thus causing the car to skid and overturn.

LATER.
A later report from the hospital is that there is a slight improvement in Mr. Moore's condition, although he had not yet regained consciousness.

BOLSHEVIKI LOSE CITY OF VENITZA

London, Aug. 12—The city of Vinnitsa in the Ukraine, 125 miles southwest of Kiev, has been abandoned by the Bolsheviki, according to a wireless message from Moscow. In Volynia anti-Bolsheviki forces have occupied the railway centre of Lutsk, southeast of Kovel.

The Bolsheviki wireless message reads: "In the direction of Zharikna we have abandoned Vinnitsa. The enemy has occupied Lutsk." Withdrawal of the Bolsheviki from Vinnitsa indicates that the Roumanians and anti-Bolsheviki have forced the Bolsheviki to retire from the line of the River Dniester in northern Bessarabia. Vienna, Aug. 12—The fortress of Dubno in Northwestern Volynia has been captured from the Bolsheviki forces by the Ukrainian army, according to Ukrainian official reports received here today.

PRESSMEN TO MEET AT 8 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Already quite a gathering of outside correspondents, motion picture men and news photo men are in the city. When all are assembled it is thought they will number about sixty, including some from London, England. Some of them got together today with W. H. Golding, director of publicity, and the way was somewhat smoothed in the carrying out of the important work they have to do here. Another meeting is to be held at eight o'clock in Mr. Golding's office in the Imperial Theatre when further organization will be carried out and arrangements made so as to help them in their work in St. John.

What's the Value of Your Life?

Every man's life has a certain definite commercial value based upon the income he is able to earn.

What is the value of your life? Let us assume it to be $15,000. This amount at 6% will produce a yearly income of $900. So you see $15,000 is not an excessive valuation.

Now, if you owned a building worth $15,000, would you insure it to indemnify yourself against its loss by fire? Of course, you would. And yet the building may never burn.

But have you taken the same precaution to protect your dependents against the loss they would incur in the cutting off of your life by death? And sooner or later that is sure to happen.

If your life is not insured for the value you place upon it, write to-day for our free booklet "The Creation of an Estate." Tomorrow you may be uninsurable.

Washington, Aug. 13—A hold-up man entering the banking rooms of the Munsey Trust Company, in the heart of the Pennsylvania avenue section, today pointed two pistols at a teller, demanding $150,000 and then, after firing one shot at a clerk, turned the pistol on himself. He shot himself in the jaw and was taken to a hospital, where the physicians say he would probably recover.

Two money orders issued at Defiance and Toledo, Ohio, were found in his clothing. When he demanded the money the teller first made a show of counting bills, then dropped behind his counter as the robber fired a bullet that pierced the coat of a clerk nearby.
