FLASHES OF WIT AND HUMOR

A youth just returned from boarding school, upon being asked by Dad how he stood in grammar at the end of the term, came back with something like this:

"Say, dad, take it from me, grammar was not my long suit. On the start I was up against it hard. Couldn't get it thro my noodle. Fell down every time I went to class. Finally I says to myself, 'Look here old kid, it's up to you. You've got to cut out the funny business and take a brace or you'll see your finish, surest thing you know.' Well I studied believe me. And say when it came to the final exams. Did I lose out? Not on your life. I was right there with bells on. There was certainly some class to the way I answered those quizzes. A cold mark of ninety five when it was all over. Not so worse, eh? Can you beat it? How did I do it? I don't know. You can search me. But any how it's going some, eh, dad? None of 'ems got anything on me when it comes to grammar, that's a cinch."

And perhaps it is not surprising that all that father was able to gasp was: "Get the hook."

There are two hundred and fifty thousand words in the English language and most of them were used last Sunday by a lady who discovered after coming out of church, that her new hat was adorned with a tag on which was written, "reduced to $2.75."
