

VOL. IV., NO. 29.

FREDERICTON, N. B., SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1893.

HOTELS.

QUEEN HOTEL,

Queen Street, Fredericton, N. B.

THE HOTEL has been REFITTED AND PAINTED IN THE MOST ATTRACTIVE MANNER. THE MOST IMPROVED SYSTEM OF LIGHTING, HEATING, AND VENTILATION. THE MOST COMPLETE BATHING AND SHOWERING FACILITIES. LARGE AND AIRY BEDROOMS. COMMODIOUS BATH ROOMS AND CLOSETS. THE HOTEL is supplied with every delicacy and the cooking is highly commended, and the table is always supplied with every delicacy. THE HOTEL is centrally located, directly opposite to the Steamboat and Grand Ferry Landings, and within a minute's walk of the Parliament Buildings, County Buildings, and the Court House. A FIRST-CLASS BARBER SHOP IN CONNECTION.

HEALTH FOR ALL!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.

THE PILLS
Purify the Blood, correct all Disorders of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, and Bowels. They give relief to all kinds of Skin Diseases, and are in various forms to suit all Complaints incidental to Females of all ages. For Children and the Aged they are priceless.

THE OINTMENT
Is an infallible remedy for Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, Old Wounds, Sores and Ulcers. It is famous for its cures of Rheumatism, Gout, and all kinds of Pain in the Joints. For Disorders of the Chest it has no equal.

FOR SORE THROATS, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, Glandular Swellings, and all Skin Diseases, it has no rival, and for Contracted and Stiff Joints it acts like a charm.

Manufactured only at Professor HOLLOWAY'S Establishment,
78, NEW OXFORD STREET, (late 533, OXFORD STREET, LONDON

And are sold at 1s. 1d., 2s., 4s., 6d., 11s., 20s., and 35s. each Box or Pot and may be had of all Medicine Vendors throughout the World.

Purchasers should look to the label on the Pots and Boxes. If the address is not 533, Oxford Street, London, they are spurious.

THE COMING PARTY

NEW BRUNSWICK LIBERALS TURN OUT HANDSOMELY.

Premier Blair Receives An Ovation.

OTTAWA, June 19.—All indications are that the liberal convention which opens tomorrow, will be the greatest political gathering ever held in Canada. From all parts of the dominion delegates are arriving by hundreds. The strength of the delegations from the maritime provinces has greatly encouraged the liberals of the upper provinces.

provinces representation is very large, probably one hundred and sixty or seventy persons having come from the provinces by the sea. It was almost midnight when Sunday night's train from St. John reached this city with a large number of delegates. Much pleasure is expressed here at the handsome response made by the lower provinces.

The men who in and out of parliament have been backing the party for years are here, and last night and to-day were actively preparing for the convention's work.

Sir Oliver Mowat, Ontario's premier, who has so often defeated the Tories, takes the chair at this afternoon's meeting. The premier of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island and hon. Mr. Joly of Quebec will be vice-chairman. It is expected that the committee on resolutions, composed of twenty-five members, will report this afternoon.

The resolutions will likely deal with the question of revenue tariff, reciprocity with the United States, the iniquitous franchise act, and perhaps with the senate.

Hon. Mr. Laurier will address the convention on Wednesday evening.

New Brunswick has sixty delegates present and more are expected this evening.

Victoria county has sent three, Dr. Bonner and Mr. Pelletier in addition to Thomas Lawson.

Nova Scotia has a splendid representation and so has P. E. Island.

The local governments of the three provinces are represented by six or seven members. Two members of the Manitoba government are among the delegates.

The meeting place has been handsomely decorated for the occasion. The proceedings are expected to begin at any moment.

Mr. Laurier, accompanied by members and ex-members of parliament and prominent men generally, has just arrived and has been warmly welcomed.

He has just opened the convention and introduced Sir Oliver Mowat as the chairman amid great enthusiasm.

OTTAWA, June 20.—It is a great convention. Hundreds that came yesterday and last night are succeeded by hundreds more to-day and still more are on the way. Long trains loaded with delegates are passing the station, and the human freight and extra locomotives were required to bring them in, still they were behind time.

This morning there was a meeting of the New Brunswick delegates at the Russell house, some 50 delegates being present. Charles Burpee was elected chairman and editor-at-large secretary.

It was resolved that Charles Burpee, C. W. Weldon and George King be a committee to confer with the Nova Scotia and P. E. Island delegates to ascertain whether an organization should be formed for each province separately or to have an organization under one executive head.

The committee found it desirable to call another meeting of the New Brunswick delegates before leaving Ottawa.

A meeting of the liberal editors was held at the Russell house, John Cameron of the London Advertiser, being chosen chairman. The meeting adjourned till this evening at 7 when Mr. Laurier will meet the pressmen.

Long before the hour of opening, the delegates thronged to the skating rink and the canal bank, where the convention is held. The delegates marched in together. The vast hall was then two-thirds full and quickly filled afterwards to its full capacity. The lowest estimate of the number of delegates present was 2,000. Other estimates reach 3,000.

When hon. Mr. Laurier, Mr. Mowat and Sir Richard Cartwright entered there was great cheering. The liberal members of parliament, federal and local, members of government, and ex-members were then seated on the platform, which was soon well filled.

When hon. Mr. Laurier arose to move the appointment of a chairman the whole audience rose to their feet cheering with great enthusiasm. He proposed Sir Oliver Mowat, emphasizing his great abilities and eminent success and great services to the liberal cause.

The motion was adopted amid a splendid display of enthusiasm.

In rising to return thanks for the honor Sir Oliver spoke at some length, taking an optimistic view of the future of Canada. He pressed the great resources of the country and contrasted our development and progress with that of the United States a hundred years ago, when their population was like ours. He thought it an auspicious omen that the convention of liberal editors meets on the anniversary of the queen's accession. He urged care and unity in depending upon the platform, and confidently predicted success for the liberal party at the next election.

The two secretaries were chosen, C. P. Hyman, ex-M. P. for London, and G. M. Deschamps, ex-M. P. for L'Isle.

Sir Richard Cartwright, amid great cheering, remarked upon the presence of the representatives of Manitoba, P. E. I., N. B. and N. S. governments, the premier of the three latter being on the platform. The fact that liberals controlled so many provincial governments showed that the majority of the country was liberal but the Tories were able to secure majorities in the federal elections by gross corruption and gerrymandering. He urged Premier Fielding and nominated him a vice-chairman of the convention.

Mr. Fielding was greeted with shouts of applause and compelled to speak. He said the 20th June was not only an anniversary of the queen's accession, but also an anniversary of the date when the Tory government in Nova Scotia, under Sir John Thompson, was defeated, and the liberals gained power there, which they had held since. (Great applause.)

Hon. A. G. Jones, seconded by C. W. Weldon, nominated ex-premier Joly as a vice-chairman for Quebec.

A mid great applause, several times repeated, Mr. Joly spoke briefly in English and French. He had been sometime out of public life, but never forgot that he was a liberal, he said. Next election we should win the victory, regarding untarnished the honor of the great liberal party.

Dr. Borden, M. P., seconded by Senator Paletier, nominated hon. A. G. Blair a vice chairman.

Great cheering greeted this move, and Mr. Borden's energy of the eminent talents and gifts of the leadership of the New Brunswick premier, was heartily applauded.

Hundreds of voices sang for "Blair," and he came to the front amid rousing cheers. He had long believed in the necessity of calling the liberals of Canada together in convention. He had written the leader about it, and this great convention, representing the best elements of six provinces, was an endorsement of that move. He was glad to learn that nothing was cut and dried. The convention was led entirely free to express its views on all questions. He proposed that a committee be struck to select a large number from all the provinces to frame resolutions embodying the principles of the party.

Hon. Robt. Watson of the Manitoba government, seconded by Senator Power, moved that hon. Fred. Peters, the liberal premier of P. E. Island, be a vice-chairman. Then went up a great shout for Peters, who was rewarded abundantly for his trip, by the applause before him.

His province was liberal, as most of the provinces now are. He believed when another election is provincial, all the governments, federal and provincial, will be liberal.

Attorney general Longley moved that the absentees of the Manitoba government, attorney general Sifton of Manitoba, be made a vice-chairman.

This was seconded by hon. David Laird, ex-governor, and carried with great cheering. Hon. Mr. Laurier again arose, and as he did so, the whole audience rose to their feet and cheered till the hall rang again. He said this was a liberal and democratic convention, free to act and resolve for itself. Nothing had been prepared. Suggestions and resolutions should emanate from the peoples delegates. (Great applause.) In order to present these formally he proposed a committee of two from each province, to whom resolutions and suggestions, put forward by any delegate, would be submitted and a committee would therefrom present a platform of resolutions for discussion and amendment by approval.

He named Sir Richard Cartwright and Mulock of Ontario; Davies and Peters of P. E. Island; Fielding and Dr. Borden, Nova Scotia; Blair and Gilmore, New Brunswick; Watson and Sifton for Manitoba. They will report at the evening session.

Convention adjourned till evening.

The imposing opening of the afternoon session was a fitting prelude to the enthusiastic meeting of the evening. Large was the day's attendance, the evening surpassed it. When at 8 o'clock, hon. Messrs. Laurier and Mowat and the liberal chief speakers, so great was their greeting by the whole audience rising and cheering till they were seated. After some preliminary announcements, Sir Oliver Mowat introduced Hon. Mr. Laurier, and again the assembled thousands stood up and cheered for minutes.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, much moved by the occasion, said in words of his own, to express his gratitude for the noble flattery reception, or for the grand response from one end of Canada to the other, made in answer to the call for a convention. Imposing as were the numbers present and the cheering, he said he believed it was expressive of the great awakening and change of sentiment towards the liberal party. He was glad to see so many provincial premiers in line, from the venerable leader of Ontario down to the young premier of P. E. Island. But he had heard the bugle, smelled the powder and at once fell into the ranks. (Great cheering.) Delegates were here from all parts of the country, from the valley, the great lakes and the prairie provinces, and even from the Northwest. Only one province was unrepresented, but he had telegrams from even British Columbia saying they were present in spirit and eager to see their reform effect.

Nothing like this had happened since the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the great convention which had preceded confederation, in which Mr. Mowat took part. He eulogized Mr. Mowat as belonging to the school of the grand old man whose great energies and mental activities shone with unceasing years, and are always devoted to reform. He said we had a good constitution; Canada suffered from no constitutional defect. The liberals are full of love and pride for Canada, pride for the past and great hope for the future, but he did not propose to go on. To take this to be a day of the