

TO THE SUBSCRIBERS TO WYCLIFFE COLLEGE.

The Treasurers have great Pleasure in making the following statement of the amount received and expended upon the work during the year covered by the following report. When they remember the depression in many branches of trade and business, and the great scarcity of ready money during the past year, they again feel thankful that they can send you a statement showing all debts cleared entirely away, and a balance to the good. It only serves to prove the fact that Wycliffe College and its work holds a place very near to the heart of the laity of the Church of England; and that, no matter at what sacrifice to themselves, the laity are still determined ever to carry forward this telling work for the Church and Master they love.

The Treasurers would take this opportunity of reminding the friends of the College, as they have done in the past, that for two-thirds of its most important work it is dependent upon the voluntary annual subscriptions of those who feel the importance of its distinctive teaching. The work is growing with an ever increasing rapidity, so must the support. They earnestly ask for renewed energy on behalf of the college. They would further ask that those who are good enough to subscribe to the funds of Wycliffe will, whenever possible, send their subscriptions PROMPTLY. It involves time and expense of postage, as well as great inconvenience in managing the finances of the College when these are delayed. With great confidence they commend the work to you for another year which has now opened upon us.

S. H. BLAKE,
STAPLETON CALDECOTT,

Treasurers.
