WIT AND HUMOR.

The woman who has a handsome bonnet always carries her parasol high in the air.—Philadelphia Herald.

West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment is a remedy that no well regulated household should be without, as it is a positive cure for rheumatism. It is invaluable for sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds and all diseases requiring external application. 25 and 50c. per bottle. All druggists.

The fat woman at the dime museum may not be "all wool," but she is generally "a yard wide or more."—Norristown Herald.

West's Liver Pills, the world's best remedy for liver complaint, sick headache, indigestion and dyspepsia. Purely vegetable, sugar coated, 30 pills, 25c. All druggists.

"Are cigars offensive to you, madam?" he asked. "Them five-cent kind is," she replied, with her nose in the air.—New York Sun.

Thousands of testimonials and an increasing demand attest the popularity of West's Cough Syrup, the popular remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Try a 25c. bottle. All druggists.

The melancholy days have come,
Which make young men look blue;
Saloons display the double sign,
Ice cream and oysters, too.

West's World's Wonder, the magic cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, cuts, burns, bruises, wounds and all diseases requiring an external remedy. 25 and 50c. All druggists.

The latest gem in the line of coroner's jury verdicts comes from Dakota, where a jury found that "she came to her death from a felonious desire to reach a happy hereafter."—Alta California.

West's Liver Pills, a never failing remedy for all liver and stomach diseases. Purely vegetable. All druggists.

Clergyman (overtaking young couple of his congregation on their way to church)—Won't you and your friend get in and drive with me to church, Miss Blanche? Miss Blanche (innocently)—Oh, no, I thank you; we only go for the walk.—Life.

Consumptives, do not despair. There is hope. Try West's Cough Syrup. It will always cure in early stages. Procure a dollar bottle of your druggist and be cured.

"Laura," said Mrs. Parvenus, on the hotel piazza, to her daughter—"Laura, go and ask the leader of them orchestras to play that 'Sympathy from Meddlejohn over again. It's such an awful favorite of mine and your father's, too!"—Boston Traveler.

Wonderful is the effect of West's World's Wonder or Family Liniment in rheumatism, sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds and all diseases requiring external application. It stands without a rival. 25 and 50c. per bottle. All druggists.

If eastern journalism wants to keep pace with the enterprise of the young and vigorous west, it must dish up its news in this shape: "Rev. William Wacks, the evangelist, went gunning for sinners at Hayfield and bagged 500 converts in four week."—Norristown Herald.

Beware of calomel and mineral poisons. West's Liver Pills are purely vegetable. Always reliable and effectual. All liver diseases readily yield to this magic power. All druggists

A man from Detroit silent sat on third base,
Singing 'Cago, Chicago, Chicago.
In vain did he wipe the hot tear from his face,
Singing 'Cago, Chicago, Chigago,
"Is it weakness of pitching or muffing," I cried,
"Or a big lot of base hits all on the wrong side?"
He sang very faintly and slowly he died:
Chicago, Chicago, Chicago.—Life.

West's Cough Syrup, pleasant to take and always gives satisfaction. Do not be put off with any other but insist upon having West's Cough Syrup. Genuine wrapped only in blue, three sizes. All druggists.

A canine with a tin can attached to his tail by a stout cord passed hurriedly down street. "Is that dog mad?" inquired an anxious pedestrian. "Well," responded another, "I caught a glimpse of his countenance as he passed by, and he didn't look the first bit pleased."—Pittsburg Despatch.

A MODERN MIRACLE.—In a recent letter from R. W. Dowton, of Deloraine, Ont., he states that he has recovered from the worst form of Dyspepsia after suffering for fifteen years; and when a council of doctors pronounced him incurable he tried Burdock Blood Bitters, six bottles of which restored his health.

You will always notice that when there is nothing about the garden to cut the grass with but a common break-back sickle the wife always does the work; but when there is a new patent lawn mower, the man of the house is always very willing to accept the responsibility.—The Judge.

A SPEEDY CURE.—As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it, and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits.

The following notice is posted on a fence in Morris county, Texas: "If any man's or woman's cows or oxen gits in these here oats his or her tail will be cut off, as the case may be. I am a Christian man and pay my taxes, but d——n a man who lets his critters loose, say I."—New York Tribune.

FATAL ATTACKS.—Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of diseases, are those incident to the summer and fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Bilious Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand, for use in emergency.

The rude brakeman again. "Is this this the right train?" a lady asked of a brakeman the other day. "Where are you going, ma'am?" replied the brakeman. "None of your business sir," retorted the lady. "I shall report you to the superintendent for impudence." And she actually did.—New York Tribune.

ANOTHER LETTER

From Mr. James Lemont—Hunting for Lodgings in London.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—For a person intending to stay any length of time in a large city, by far the cheapest as well as the most comfortable way is to take lodgings; accordingly, we had only spent one day in London when we decided to seek more commodious quarters than the little room allotted to us in the hotel. I happened to have a friend residing in the north western district, and he strongly advised us to take lodgings somewhere near him as the place is convenient to the underground railway and several important bus routes so that we could get to any part of the city in a very short time, and at the same time it is near the parks, thus we had combined the advantages of city and country. Saturday morning we spent in scouring the neighborhood accompanied by our friend whom we allowed to do the talking for us, as he was an old hand at the business. Hunting up lodgings is not generally considered a very pleasant employment, but we had enough amusements out of our morning's occupation to cause us to think of it since with much pleasure. Half the houses in the neighborhood seemed to have the sign posted up in their windows "furnished apartments" or "departments to let furnished," and I think we must have visited almost as many as twenty-five or thirty places before we made final choice. At the first house we went to we were shown very nice rooms, and as all the houses seem to be built on nearly the same principle in describing one I describe all. A flight of four or five steps leads us to the front door, and there is a basement much below the level of the street. Very often there is a little green spot in front of the house, and there is an iron railing to protect the passer by from falling into the depths of what is called the "area" below. The houses are narrow, each flat, with hallway and stairway, consisting of two rooms, a good sized sitting room in front and connected with it by folding doors with bedroom in the rear. In nearly every place we found fireplaces and marble mantles, above which in the sitting room was the invariable large mirror; opposite to it was as invariably to be seen a large sideboard. Iron bedsteads appear to be the universal fashion. Most of the houses are furnished with gas although hitherto in our travels we had found candles even in the large cities to be the favorite method of lighting. As for terms our first landlady asked for two rooms, fairly well furnished, sixteen shillings per week. In this country however, these places are run on a different system from anything I know of in America. The sum paid includes, besides the actual rent of the rooms, a fair amount of attendance and the trouble of preparing what meals a lodger prefers to take at home. For meals the landlady charges, or is supposed to charge, only the actual first price of the articles used. Lights are not considered extra in summer, the only extra charge being for boots one penny a pair. If we had been alone, I suppose we would either have taken the first place as the price seemed reasonable, or have talked for half an hour to try and invent some excuse for not taking it, but our friend merely said, with the utmost urbanity, that we were looking around, and if we decided on this place would call again very shortly. Our second visit was to a house on the Eventon Road, strongly recommended by our friend as the abode of two very nice girls, whom he was accustomed to see passing his house every day. The younger daughter came to the door with a sweet smile and invited us to inspect their rooms. There was a front bedroom on the third flat, a bedroom on the second flat, and a tiny sitting room on the first floor, all of which we could have for twenty shillings, a very nice place if the rooms had not been so separated. On visit number three, we were shown two not very clean looking rooms by a servant, who told us the "Missis" was out and that she could not name any price, but the price had been a pound a week but she thought the Missis would take less, as they had been unoccupied for some time. We decided that as far as we were concerned they would still remain so and left for fairer regions, to wit, a house where a clean looking little woman came to the door and told us she had two rooms to let on the first floor. We had found out by this time that the first floor or drawing room floor as they called it, does not mean first flat but the second, the one below going by the name of ground floor. The first floor we also found was considered the most desirable, the ground floor ranking next. These were certainly nice rooms and contained a piano in addition to their other attractions but twenty-five shillings was a little bit steep. We also noticed a baby carriage in the hall not a very favorable sign, and one which showed the landlady to be lacking in circumspection or she would have left it out of sight. I might add that in the house which we subsequently chose the landlady showed more circumspection and had the baby carriage quite concealed from view, but we have since caught frequent glimpses of it and ascertained that there are no less than four children in the house of whom the eldest has reached the mature age of four and a half years. The piano we had seen, however, opened up new vistas. We had not thought of that before, and now as we were both somewhat musically inclined, we thought a piano would be a great acquisition, anyway it would do for an excuse in case of any house we did not like. We were having a streak of luck our friends told for he had never before struck so many good places in such a short time. Indeed we began to think that memory and mental observation were not enough, and our friend pulled out his note book and jotted down the different places, with remarks something like this. Thirty-three Blank street Good, 16s., or 17 A. Eventon Road. Three rooms, young ladies, 20s, or again, 63 Blank street, ground floor, clean, piano. Our luck ceased after the next place that was one that could hardly fail to suit any taste, the lady could give us the drawing room floor with either two beds or one, or two rooms on the second floor, or one large room on the second, this latter for only fourteen shillings. Of course she would not charge anything for lights as the evenings were short, but of course she would have to charge extra for boots, or fire, and of course she could have let her
