You Will Sleep for 20 Months During the Next Five Years.

The nature of that sleep will largely determine your future success or failure—because deep, reposeful sleep is the greatest restorative of nature. You should sleep on a Marshall mattress for your health's sake as well as for your comfort.

The MARSHALL

is the only
Ventilated Mattress

Under a cushion of sterilized curled hair is a number of finely-tempered steel springs, enclosed in strong, individual, cotton pockets. These springs act independently, making the mattress wonderfully resilient.

The combination of springs and hair padding is covered with the best ticking, and ventilators, protected by fine wire gauze, are provided at both ends of the mattress to facilitate the changing of the air inside the mattress.

The Marshall is absolutely guaranteed for five years.

BRITISH AGENT USED BY VILLA TO SEE VELASCO

Obliged to Carry Message to Federal General, Asking Surrender.

WENT WITH RELUCTANCE

United States Agent Sends Report to Washington of Incident.

EMBRACED ON RETURN

Trip Was Made Under the Protection of the British Flag.

[Canadian Press.]

El Paso, Texas, April 9.—H. S. Cunard-Cummins, acting British vice-consul at Gomez Palacio, was used by Villa to carry a demand to Gen. Velasco on March 27, in the course of the battle of Torreón, that the latter surrender. According to the newspaper correspondents who reached here from the front tonight, Mr. Cunard-Cummins performed the mission under protest and was subjected to rifle fire on his return toward the rebel lines.

George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department, at the battle in the report of the incident that he has made to Washington, however, does not indicate that Mr. Cunard-Cummins was coerced into becoming Gen. Villa's messenger, but states that he did so with some reluctance after first refusing.

The report of Mr. Carothers to the state department follows:

"At 4 p. m. (March 27) Gen. Villa sent for Cummins, requesting him to go to headquarters. I and H. W. Potter accompanied him. When we arrived after introducing Cummins to Villa, Villa said to him that he (Cummins) was an enemy to the Constitution, that he had information that Cummins was accustomed to banqueting with the Federalists, that he knew he was a friend of Gen. Velasco and that in view of this friendship with Velasco he demanded the surrender of the city to avoid any further bloodshed. Villa said the message was couched in terms usual in warfare in such cases. Cummins refused to take up the message, arguing that he was neutral and should not mix in political affairs of the country.

Villa Became Angry.

"At this Villa became very angry and said we foreigners and be humanitarian in his acts, and that at the very first opportunity given us to do some good we refused. He commenced talking about having to fight all of us, when I interposed and advised Cummins to go. Villa said his first thought of sending the message by me, but on second thought had decided on Cummins on account of his friendship with Velasco, as he would be in no danger. Cummins agreed to go, so I wrote some instructions to Mr. Uimer. Cummins left about five o'clock and was to return about noon next day. The interview with Villa had a most serious aspect for a few moments, but as it turned out, Villa and he shook hands, called each other amigos, and parted in the best of spirits.

The Uimer mentioned in the report is I. M. Uimer, United States consular agent at Torreón.

They Became "Amigos."

Mr. Carothers, when seen by a reporter here today, amplified his report to the State Department as follows:

"Just before leaving Villa's headquarters Villa called Cummins 'amigo.' Cummins turned to Villa and said: 'You call me friend? Yes, I call you friend, because I want you for my friend.' responded Villa. Villa's last word to us was that he left all arrangements about getting away to us.

"I then walked toward Mr. O'Hea's house with Cummins, but left him before reaching there in order to get a hand-car. I saw Cummins enter O'Hea's house. A half hour later I met Cummins coming from O'Hea's house with a British flag and a flag of truce. I had been unable to get a hand-car so Cummins said he would go on foot, as it was getting late and he did not want to make the trip in the dark. Cummins did not make any complaint to me of coercion then or later. On his return on the 29th, he was most cordially received by Villa, who embraced him and thanked him for what he had done."

Mr. O'Hea, mentioned by Mr. Carothers as Patrick O'Hea, recently appointed to succeed Cunard-Cummins as British Vice-Consul. Cummins had resigned, but was still acting as vice-consul.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles as giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by Cairncross & Lawrence under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is the money-back guarantee.

THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

Author of "Graustark," "Truxton King," Etc.

Mr. Randall looked up from the floor, his gaze having dropped at the first outburst from his son's lips.

"We—we prefer to be friendly, Sara, if you will allow us—"

She laughed, and the old gentleman stopped in the middle of his sentence.

"We can't be friends, Mr. Randall," she said, suddenly serious. "The pretence would be a mockery. We are all better off if we allow our paths, our interests to diverge today."

"Perhaps you are right," said he, compressing his lips.

"I believe that Vivian and I could—but no! I won't go so far as to say that either. There is something genuine about her. Strange to say, I have never disliked her."

"If you had made the slightest effort to like us, no doubt we could have—"

"My dear Mr. Randall," she interrupted quickly. "I credit you with the desire to be fair and just to me. You have tried to love me. You have even deceived yourself at times. I—but why these gentle recriminations? We merely prolong an unfortunate contest between antagonistic natures, with no hope of genuine peace being established. I do not regret that I am your daughter-in-law, nor do I believe that you would regret it if I had not been the daughter of Sebastian Gooch."

"Your father was as little impressed with my son as I was with his daughter," said Raymond Randall drily. "I am fornicious," said he, with a slight smile. "We had the better of the bargain."

"I believe you mean it, Mr. Randall," she said, with a note of gratitude in her voice. "Good-by. Mr. Carroll will see you tomorrow." She glanced quickly at the room. "I shall send for—"
