

SEVEN NURSES GRADUATE AT BELLEVILLE GENERAL HOSPITAL

Interesting Ceremony at Institution Last Evening—Presentation of Diplomas—Addresses by Mayor Willis, Provincial Health Officer Dr. McCullough, Dr. Gibson and Mr. J. W. Johnson—Musical Programme and Refreshments

The tenth graduation ceremony at Belleville Hospital took place last evening in the nurses' parlor in the presence of a great number of citizens. The room was crowded and a most enjoyable time was spent.

- GRADUATES NOV. 1914. Miss Maud Caldwell, Miss Pearl McBride, Miss Vera Johnson, Miss Edna Pickering, Miss Nina Smith, Miss Hattie Stacey, Miss Lena Phillips.

Mayor J.F. Willis, K.C., occupied the chair, the seven graduates being seated on the platform in the position of honor. The Rev. R. C. Blagrove offered up prayer for the graduating ceremonies and for all nurses in this time of crisis.

The chairman said that as usual, and in all the work of the institution the men appreciate the success of their efforts. The Mayor paid high compliment to the conveniences and organization of the institution, and particularly to Miss Greene, the Superintendent, the W.C.A. and other supporters of the institution.

The nurses have been working and studying for three years and are now qualified to help the sick. It is among the greatest work of humanity—helping the weak and suffering. They will do their work well.

SCHOOL TRAINING REPORT. Miss Greene, superintendent of the hospital, said that the tenth graduation class. The first graduation ceremonies were in 1895, and the rule is that they take place every two years.

Free from the thrill of a student's life and the watchful eye of the superintendent. The nurse may become herself satisfied in the work. The key to success is work, work, work. The nurse must show ability to meet emergency. Nursing has no goal. It is progress.

Success in any walk of life is obtained by work. Study the habits of society and business men and you will find that work is the key. Good common sense must go along with the work. If the nurse does not perform her duty, she leaves her profession open to criticism.

MR. J. W. JOHNSON, M.P. Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P. said he was proud of Dr. McCullough. He referred to the water problem of Ottawa. Mr. Johnson took the ground that the Legislature was beyond and above the city council of Ottawa that it would say Ottawa must provide pure water for its citizens and for its citizens and for its visitors.

PROVINCIAL HEALTH OFFICER. Dr. McCullough, Toronto, Provincial Officer of Health, the next speaker, expressed his gratitude at the opportunity of making his first visit to Belleville. It is not the larger hospital that gives the nurses the best training. In the smaller institution such as Belleville possesses vital training for individual nurses.

MINERALS. BELLEVILLE ASSAY OFFICE. Ores and minerals of all kinds tested and assayed. Samples sent by mail or express will receive prompt attention. All results guaranteed. Office and Laboratory corner of Blesker and Victoria avenues, East Belleville. Telephone 399.

DANCING. MR. T. RAMSEY'S Academy, Front Street. Will Hold Classes Every Wednesday and Saturday Nights. 4-Piece Orchestra.

FLORISTS. ROSES: ROSES: ROSES! Come and see them in bloom now and make your selections for next year. THE BELLEVILLE NURSERIES. Phone 218.

LET US DEVELOP AND PRINT YOUR FILMS. WE KNOW HOW. THE BELLEVILLE PHARMACY. The Kodak Store.—Bridge St.

The young ladies are entering upon an onerous life. They will need discipline, training, patience and almost saintliness. Work is perhaps more difficult in private homes than in hospitals. The nurse must co-operate with the physician. The successful nurse must

NOW FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Is Affecting our Live Stock Values

The following article on the dreaded foot and mouth disease, and other timely topics, from the pen of John Campbell, Fairview Farm, Woodville, Ont., will read with interest. No man in this province is better qualified to discuss matters of import to the great farming class.

No one year in Ontario's past live stock history, has brought so many disturbing influences to bear on values, as the twelve or thirteen months gone by. A little better than a year ago the Americans threw overboard all tariff barriers, and opened wide their markets to our surplus stock.

The Prof. of Health, congratulated the young ladies on their calling and urged them to live up to their opportunities. Soles—Mrs. A. P. Allen. ADDRESS BY DR. GIBSON

Dr. W. J. Gibson, the next speaker laughingly said that he was a "ways beggins". One local essential today is an X-Ray apparatus, which is now used in most hospitals. On some future occasion, an appeal may be made for an X-Ray equipment.

At once our markets flattened out. In Toronto the better grades of cattle which formerly found the most profitable markets in Buffalo and New York were held over every after day. The hogs dropped from the high spot some months ago, $3.00 per 100 pounds live weight.

The Canadian demand for lamb, ever and constantly increasing, coupled with the extraordinary Canadian and European demand for wool, is making sheep all the more valuable. The world is now promising to continue for many years to come.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders.

At the hour set for the service the choir advanced up the main aisle followed by a number of clergymen chanting the solemn order for the burial of the dead. Rev. Canon Beamish, rector of the church, led in prayer, after which the congregation joined in the singing of the hymn "Peace, Perfect Peace."

THE ALLIES' RESOURCES. That the Allies have not been correspondingly weakened is plain enough. Leaving out of account the Belgian army, which is growing smaller each day, but is each day becoming more dangerous on account of the lessons that the war has taught, the fact remains that up to the present time the British, French and Russian troops trained upon the field. Heroically as the British contingent is fighting, the truth is that it is but an advance guard. In four months there will be another million trained British soldiers at the front, and another million will be training. The reserves of the Allies have hardly been called upon, and as far as Russia is concerned, her resources in men are practically unlimited.

As Col. Maude says, German statistics are not secret. The total population of Germany is in round numbers 62,000,000 of which almost half are males. Of the 34,000,000 males 11,000,000 are either less than 15 years old or more than 70, leaving 17,000,000 of an age to bear arms. From this number again must be deducted the criminals, the maimed, the blind, the insane and others who are negligible as combatants. At the outbreak of the war the most

Walter Hal Brought $800. The price paid for Walter Hal, the fine track animal sold by Mr. Parks of the Dominion Construction Company to Mr. Crowe, of Toronto, was $800.

Mr. D. V. Sinclair is in Montreal today, on business. Mr. Thomas Montgomery, reeve of Rawdon, is in the city to-day.

Queen Alexandra School. Yesterday afternoon, the pupils and staff of Alexandra school, met in their assembly room, and spent a pleasant and profitable half hour, in singing patriotic songs, led by Mrs. J. P. Allen and Mr. Stephen Burrows. The first number, "The Maple Leaf" was sung as only loyal young Canadians can sing it. It followed "The Britannia" which all present were sorry the Kaiser could not hear. The heartiness of "Lipperary" would lead one to believe the singers were all Irish. Before concluding with the National Anthem, Mr. North the Principal, on behalf of the school, tendered Mrs. Allen and Mr. Burrows, a hearty vote of thanks for their kindness in so ably assisting them.

MR. THOMAS MONTGOMERY, REEVE OF RAWDON, IS IN THE CITY TO-DAY.

WALTER HAL BROUGHT $800. The price paid for Walter Hal, the fine track animal sold by Mr. Parks of the Dominion Construction Company to Mr. Crowe, of Toronto, was $800.

Advertisement for DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. THE ALL-KIDNEY-DISEASE. DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. THE ALL-KIDNEY-DISEASE. DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. THE ALL-KIDNEY-DISEASE.

After the War--What?

When the war is over, what then? Are there good times or hard times in store for us? Will the era of high prices continue, with steady work for all, or will we experience a setback that will keep us poor for years?

The answer to that question is very largely in our own hands. It depends on us Canadians—not on the few in high places, but on every one of us.

Every year we are importing hundreds of millions of dollars worth of goods, much of which could be produced just as well in Canada.

Suppose they were produced here. Think of the number of workmen who would be employed. Think of what it would mean in wages, and money kept in circulation. Think of what it would mean to our farmers, to our shopkeepers—to our builders, to everybody.

Think of what it would mean to you. They can be produced here, they will be produced here, if you just stop and think every time you make a purchase. Think, say and see that you get

Germany's Supreme Effort is Over

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

Writing in the Sunday Times three weeks ago, Col. F. N. Maude, C. B., gave some encouraging statistics to the pessimists who feared a German invasion of England, or who believed the wild tales about Germany having a great number of picked troops in reserve for the purpose of a final and successful assault upon the Allies' lines in Flanders. He showed conclusively that already Germany had put her best fighting men into the battle line, and that by no possibility could the lines of the Allies be subjected to such fierce attacks in the future as they successfully repulsed in October. In other words, Germany has shot her bolt; she has made her extreme effort, and unless we are to assume that her enemies have been correspondingly weakened in their power, for at that time a good deal of resistance there is not the slightest ground for any feeling of uneasiness. In fact, there is reason to believe that the crisis has been passed, and that however desperate and bloody may be the fighting before the end of the war is reached, the tide has already turned, and nothing but a miracle can save the German armies from utter destruction or unconditional surrender.

OBSERVICES OF REV. CANON BOGERT WERE HELD TO-DAY

(From Saturday's Daily.)

The funeral of the late Rev. Canon David Ford Bogert was held this morning. At three o'clock yesterday afternoon the body was brought to St. Thomas church where it lay in state until the funeral service had been held.

The remains were taken by the noon train to Brockville for interment in the family plot. At the hour set for the service the choir advanced up the main aisle followed by a number of clergymen chanting the solemn order for the burial of the dead.

The chief mourners present at the funeral were Mr. Clarence Bogert, Toronto, General manager of the Dominion bank, and Mr. Mortimer Bogert, of the Dominion bank, Montreal. The Rev. Canon Beamish, rector of Ottawa, brother of the late Rev. Canon Bogert was prevented from attending by advanced age and ill health.

Rev. Canon Beamish and Messrs. Clarence and Mortimer Bogert accompanied the remains to Brockville.

NEWTON—Of Friday, November 20th, 1914, at Gravenhurst, Sydney Taylor Newton, aged 13 years and 8 months.

DIED.

NEWTON—Of Friday, November 20th, 1914, at Gravenhurst, Sydney Taylor Newton, aged 13 years and 8 months.

In Thousands of Homes

early and certain relief is found for the ailments to which all are subject—ailments due to defective or irregular action of the stomach, liver, kidneys or bowels—in the most famous family remedy, the world has ever known.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

are justly famous because they have proved to be so reliable as correctives or preventives of the sufferings, dull feelings and danger due to indigestion or biliousness. If you will try them to cleanse your system, purify your blood, tone your stomach, stimulate your liver and regulate your bowels, you will know why so many rely on Beecham's Pills to insure health and happiness.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. G.H. MATHER SHOES. are absolute proof to call, every time colds and sickness.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. are absolute proof to call, every time colds and sickness. High shoes for shoes that will be neat and com-

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. lined, from $3.50 to tan, $2.50 to $5.00.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. Seal is the Riching fur next to are showing very coats in the with large shawl cuffs, also with revers and cuffs trimmed to conform with the rich ap- of the Seal.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. Seal is the Riching fur next to are showing very coats in the with large shawl cuffs, also with revers and cuffs trimmed to conform with the rich ap- of the Seal.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. price $125.00. Woodley Our Window

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. your suits to be CLEANED AND PRESSED

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. Method Front Street

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. your suits to be CLEANED AND PRESSED

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. M. Campbell Front Street

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. CORORATING ing, Paperhanging, Wall Papers, and Picture for the best of the New eury Store.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. desire clean wall papers ly shown and rea- priced, visit the ore a little further ect but worth the e hundred times o see such choice Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. better Lines and prices in picture will please every- Our goods are ably all new.

Advertisement for G.H. Mather Shoes. New Scantlebury Store ext Smith Hardware B. Scantlebury The Decorator