SNELGROVE MISER DEAD AT 80 YEARS

House and Farm Presented a Scene of Neglect and Squalor

Brampton, Jan. 30 .- James Duckworth, known as "the old miser of Snelgrove," is dead, and his remains were taken to the last resting place at Glen Williams yesterday after

The old fellow was born on th farm eighty years ago and was found lying in his bed last Friday morning by Mr. Hiscox, C.P.R. sectionman stationed at Snelgrove. He had not been particularly well lately, and the loaf of bread purchased last Monday had not been sliced more than twice during the week. Potatoes being scarce, were used as food for his usual midday meal only, and the last bag of rolled oats, depending from the thickly-cobwebbed ceiling, contained nourishment on which he relied for the bulk of his physical en-

When Chief Constable Herkes of Brampton investigated matters last crumbled under his hands as he tried to turn it over, while underneath the soot-black pillows he came upon an account book containing nearly $800 in notes, many of them dating as far back as 1870, and quite new. A bank book showing $30,000 to the old man's credit in the Dominion Bank was found under the frail mattress. Scotch newspapers were scattered by the side of the bed, and in an old box among screws and nails and pieces of string were found several mortgages, indicating that the de-ceased must have been worth $100.- ble; it affects the digestion very Simple Life Won Egypt.

Earl Cromer kept up a close association with the best in scientific and cultured life in Britain though he cultured life in Britain, though he was a retired man. His home life was of the simplest and most bear tiful. He was Burns' own ideal: "The King can mak' a belted Knight,

A Marquis, Duke and a' that,

But an honest man's aboon their might." It was this simplicity of life carried against the duplicity of the Oriental mind which won Egypt for the Empire, and when, early in this war, the head of Moslemism ran foul in Constantinople, made it possible for the British government to do an unprecedented thing in removing the centre of the Mohammedan Church to Cairo.
