UNION CLOTHING CO. DISCUSSES MODERN METHODS OF TREATING CONSUMPTION

CHILDREN AND FINGER INFECTION.

Keeping in view the fact that the germs of infectious diseases consist of particular matter which, obeying the law of gravitation, falls upon horizontal surfaces and rests thereon until disturbed, one can imagine that, as the floor is the largest horizontal surface in dwelling rooms, the danger of finger infection, to the child, creeping upon the floor is greater than to the adult. The child's hand, moistened perhaps with the saliva from its mouth, sweeps the floor and gathers up the infectious dust which has fallen upon it and is carried to its mouth, perhaps, by its very next movement. This holds true whether the person present in the house and giving off infection is suffering from typhoid fever, tuberculosis, or some other disease.

A few years ago two German experimenters carried out some work for the purpose of determining the relation of the infectivity of the dirt beneath the finger nails of children to the presence of tuberculosis in them. They remarked that, in the mouth and nose of children, there were almost always defects in the surfaces of the nasal cavity and adenoid growths which the germs are capable of penetrating into the infant organism. Frequently the tonsils or adenoid growths serve as the portals of entry. The first tuberculosis symptoms present themselves more frequently in the spring, or at the end of the year, and in the year during which the child has been spending the most of the time in the house. Their investigations determined the fact that the dirt from beneath the nails presented a richer bacterial flora in the months of March and April than at some other time of the year, and inoculations into animals of the dirt beneath the nails of small children proved the presence of tubercle bacilli as well as of other pathogenic micro-organisms. They believe that at least a partial cause of the frequency of acute diseases of the pharynx and tonsils in children is the infection of children. In the examination of 10,000 persons the authors found in children in the period between birth and three years 84 suffering with acute lymphadenitis; between 21 and 25 years of age 15 and 15 who had trouble of this kind. These investigations indicate anew the infectivity of the dust of rooms and the dangers to which infants are exposed in the rooms occupied at the same time by persons suffering with tuberculosis. Centralblatt für Bakteriologie.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON TUBERCULOSIS.

The next meeting of the international congress on tuberculosis will be held in Washington in 1908. The first meeting of this congress was held in Paris in 1898, the second in Berlin in 1900, the third in Naples in 1902, the fourth in London in 1904, and the fifth in Paris in 1906. Dr. Lawrence F. Pick, of Philadelphia, who attended the Paris congress, delivered an address before the Tuberculosis Exhibition, which was held in New York City last winter, recommending that all milk be pasteurized before it comes from a herd which has been proved to be free from tuberculosis; but as to the doctrine of the congress there is no doubt. This is confirmed by the pathological and bacteriological exhibit. In the pathological exhibit there were specimens illustrating the growth of the bacillus in the tissues of human beings and of animals of every description. Many of the specimens were from animals in which human tubercle bacilli had been planted.

"The congress made practical application of the doctrine of the unity of tuberculosis by urging immediate steps for the extermination of tuberculosis in dairy cattle. To this every one can subscribe. To exterminate tuberculosis it is necessary to carry on the warfare against the disease along the entire line, both with human beings and animals of every kind.
"So far as could be gleaned from what transpired at the congress, there is as yet no sovereign remedy for tuberculosis, outside of good food, fresh air, rest and healthy living. Medicines, tuberculin, sera and such like are aids, but nothing more. They have their place in the treatment of tuberculosis and are valuable only when carefully and judiciously used. They are even dangerous weapons in unskilled hands. What the new treatment of Von Reining will be remains to be seen. At present it is not available, and according to

Von Behring's own announcement it cannot become available for six months or a year. The congress probably made a mistake in permitting a premature announcement to be made under its auspices.
"House infection is the key to the prevention of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis, a contagious disease, is nearly always contracted by the child in an infected home," says one of the resolutions of the congress. The question of healthy dwellings will always dominate the prevention of tuberculosis, says another. In the spirit of these resolutions the congress recommended universal registration of tuberculosis, efficient disinfection of infected houses, governmental supervision of the construction of houses and streets, removal of children from infected homes, the removal of consumptives from their homes into hospitals and sanatoria, governmental confiscation, with proper compensation, of private property which is prejudicial to health, and the establishment of hospitals, dispensaries and sanatoria for the treatment and education of people suffering from tuberculosis.

"The congress declared itself in support of the view that alcohol predisposes to tuberculosis and aids the disease in its work of destruction. It recommended a union of the crusade against tuberculosis with the crusade against alcoholism. These resolutions no doubt received their coloring from the predominance of French influence in the congress, but in substance they represent the consensus of opinion of the entire congress.
"The United States is to have the next international congress on tuberculosis in 1908. This gives us a golden opportunity. It will bring to us what all of us want, the scattered enthusiasm and the concentrated energy which everywhere we have lacked up to the present time—the inspiring influence of the whole world to stimulate us to greater work. It will give our workers an opportunity to see what the rest of the world is doing and to compare it with what we are doing ourselves. It will enable us to correct our mistakes and to get new inspiration for further endeavor. It will crystallize, as nothing else can, the scattered enthusiasm and distributed energy which everywhere is bubbling over and wasting itself in futile effort, into a concerted warfare."

NOVA SCOTIA PROHIBITION BILL TURNED DOWN

HALIFAX, N. S., March 26. — The prohibition bill introduced into the legislature a couple of weeks ago came to an inglorious ending in the house of assembly today, when it was thrown out on a technicality. The measure was brought in by E. H. Armstrong, of Yarmouth, and was given a first reading. When it came up for a second reading this afternoon, Speaker Farrel raised the point that the bill could not constitutionally be read a second time, because it contained money clauses, making a charge on the revenue.
Speaker Farrel at once said that he had been looking into the authorities and had come to the conclusion that the bill could not be read for the reasons stated by the leader of the government. He so ruled.

After the prohibition bill had been disposed of, C. E. Tanner moved the second reading of an act to amend the liquor license act.
The amendment would prohibit a licensee in Halifax from selling or shipping liquor to any person who is a resident of the province, except to licensed vendors. It requires every licensee to make a sworn monthly return to the government of the names of all persons to whom liquor is sold or shipped into Scott Act counties, and must be marked with the name of shipper, consignee and description of the liquor contained.
It is interesting to note that sixteen of the eighteenth counts of this province are under the Scott Act.

WILL OPPOSE BILL TO DAM SOUTHWEST MIRAMICHI.

FREDERICTON, N. B., March 26. — The Miramichi Lumber Company's bill to dam the Southwest Miramichi river at Boileston is to come before the corporation committee of the legislature tomorrow morning and it is likely to meet with considerable opposition. A number of North shore men composed of Hon. Allan Ritchie, Hon. J. P. Burchill and W. B. Snowball, arrived today accompanied by their son, Michael, to oppose the measure. Michael Walsh and Timothy Lynch will support the bill, as will also John T. Rueland, Charles E. Oak and Archibald Haviland. The parties held a conference this evening over the matters in dispute, but it is understood they were unable to reach an agreement.
Lieutenant Governor Tweedie visited the assembly chamber this evening and gave his assent to a number of new bills.
The reception by Governor and Mrs. Tweedie this afternoon was attended by upwards of 100 persons and passed off very successfully.

MACDONOUGH-GLEASON.

At the residence of Mrs. Fred K. Smith, sister of the bride, East street, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Miss Estella Kathleen Gleason, of St. John, N. B., and Rodney Macdonough, passenger traveling agent of the Pennsylvania railway, were married. The groom is a graduate of Yale. The happy couple have started on their wedding trip, taking in the principal cities of the south. Their tour will extend for more than a month. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonough will reside in Huntington avenue, Boston. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dewey Roberts. The bride's presents were numerous, the present from the groom to the bride was a diamond necklace. The bride, who is beautiful and accomplished, is the second daughter of Mrs. C. Gleason, 113 Princes street, this city. She is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She was attired in white crepe de chine, trimmed with old lace, and wore a bouquet of American beauty roses. Her traveling trunk was packed with trimmings of white, and a fashionable hat with blue ostrich plumes.

RICH RUSSIAN BARON KILLED BY BRIGANDS.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 25. — A member of the Council of the Empire, Baron Budberg, was driving from his estate to Revel with the intention of placing $8,000 in a bank, when he was attacked and killed by brigands. A servant was also killed and the sleigh driver wounded. The brigands drove off in the brigand's sleigh with the money.

At the station at Igren, near Ekaterinodar, six brigands took possession of the telegraph. When the train arrived they fired volleys and exploded a bomb, creating a panic among the passengers, who dared not move. The robbers killed two policemen and wounded three others, a guard, one first-class passenger and a bank messenger. From the latter they stole $31,000. Then they uncoupled the engine, drove along the line for some distance and disappeared in a forest.
