were formed into two companies, with four officers to each, and the colonel, major, adjutant, quartermaster, and sergeant-major, all taken, and formed part of the storming party. Colonel Tyler was hit in the hand crossing the open space in front of the Redan, and retired. Lieutenant Blakiston was shot in the very act of getting in through an embrasure of the Redan. Lieutenant Davidson was shot through the knee. On the parapet two officers were killed or died of their wounds, and four officers were wounded out of a total of 11; three sergeants were killed and four wounded out of 16; one drummer was killed, six of eight; and fourteen rank and file were killed, and 70 wounded out of 315. It was a fearful day's work. To show how it fell on our side, I may give the following facts:—The 15th regiment, Colonel Garrau, went into action 900 strong, against the Little Redan, and came out 510. The two chests de batteries were killed, 11 officers were killed, and 18 officers were wounded. At 1 o'clock we were down an immense number of the Russian dead in the front were officers.

The Vladimir behaved admirably on Sunday. She took up a position within range of the French battery at Inkermann. She was not seen any where, and when on the 2nd she was fired at by the 1st was tired of shooting.

When the disaster of Sebastopol became known in the provinces, St. Petersburg, they learned grieffully enough, and they met the entrance of the Emperor in the streets followed him on his way to the station with shouts of "vive le czar! vive le czar!" and "vengeance for Sebastopol! vengeance for Korsnik!"

Austria, Prussia, Saxony, Denmark, and Spain, having been invited to send troops to assist Russia, refused to do so.
