

WOULD CLOSE PORT BATHING-HOUSES

Chairman of Board of Health
Will Take Action If City
Has Jurisdiction.

The condition of the bath-houses at Port Stanley, which has been the cause of considerable complaint by Londoners, was brought to the attention of Dr. F. L. Burdon, of the board of health, today, and he said that if the city had jurisdiction in the case he would close the bath-houses up, on the ground that they were insanitary.

Bathers who use some of these bath-houses say they are compelled to disrobe in the rooms and then roll their clothes in a bundle and have them checked until they come out of the water. They say that these conditions do not provide the best accommodations for the patrons.

BIG EXHIBITORS COMING

Live Stock Men Will Attend Western Fair in Large Numbers.

A study of the Western Fair prize lists this year reveals the fact that the increase of $1,500 to the live stock department has been well adjusted throughout the list. The exhibit of horses has always been a very attractive feature of London's exhibition, and this year promises to be even better than ever. Five hundred of the $1,500 increase was placed by the board on horse classes, and it certainly will bring the best there is to be found in the city. The secretary has already had considerable correspondence with a number of large cattle breeders, who have intimated their intention of bringing their herds to the exhibition this year. Exhibitors of live stock of all kinds at the Western Fair invariably express themselves as well satisfied with the business the fair has done for them. There is such a fine large farming country surrounding London, there are always plenty of buyers for first-class stock. The management has erected another large horse barn, so there will be plenty of good stable accommodation, and everything possible will be done for the comfort of exhibitors. Prize lists, entry forms, programs and all information will be promptly given on application to the secretary at the general offices, Richmond street.

This Sounds Like an Imitation of the Queen Mary Story

[Canadian Press.]
Paris, July 15.—A story is printed of an incident which occurred on the recent voyage of the Empress Eugénie, widow of Napoleon III. She was walking in the Tuilleries gardens, where once stood her splendid palace. She picked a flower from the border. An attendant saw her and said: "Picking flowers is strictly forbidden. I must report you."

He demanded her name and address and she answered timidly: "Eugénie." The attendant was struck by the melancholy of the aged lady, and relented, saying: "That is not a name. However, never mind this time, but do not do it again."

WILL CO-OPERATE

Centennial Church Arranges for "Go-to-Church" Sunday.

The Centennial Methodist Church made final arrangements last night to co-operate with the Old Boys' Association in the "Go to Church Sunday," planned by the association for August 2.

The church board is making every effort to bring about a number of members to the church for that Sunday as is possible. An attempt will also be made to have former members of the choir in attendance. The day will be given over to special services, and plenty of music will be an added attraction.

At its meeting last night the church board decided to raise the salary of Rev. H. Graham, the pastor.

J. May and Alfred Allen were appointed representatives to the financial district meeting to be held some time in September. The place of meeting has as yet not been decided upon.

SNAKE ISLANDERS ON PILGRIMAGE

Start For Twenty-Fifth Annual Trip to Fishers' Happy
Hunting Ground.

A CARLOAD OF SCENERY

Enough Equipment Provided
To Relieve Whole Lake of Its Fish Crop.

Where the fish jump up against the sun, where the line hisses through the air and falls into the lake with a musical splash with the attached flies that big black bass are just longing for. That's where a party of fourteen tried and true London experts of the hook and line have gone today. They started in their special car on the 4:55 Grand Trunk for Warton. From Warton they will have a fourteen-mile drive. Then they will be at the happy hunting grounds—Snake Island.

For twenty-five years the party has been called to the Red Bay region to pull out of the water the shiny black bass that infest small bays and lakes. Perhaps they will do the same for twenty-five years more.

The car, as seen at the Grand Trunk station today, resembled a small expedition, or a trip into some far-off sea. There's provisions enough to last a party twice its size for several months. It's a safe bet that there is every imaginable kind of fly and paraphernalia to tempt the coo bass to nibble, just once. The skill of the fishermen will be tested in the Red Bay. That there will be some pretty fights under the green-wood trees over the pools is as certain as it is that there will be a healthy lot of fish brought back to the Forest City when the party returns.

Those who do much towards relieving the lake of the congestion of fish are: William Ward (president), Thomas Gillen (secretary-treasurer), Colin Currie (chaplain), W. H. Skinner, J. B. Scandrett, George Loveless, Frank Adams, William T. Noble, Charles Keen, Edward Hayden, J. C. Treblecock, Bruce Wanless, John Ferguson, Dr. George Bentley, of Cleveland, and formerly of this city.

Breaks Into Cash Register at Shoe
Store and Makes Getaway.

While Antonio Morre, the youth in charge of the shoe store at the corner of the Tecumseh House, yesterday afternoon, was cleaning the floor in an adjoining room a clean shaven young man, wearing a blue suit and white shirt, was looking to be about 21 years of age, opened the cash register and took out $3 or $4.

Mr. Morre saw him just as he was clearing the till, and running at him, grappled with him, but he got away and running upstairs made his exit through the side entrance out into York street. He was chased by the police, but escaped. The youth, who returned, reported the matter to the police.

Up to three o'clock this afternoon no trace had been found of the alleged thief.

SHORT POLICE COURT

Only Two Drunks Appear—Crime
Seems to be on the Wane.

Police court made a record for the year today. Only two drunks were arraigned. Both were discharged. Cases in police court have been falling off in number of late. Added to that there have been no serious charges entered for several months. The natural conclusion would seem that petty crime is being eliminated from the city.

Virubova, started today for Tyumen, Siberia, according to the Courier, to attend the mystic lay monk and imperial confidant, Gregory Rasputin, who is suffering from a wound inflicted on him by a woman who tried to kill him.

In a newspaper interview today Guseva, the would-be assassin, who is in jail, said she had long intended killing Rasputin, the thus "putting an end to the awful evil wrought by him in Russia by his impostures under the guise of a prophet."

She declared: "He had shaken Christianity, was sowing temptation, and was blasphemously mocking the most holy feelings of true believers."

Guseva concluded: "As a simple Christian, could not suffer his abuse of the church. I wanted to kill him last year. I went to Yalta, but could not approach him, because he was so closely surrounded by aristocratic women followers."

"I regret that I failed to kill him. All the same, he will not live. The Russian people will not endure such disgrace."

Rasputin, in an interview, said: "It is all that cursed Helodorous, abbe of Tarsinisin. But to the confusion of himself and all my enemies, I will live and will have nooses put around their necks."

Helodorous was a great rival of Rasputin in the Russian capital, where he was recently banished owing to Rasputin's influence with the Emperor. Rasputin is recovering from his wound.
