

SCRATCHED DAY AND NIGHT

Lady Suffered Tortures with Itching Scalp Humour—One Box Cuticura Soap and One Cake of Cuticura Ointment and One Cake of Cuticura Soap Cured Her.

WILL NEVER BE WITHOUT CUTICURA

"My scalp was covered with little pimples and I suffered tortures from the itching. I was scratching all day and night, and I could get no rest. I washed my head with hot water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment as a dressing. One box of Cuticura Soap and one cake of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap cured me. Now my head is entirely clear and my hair is growing splendidly. I have used Cuticura Soap ever since, and shall never be without it. (signed) Ada C. Smith, 309 Grand Street, Jersey City, N. J."

Let Baby Sleep.
A young infant ought to spend the greater part of its time asleep. In fact, the two great duties of its life are feeding and sleeping, and the second ought to occupy much more time than the first. Never allow a baby to be aroused from its sleep even to see the most important of visitors. Remember that it is often politeness and not affection which makes people ask to see the baby and do not let the little one be aroused from its slumber. When it has rested long enough it will wake naturally, but to the suddenly aroused often causes a considerable shock to its nerves and injury to its health.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled In The Kidneys.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected. Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows: "It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings."

Doan's Kidney Pills may be procured at all dealers, or will be sent direct by mail on receipt of price—60 cents per box, or 9 for $1.25.

MR. SIFTON TO STAY OUT

Will Not Re-Enter Cabinet Although Premier Wants Him.

Autonomy Debate, When Resumed by Mr. Sifton, Will Be Continued From Day to Day Until Vote on Mr. Borden's Amendment—British Columbia Legislature Regrets Interference With Education Rights of the New Province.

Ottawa, March 28.—Mr. Henri Bourassa of Quebec will to-day resume the debate on the autonomy bill, which will be continued from day to day until concluded by the division of Mr. Borden's amendment. The bill will then be considered section by section in committee of the whole House.

R. L. Borden has received a telegram from Victoria, B. C., stating that the Legislature of British Columbia has adopted without discussion a resolution regretting interference by Parliament with the rights of the new Province of the Northwest with regard to education.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice that for the remainder of the session Government business is to have precedence on Mondays after private bills and questions by members.

Sifton to Stay Out. It was stated pretty freely among the Western members last night that, although his friends have urged him to draw his resignation, and the Prime Minister would like to have him back, Mr. Sifton has decided not to re-enter the Cabinet.

After passing the Ottawa electrical bill, which took up most of the afternoon sitting yesterday the House concurred in the Senate amendments to the Molsons Bank bill.

There was a lengthy discussion upon Mr. Geoffrion's bill respecting the jurisdiction of the Exchequer Courts in the matter of railway debts, a subject affecting the Province of Quebec mainly. The bill was killed after the suggestion of the Minister of Justice.

Lancaster Left Again. Mr. Lancaster's bill to regulate the speed of railway trains or compel adequate protection to be afforded at crossings in cities, towns and incorporated villages was strangled in committee by a vote of 42 to 12.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, in the course of a discussion at the close of the sitting, intimated that he was favorable to the placing of express companies under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission.

Rural Telephone Do the Work. Ottawa, March 28.—Alphus Thayer, of Green River, Ontario, gave evidence before the special telephone committee yesterday morning. He told how he organized an independent telephone company running from Markham eastward to Locust Hill, thence to Green River and on to Whitewater and Brougham. The company has 14 miles of line. It bought the poles and erected them and gave the contract for stringing the wires and installing the machinery to a company. The fourteen miles cost the twenty subscribers $48 per subscriber, which amount covered the total cost of construction and left no further expense except for maintenance. The line is working well. Among the subscribers are eight farmers, five business men, two doctors, one veterinarian and some stock breeders.

Mr. Hoover, in the course of further examination, declared that there was no reason why local or municipal telephone companies should not be successfully established and operated at very moderate rates.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Most Interesting of All. I want to know what makes the bark grow on some trees so thick; to find just how a cat sees in the dark, and why an owl all day is blind. I want to know the reason for the bullroar's deep voiced racket when the moon comes up along the shore; why a mouse jumps a horse a ham. I want to know a lot of things. Like these—to get the experts' views. But not just now. I've got by jingles. To keep up with the baseball news. —Judge.

Unalighted. "What is the difference between the amateur and the professional poet?" asks the seeker after information. "The amateur," explains the horse editor, "calls his work 'poetry' and the professional refers to his output as 'verse'."

"I know," stolidly remarks the inquirer. "But what is the difference?" —Chicago Tribune.

Least You Forget. See such engagements are fragile things. Counterfeit bonds that bring genuine rings. Hedge lightly spoken. Conveniently broken. Leaving no heartaches, no scars and no stings. —Buffalo Express.

A Half Too Often. He—Yes, I inherited all my rich uncle's money, thanks to his passion for travel. She—But what had that to do with it?

He—Everything. He crossed the ocean nineteen and a half times. Woman's Home Companion.

The Driving Cloud. "Oh, prithee note the driving cloud; 'Tis up there in the sky." "Why driving?" "Cause it holds the rain." And that's the reason why? —Collier's.

Against the Veil. He—I don't like to see a bride wear a veil. She—You don't? He—No; I don't. Why, you can't see whether she's laughing at the groom or crying for him.—Yonkers Statesman.

Illumination. The moon shines blandly through the night. It gives the soul a joyous thrill To think of getting all that light With no one sending in a bill. —Atlanta Constitution.

A CAUSE OF HEADACHE

One Very Common Cause, Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom; derangement of the stomach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain or ill fitting glasses all produce headache and if we could always locate the organ which is at fault the cure of obstinate headaches would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head, and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of such headaches and a new internal remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like red gum, blood root which act upon the blood and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural channels.

Miss Vera Kinney, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headaches and eulogizes Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered from severe frontal headache and pain in and back of the eyes, at times so intensely as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh, more or less, for years, but never thought of the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the case because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure and after using a few fifty cent boxes which I procured from my druggist's I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package, under the guarantee of the proprietors that they contain absolutely no cocaine—found in so many catarrh cures—no opium—no harmful drugs. They contain simply the wholesome antiseptics necessary to destroy and drive from the system the germs of catarrhal disease.

The Paris Alibi Omelette. In Paris there is an institution which calls itself an "alibi office." It undertakes to prove that when one is really hiding in Paris he is at Biarritz or some place equally remote. The patron of the "alibi office" writes letters ostensibly from any address and the "alibi office" has them actually posted there, so that when they arrive in Paris they bear the right postmarks. This agency, moreover, offers its subscribers the advantage of an address in "the most aristocratic quarter of Paris" to which their correspondence can be sent, which will be opened by the management when the subscription is not forthcoming.

Pepper Not Used. An observant hunter will notice that, although the most common of trees in most shooting districts, poplar is never used about the camp. Many a time have young fellows on their first expedition undertaken to lend a hand in setting up the tent at night, and to that end have brought in forked stakes of the clean, white wood.

On one excuse or another they are almost invariably laid on one side and tent poles obtained from another tree. Or a green hand will set up poplar sticks on which to sling the pot. The cook always has a reason ready for discarding this wood. "If by any chance he should not notice it, and the pot tilts over, the boudoir burns or the tea is smoky, there will be a hasty palaeolithic upon the unlucky poplar sticks. The men are by no means ready with an explanation of these superstitions, and when questioned will content themselves with a laughing rejoinder.

"Didn't you know that? I thought everybody knew the poplar always brings bad luck to the men who use it about a camp fire."

But the probability is that the red man noticed the continual restless movements of the leaves of the aspen, and feeling his senses irritated by the incessant motion set it down as bad medicine. The poplar is a brittle, quickly rotting wood, which furnishes a further reason for disliking it.

Tent poles are never drawn from the ground when camp is struck. The old idea of helping the next man to a home makes it almost a crime. Poplar sticks, pretty sure to decay at the bottom within a month or two, would be a poor gift to make to a party of travelers setting up their canvas lodging some dark night.

Some guides go so far as to discourage firing at birds' roosting on a poplar tree. Often when bad shooting is made at treed birds the guide will laugh in his peculiar way.

"Couldn't expect anything better firing at a poplar tree." It would be rash, however, to assume with some observers that there is here any connection between this superstition of woodsmen and a tradition that the leaves of the poplar tree have quivered ever since the crucifixion because from its wood the cross was made.

The Malcontent Moose. Among the Indian guides the idea prevails that the moose exerts a malevolent influence in the woods. If, as sometimes happens early in the season, a big bull moose charges with a wild rush through the camp, scattering firebrands and pots with its feet, the Indian guides cover in terror before it. As likely as not they will refuse to go further with their employers and will beg to be released from their contract.

If possible the Indian hunter will not shoot at the moose from the front or from where he can be seen. That this contingency may be avoided one of the guides will attract the attention of the moose by shouting.

GUIDES' SUPERSTITIONS

CHICKADEE SINGING IN FRONT OF YOU MEANS BAD LUCK.

Declaration of an Old Canadian Woodsman—Some of the Good Signs for Hunters in the Woods—Call of the Wood Pigeon or the Wood Dove Is Supposed by Them to Forebode a Good Day.

Many and curious are the superstitions of the guides and hunters of the northern woods of Quebec Province. An old half-breed woodsman who was in the lead of a shooting party the other day stopped, after they had traveled a hundred yards from camp, with the declaration that his companion would direct the party that day, as he was obliged to return.

"Maybe he heard something," was the only explanation the younger man would give of his action.

At night when the sportsmen came back empty handed, the graybeard gave his reason for his failure and also for their non-success.

"I heard the chickadee singing right in front of us, and that always means bad luck, you know," he said.

The man who hears the bird's song first must always go back or some accident may happen. The others might as well accompany him, for they will get no game.

One of the most curious of the superstitions of the guides is the shooting of a cousin of one of the guides. He had been taking sportsmen to a good place for ducks.

Laughter at Chickadee Singing. "He always was a mad-headed fellow," his relatives explained. "He never would be guided by anything. He laughed about hearing a chickadee sing one morning, and before long he had nearly killed the man he was working for."

On the other hand, the call of the wood pigeon or wood dove is good medicine, as the Indians say. Many creatures will die that day if the fortunate hunter hears its cooing early in the morning.

The worst of it is that death may possibly strike some member of the party as well. The guides remember the fact that when a well known hunter was found dead in his shack years ago his attendants noticed a wood dove's nest right above his embowered retreat.

He had had wonderful success that season, and in one month had killed more game than in his whole lifetime. Every day the pigeon called him to renewed success.

The hoarse squawk of the raven often means good sport for hunters. Although a bird of evil omen, it is the game upon which the bad luck will fall, unless there are other bad signs noticed. For instance, if the chickadee chirps when the raven calls for "porrk," it means bad times for sportsmen. And if on an ordinary trip through the woods a raven is heard, look out for falls, breakages or accidents of more serious character.

His Hand against a Tree or by Breaking a tiny twig.

A diminutive dog is sometimes taken along. The lordly moose declines to flee from such a puny foe, but strikes at the dog with his murderous forefoot, the hunter meanwhile getting aim at a vital spot.

At the moment of firing an invocation is often shouted out, imploring the forgiveness of the moose, and giving some good reason—such as the lack of meat—for the intended killing. It is to be remembered that the Indian boggy, the Windigo, is in form a moose, which probably accounts for the superstitions still found in the woods regarding the animal.

The black bear is generally considered in the light of the clown of the forest menagerie. His appearance is hailed with a chuckle, and though respected for his strength and tenacity of life, he may always be attacked and killed.

Good luck is pretty certain to come to a camp where the carcass of a black bear is strung up. But if it is possible the Indian guide will invariably have a word or two of badinage with Pete before killing him.

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption" provided or by the Prince of Wales was recently addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited consumption. There may be local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in that weak spot before consumption can ensue. This ought to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or "weak lungs." They are not foreordained victims of this dread disease. All that's needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People, given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding at the lungs with obstinate, lingering coughs, are being cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

Uniform good temper sometimes means want of aggressiveness.
