LONDON, Jan. 30.

BERLIN, Jan. 30.
The Canadian Pacific has refused to join the North Atlantic Steamship pool, and a lively rate war for steerage passengers is in sight. The other companies decided to continue their co-operation. The Austro-American line will run a service between Trieste and Canada. Geo. McL. Brown, representing the C.P.R., said that his company accepted the situation cheerfully and was prepared to meet any rate reduction. Low rates would benefit Canada. The C.P.R. and Austrian services from Trieste will both begin in March.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 30.
The Allies gave notice to-day of the termination of the armistice, the four days of grace to start at 7 o'clock this morning. The Armistice has been in operation since Dec. 10th. Greece was at no time a party to the cessation of hostilities, and has continued fighting by land and sea, whilst the Montenegrins also have come into conflict with the Turkish garrison in Scutari on several occasions, notwithstanding the truce to which they were a party.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 30.
The Turkish Government displays a spirit of compromise in its reply to the Powers. The Porte stipulates for the retention of those quarters in Adrianople in which the holy shrines are situated. It proposes to leave in the hands of the Powers the disposal of the lands on the right bank of the Maritza, which runs through Adrianople; and assents to the dismantling of the fortifications. It insists on the maintenance of Turkish Sovereignty over the Aegean Islands, but is willing to leave the settlement of insular regimes to the Powers. The reply refers to the Powers' promise to give aid to the future development of the Turkish Empire, and recapitulates the religious and historical grounds which compel the Porte to stand out for the retention of that portion of Adrianople which contains the sacred shrine.

LONDON, Jan. 30.
Dr. Danef says that Turkey's reply is emphatically not acceptable, and not of the character to form a basis of fresh negotiations. The fortress of Adrianople and the Turkish islands in the Aegean must be ceded, and without that, negotiations will not be resumed. Moreover the cessation must be made immediately, as the first shot fired will change our conditions.

LONDON, Jan. 30.
Mrs. Pankhurst says that the fight will be carried on with increasingly effective methods. They were obliged to strike the enemy through others but that was always necessary in revolutionary warfare, and whatever was done, she would take the full responsibility.

DUNDEE, Jan. 30.
Suffragettes raised pandemonium during the ceremony of conferring the freedom of Dundee on Premier Asquith, to-day. Hardly had he risen to acknowledge the honor when shrieks of "traitor" resounded through the hall. The stewards and policemen threw the women out of the building amid hysterical shrieking, howls of rage and sharp scrimagings. One woman sprang over the front gallery, and was only saved from falling among the crowded audience, 20 feet below, by several men seizing her by the skirts and holding her suspended.

tion of the Anglo-American Arbitration treaty, which was signed on August 3rd, 1911, and which Secretary Knox has declared the United States Senate is now prepared to ratify. Sir Edward Grey made this announcement to-day, in reply to a question. He said that Mr. Knox's note would be carefully considered before any reply would be sent. The questioner suggested that other Powers might be asked to join in a simultaneous reply on the Arbitration matter.

Is Menace To the Country

Washington, Jan. 16.—That the present concentration of money and credit is a potential menace to the country, was asserted before the House Money Trust Committee to-day by Mr. George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago.

Mr. Reynolds said that he knew of the trend toward concentration of any sort of power, he said. I believe that concentration to the point it has already gone is a menace. It says that I do not wish to sit in judgment on the men who hold that power.

Mr. Reynolds said he was opposed to the principle of interlocking directors in potentially competing concerns, and that he had adhered to that principle throughout his banking career.

He could not make any specific recommendation as to remedying the concentration of money and credit, but was sure the prevention of interlocking directors in competing concerns would have a good effect.

In conclusion, Mr. Reynolds said he believed that "competition was not dead," but he believed banking would be improved by a return to competitive conditions.

Killed by a Bull.

Plattsburg, N.Y., Jan. 22.—A bull that George H. Whyland, a telegraph operator at South Junction, near here was leading yesterday, leaped upon him when he fell on the icy road and fatally gored him as he lay prostrate. The animal used hoofs as well as horns, viciously trampling his victim, breaking both of Whyland's arms and crushing his ribs.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. Peter Garland, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garland, of Harvey Street, died this morning after a short illness. A recent attack of LaGrippe, followed by brain fever, is said to be the cause of this bright young man's death.

Another resident of Water Street was before the Court yesterday, for absconding. He was convicted and fined $50 or six weeks. Two other cases are to engage the attention of the Court to-morrow.

Rev. Dr. Whelan, of North River, and Rev. Dr. Murphy, of Brigus, were in town yesterday, the guests of His Lordship Bishop March, at the Palace.

Mr. W. H. Casey, teacher at North River, was in town for a couple of days this week.

Mr. E. L. Oke, of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Carbonar, goes to St. John's by this afternoon's train, where he will spend part of his three weeks' holidays with relatives and friends and former schoolmates.

Dr. C. Cron and Miss Jardine are to be married at Bay Roberts this afternoon, and will come to town by the night train. The doctor and his fair bride are very popular and numerous good wishes are being showered on them by their many friends.

The K. E. Brigade are holding their annual military ball in the Academy hall to-night. It is a foregone conclusion that this affair will be a great success.

A resident of the Southside, recently purchased a rooster from a north side friend and bringing it home placed it in the barn yard in charge of his flock of ten hens. The latter were quite indignant at this insult to place a northsider over them and immediately set upon the intruder apparently intending to do him to death. But "Dick" was not to be treated thus, so jumping out into the middle of the ring he commenced crowing loud and long, thereby asserting his authority and bringing his feathered friends of the Southside under submission. Since then peace has reigned supreme.

Amazing Shorthand Feats.

It was during the course of an interview which I had some time ago with Mr. Bernard de Bear, who is retiring from the position of Principal of Pitman's School after twenty years' service, writes the T. B. man, that I asked him which of the many phonographic honours he has gained—for he is one of the greatest shorthand writers who ever mastered the art—he most appreciated. "I am most proud of the fact that I was probably the first to write officially at the rate of 200 words a minute, which so delighted the late Sir Isaac Pitman that he made me a present of a handsome gold watch in honour of the occasion."

Referring to his early shorthand days, Mr. de Bear has described how he once found shorthand of value when no other means of communication would have been possible. "I remember being in a railway station in a country town at holiday-time," he said. "The station was besieged with 'trippers' and, having got in, it was impossible to get out again. I was most anxious to communicate with a friend standing in the street some little distance away, and on the window-pane of the waiting-room I communicated my message by writing reversed shorthand, the outlines reading correctly to my friend in the street. By using the thumb for thick strokes and the first finger for thin, there was no difficulty at all in telegraphing my thoughts. In no other circumstances would it have been possible to effect the same purpose."

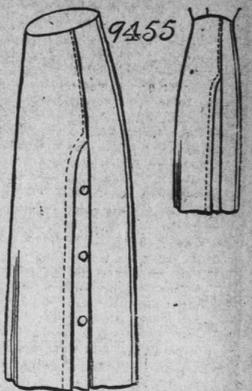

On another occasion when Mr. de Bear was lecturing on shorthand matters at Harrogate, the proceedings were opened by the mayor with a speech of about five minutes duration. The mayor was considerably astonished when he found that the lecturer had taken down the whole of his remarks on the somewhat limited area provided by his shirt cuff, which he had previously prepared for the purpose with horizontal lines.
