Household Notes Don't Kiss Baby.

Long-handled brushes and dishpans save labor.

Underwear, stockings and common towels need no ironing.

Stilettoes are indispensable for emerald cutters who want to make round soles.

Nuts which have grown dry can be freshened by soaking in warm water.

Fresh air and sunshine have a great deal to do with successful laundry work.

If you keep chickens in a small run, be sure to give them plenty of green food.

Remove the odor of onions from a cooking dish by boiling strong soda water in it.

Should babies be kissed? Certainly not! That seems to be the unanimous opinion, not only among medical men, but also among women hygienic leaders who have the welfare of the children of the country at heart.

As one doctor put it to the writer: "I can conceive of no surer way of conveying disease—consumption, influenza, skin and mouth diseases—than by allowing babies to be kissed promiscuously by flustering friends and relatives. The mother who does not guard her baby against such peril is risking her future health and happiness, and perhaps its life."

America long ago recognized the peril which lurked in the baby kiss, and carried on a campaign against kissing. Artistic signs bearing the words "Don't kiss me," were hung about babies' necks. A State Government lecturer was appointed, whose principal work was to lecture on the evils of kissing. He held meetings all over the States, and in a very short time was able to announce that he had secured the assistance of 2,000 mothers, who had become anti-kissers so far as their babies were concerned.

At one time it was proposed to make baby-kissing a criminal crime.

The Five Hundredth V. C.

The leader of the gallant little band of the Highland Light Infantry, who gained such fame at Moeuvres, where they held out for forty-eight hours when cut off by the enemy, has earned a notable distinction, as well as a decoration.

Corporal David Hunter, whose V.C. was gazetted recently, is the 500th fighting man to receive the highest Service honor since the war broke out. When so many of our great heroes give their lives in deeds that result in the bestowal of medals, it is a satisfaction that the 500th V.C. of the war, like the 1,000th recipient of the honor since its creation, should live to receive the little piece of bronze from his Sovereign.

Only another score or so of Crosses need to be won for the war to have produced more V.C.'s than all the campaigns that preceded it in a period of sixty years, from the Crimea and the Mutiny to Somaliland.

Lancashire holds first place among the counties, no fewer than forty-six of the 500 obtained by the three Services having been given to officers and men of the seven regiments associated with Lancashire. The Fusiliers claim fifteen of the number—five more than any other line regiment in the British Army.

Keep on Eating Fish.

The signing of an armistice does not mean the end of the war. It is but the preliminary of the hardest phase of the world struggle—the reconstruction period. Patriotic Americans will not slacken a whit on their policy of self-denial. In the line of food, their sacrifices must increase rather than decrease. The men abroad and the villian populations must be fed by America until reconstruction abroad has reached the point where the people of Europe can care for themselves. For food for the long, hard winter now beginning, they look to America. Hence, it is up to every real American to save every possible pound of food available for export.

This means, if you have been eating meat six times a week, it is your duty to replace it by fish at least three times a week. Now is the sacrifice. It will benefit your health and have a surprisingly good effect on your pocketbook.

Fads & Fashions

Torpedo turbans are still with us. Terra Cotta is a fashionable conservative style are like coats.

A very supple velvet is called "as foam."

Unusual Responsibility

CONDITIONS brought about by the war have placed many women in positions of unusual responsibility, involving mental strain and anxiety.

Think, for example, of the girls who have been placed in tellers' wickets in the banks, and whose duty it is to handle each day tens of thousands of dollars.

It is not as though such positions had been reached after years of training and development, for in many instances the new teller has had little experience, and the strain thrown on the nervous system is enormous.

But similar conditions apply in many lines of work, and whether the overstrain is mental or physical the result is the same, for vitality is exhausted and sooner or later health gives way.

The rapid spread of influenza and pneumonia is largely due to the low vitality of many thousands of people who have been living under a constant, unusual strain of mind or body.

In a state of continual fatigue you have practically no reserve force left to fight disease, and are, therefore, easy prey.

There is only one way to restore feeble, wasted nerve cells, and that is by supplying them the vital substances which nourish them back to health and vigor.

This is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does, and that is why it is in such enormous demand at this time when so many people are living under such unusual nervous strain.

A dead nerve cell can never be replaced, but an exhausted nerve cell can be restored, and just here is where Dr. Chase's Nerve Food comes in to cure by means of the building-up process.

One of the first indications of trouble is headache, and then sleeplessness—you fail to regain at night the nerve force expended in the day's work and worry.

You get up tired in the mornings, and your work seems a burden to you. You get discouraged and lose confidence in yourself, and as the nervous system weakens the worry increases.

There is no light ahead for the person suffering from nervous exhaustion, but, fortunately, there is help in the use of this well-known restorative—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Take all the rest you can—get out into the fresh air and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly, and you will soon find yourself on the way to health.

Dr. Chase's Medicines are sold by all Druggists and Dealers in St. John's and the Outports. Wholesale quotations from GERALD S. DOYLE, Water St., St. John's, Sole Agent.

The 'All Highest'

The occupation of Baalbek, north of Damascus, by British troops, recalls a unique instance of the ex-Kaiser's military genius. Baalbek is famous for its wonderful ruins. Among these is the ruined temple of Bacchus, with its huge foundation stones and tall monolithic columns. On the inner side of the walls there are niches, said to be the "Niches for the Gods."

"When I visited these ruins in 1914," says a correspondent, "I saw among them a large and incongruous blue tablet. It appeared that when the Kaiser made his historic visit to Palestine and Syria in 1898, and was entertained by the late Abdul Hamid, with great pomp and circumstance, he expressed a desire before leaving to erect a memorial of his visit. When asked by the Sultan what form he would like the memorial to take, he them
