Getting Restless

His Majesty Wanted to Get Out to See Troops March By.

But Physicians Thought it too Early Yet to Risk Exposure.

Wound Is Healing Well and the Patient Feeling More Comfortable.

London, July 2.—King Edward has passed another good day. The quiet and routine of the royal sick room was varied today by the excitement of his-panic troops as they marched past the balcony and greeted Queen Alexandra on the balcony. King Edward demanded a full account of the review, and the formal report made by the Prince of Wales was supplemented by the personal narrative of the Queen.

His Majesty dictated a letter to the Duke of Connaught, commanding him to compliment the colonial troops upon their excellent appearance, and to thank them for their expressions of loyalty and sympathy, which he had heard with pleasure in his sick room.

King Edward was somewhat disappointed that he was not able to see the march past of the troops. He had hoped that this would be possible from an invalid couch in a window of the palace, but the King's doctors were unwilling that their patient should risk exposure and excitement, and His Majesty had to content himself with hearing the troops without seeing them.

THE BULLETIN. London, July 2.—At Buckingham Palace the following bulletins was issued at 10 o'clock this morning: "The King had another excellent night and is making steady progress in all respects. The wound is much less troublesome, and is beginning to heal." "Signed 'Treves, Laking, Barlow.'" "The following bulletin was issued from Buckingham Palace at 7 p.m. 'The King maintains his strength. The local pain being less, the days are passed with greater freedom than hitherto.' "The Prince and Princess of Wales gave a brilliant dinner party at York House tonight in honor of the visiting Indian princes.

A unique and impressive scene was witnessed in St. Paul's cathedral this evening, when some 2,000 doctors and nurses gathered beneath the dome to sing and offer prayers for the King's recovery. Many of the doctors wore their academic robes, and the service in procession, the doctors joining at the altar. At the conclusion of the service a collection was taken for Queen Alexandra's hospital, and good wishes for His Majesty's speedy recovery.

LAND TROUBLE IN IRELAND

Pending Evictions From the De Freyne Estate Under Discussion.

London, July 2.—A long and heated debate on the Irish land question was precipitated in the House of Commons tonight. Thomas W. Russell (Liberal) moved the adjournment of the House to discuss the pending evictions from the estate of Lord De Freyne, in Roscommon county, in connection with which Lord De Freyne recently had written against a large number of the tenants. The people in question were the poorest of the poor. Mr. Russell said one word for Ireland, would settle the whole trouble, and that he thought that the reduction of the rents collected on the estate by 33 per cent. could not be excessive for those boys, which were being obtained for more money than was contained in decent arable lands in Ulster county.

Mr. Wyndham replied to Mr. Russell with some asperity, and said he was surprised to find the latter insisting upon law and order. The rents from the De Freyne estate, he said, had been reduced 37 per cent. in the past 20 years, and that he knew some of the organizers were making money out of the agitation. His advice to the tenants was to stay on. His advice to the tenants was to stay on. His advice to the tenants was to stay on.

John Redmond, the Nationalist leader in the House, characterized Mr. Wyndham's statement as patrician and flippant. He said that the De Freyne estate was owned by a man who had been in the country since the days of the male population in England during the harvest season, and that the De Freyne estate was owned by a man who had been in the country since the days of the male population in England during the harvest season.

From your eyes open and be sure that when you get just that and nothing else. Use it when you have a headache and all other common complaints in summer.

BOW RIVER RISKS. Does Some Little Damage Near Calgary.

Winnipeg, July 2.—(Special)—The Bow river at Calgary rose rapidly last night and overflowed the banks near Langevin bridge. Several families were moved out and traffic over the bridge is suspended. The rain has ceased and it is hoped further damage will be averted.

WEST INDIAN FRUIT. Agreement Entered Into With Elder Dempster Line.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 2.—An agreement with the Elder Dempster company, Boston, has been made, under the terms of which the fruit company is to send fruit with which to load the majority of the steamers belonging to the Elder Dempster company plying between here and England. This agreement will put the bulk of the banana business of Jamaica into the hands of the American company. It is proposed that a combination of the idea of keeping Americans out of the English fruit markets may follow the present agreement.

VETERAN DEAD. Capt. Murchison of Guelph, for Many Years a Volunteer.

Vancouver Celebration

Rev. Elliot S. Rowe Delivers the Oratio on Dominion Day.

Big Crowds Attend the Various Races and Sports—Fine Weather.

Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—The inauguration of the Vancouver-Lulu Island railway, which was celebrated yesterday, the important event was marked by any celebration. The station was deserted, a remarkable oversight for the local papers are commenting upon.

Alex. Morrison, Stevenson, is chief promoter of a company to develop the natural gas wells known to exist near Stevenson. The extent of these wells is problematical, but it is said the capital available to put them on a mercantile basis is available. The second day's celebration at Vancouver went off with a vim, aided by good weather. The day was the provincial championship bicycle matches, in which J. B. Hancock, of Victoria, carried off the honors, winning the two mile lap race, the quarter mile championship, the half mile championship, and the five mile championship.

In the morning two thousand spectators witnessed the aquatic sports on the water front by the water jockeys. The distance of the races was a mile and a half, and they were all pulled with a vim, and they were all pulled with a vim, and they were all pulled with a vim.

PIECE AT EXTENSION. Blacksmith Shop and Residence of Thomas Craig Burned.

Mannino, B. C., July 2.—(Special)—The blacksmith shop and residence of Thomas Craig, Extension, were destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The fire started about 9 o'clock Monday evening and drove to Mannino about 7 o'clock Monday night. It is believed that there had been a fire in Extension and fearing that his property might be lost, he had moved to sea. He found nothing but heaps of ruins where shop and residence had stood the night before. All the contents of buildings had been completely destroyed. Mr. Craig does not know how to account for the fire, but suspects that it might have been the work of an incendiary. The shop stood on one side of the street, and the house on the other with sufficient distance between them to prevent the fire spreading from one to the other. At the time of the fire there was not the slightest breeze blowing, the two buildings were burned together. Other buildings and inflammable material close by did not catch fire. The loss is about $2,500, with $1,500 insurance on the property.

Provincial Premiers

Have Conference in London Regarding Maintenance of Lieut.-Governors.

And Will Ask Sir Wilfrid's Cooperation on This and Other Questions.

War Office Bungles Badly in Arrangements for Canadian Contingent.

From Our Own Correspondent. Toronto, July 2.—A London cable says: "The Canadian provincial premiers, Messrs. Ross, Murray, Tweedie, Roblin, Poirer, Dunsinuir and Haultain, and Treasurer Duffy of Quebec, again conferred today at the Grosvenor hotel. They discussed the expense for the maintenance of Lieut.-Governors, and decided to confer with Mr. Chamberlain with a view to easing this burden on the provinces, and to ask for an authoritative statement of the cost in the official status of provincial lieut.-governors. They also discussed Sir Wilfrid Laurier's co-operation."

The Evening Telegram's London cable says: "It is glaringly apparent that the arrangements made by the War office for the Canadian contingent entirely disregarded the convenience of officers and men. In the first place, the location of the camp at Alexandria park was unwise. When the contingent arrived from Liverpool the order was issued that they should march in fatigue, and the Duke of Connaught inspecting the contingent, expressed surprise that the men should march past in the same uniform as when at home. The general had ordered for dress uniforms, the men marched past in four, instead of full dress, which placed them at a great disadvantage. According to the original arrangements there was no place for the contingent in the procession, and even for Col. Turner of the artillery. Quebec. The infantry were to be in line with the cavalry of the contingent was divided up to escort the different provincial contingents. The details of the march were a modification of these plans. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it is said, would not have approved of the order that Canadians had been sent as an escort by the War office.

Sir Wilfrid determined the Canadian contingent to be headed by Col. Bell at the Metropolitan Hotel. The serious friction would have ensued. The officers of the contingent were in support of Sir Wilfrid's contention. In Canadian circles, irrespective of politics, the position taken by Sir Wilfrid Laurier is enthusiastically approved. The officers all agreed to leave.

The Canadian contingent has been invited to remain two weeks longer. The men are willing, but the men have had enough of Alexandria for a lifetime, and have decided to leave Thursday.

At 6 o'clock this evening Sir Frederick Borden, who had just returned from the War office, stated that the contingent would leave in the morning. The War office had invited the contingent to stay a fortnight, but that would really mean a fortnight, for suitable vessels for transportation home were not secured in less time. If nothing had been seen occurs, the Canadians will sail from Liverpool on the Transatlantic at 2 o'clock on Thursday.

CENTENNIAL'S STORY DENIED

Senator's Captain From Nome Denies the Finding of Portland and Jeanie.

From Our Own Correspondents. Port Townsend, July 2.—The steamship Senator, arriving this evening from Nome, which port she left on the 24th, emphatically denies the authenticity of the story brought out recently by the coronator to the effect that the long overdue steamers Portland and Jeanie had been found by the revenue cutter Thetis imprisoned in the ice off Cape Prince of Wales in Behring sea.

Capt. Patterson says that before he started South the revenue cutter Thetis was ordered to search for the Nome to replenish her coal supply, and that she secured absolutely no tidings of the vessels over which such grave fears were being entertained. As the Senator left the North later than the Centennial, reliability of this latest report cannot be questioned, leaving the fate of the two packets as much in doubt as ever.

LIPTON SUEB. Representative for American Cup Races Claims Compensation.

New York, July 2.—The suit brought against Sir Thomas Lipton by David M. Barrie, who acted as the British personal and business representative in this country during the America cup races began today. Counsel for Mr. Barrie said today that the suit is an attempt by Mr. Barrie to recover from Sir Thomas compensation for services rendered in the job of races for the cup. He said Mr. Barrie managed Sir Thomas' affairs relative to Shamrock II and Shamrock I. For his services in connection with the latter craft he was compensated by Sir Thomas, but for some unknown reason, Mr. Gilbert said, Sir Thomas refused to compensate him for his services in connection with the former. The plaintiff's services exceeded, he said, over a period of two years or more, and he seeks to recover $11,515 for those services.

KING'S OAK IS DYING.

Planted in Central Park, N. Y., 40 Years Ago by King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales, is Dying, and will probably have to be cut down in a short time as all efforts to preserve it have been unavailing.

When the Prince of Wales visited the United States in 1890, Comptroller Andrew H. Green invited the youthful visitor to plant a tree in Central Park. The invitation was accepted, and an English oak and an American elm were planted on the same spot. The ceremony took place on October 12 in the presence of a large crowd. Mayor Fernando Wood and President Blatchford of the Park Board, who presided, had the saplings had been planted in the holes prepared for them. The Prince of Wales planted the English oak, and the American elm was planted by the Comptroller.

The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace at 7 p.m.: "The advancement in the King's condition is maintained. His appetite is improving and the dressing of his wound is less painful. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

London, July 1.—The re-appearance today of Queen Alexandra as a participant in a public ceremony practically marks the end of the period of anxiety caused by King Edward's condition. Her presence at the review of the colonial troops by the Prince of Wales last night was greeted with enthusiasm over what in itself was a picturesque and interesting event. Upwards of 2,500 colonial troops were brought in from the various dominions and marched through great crowds down Constitution hill, which was lined with troops, mostly from the British Empire, with the exception of India, whose troops will be separately reviewed tomorrow.

The Canadian detachment numbered 600 men and was by far the largest body of its kind. The smallest detachment consisted of the natives and the island of St. Lucia, Borneo, Ceylon, Fiji, the West Indies generally, Cyprus, the Cape Coast, Nigeria, Uganda and other remote colonies, were represented by five troops in clothing of striking variety, while straight from the fighting line the South African and Princes of the Canadian scouts, Kitchener's Horse and contingents from a number of local levies were during the war.

The Queen's appearance, while on her way from the palace to the Horse Guards, was greeted with many cheers, which increased in strength as the spectators lined the route. The bands of the week had been the centre of such supreme interest, and along the Mall to the Horse Guards' parade. The contingents represented all parts of the British Empire, with the exception of India, whose troops will be separately reviewed tomorrow.

The Queen was seated in an open carriage, and opposite Her Majesty were the Princess Victoria and Princess Charles of Denmark. Carriages containing the Duke of Cambridge, the Duchess of Connaught and others followed.

The Prince of Wales was accompanied by the Crown Prince of Denmark, the Prince of Greece, the Prince of Bulgaria and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and by their suites, and by official attaches.

The Duke of Connaught and Lord Roberts, the commander-in-chief, were present to see the contingent, and the Prince of Wales' party. The long line of troops completely filled the Horse Guards' parade and their varied uniforms stood out in vivid contrast with the trees in the park. Thousands of spectators lined the route, and the Prince of Wales' party. The long line of troops completely filled the Horse Guards' parade and their varied uniforms stood out in vivid contrast with the trees in the park.

Then formed the most picturesque feature of the day. The Duke of Connaught at the head of the troops and facing the Prince of Wales, in clear tones gave the command: "The parade will get under way in five minutes." He himself started the "hip-hip." In a second this was taken up and there rose a sound of cheering from the ranks, the sounds of which must have reached almost to the royal sick room half a mile away. Helmets, caps and tambores were used in waving confusion at the bayonet's point, and the assembled crowds joined in with equal vigor. A man in the Canadian ranks shouted: "And a tiger!" at which the troops and crowd once more yelled themselves hoarse. It was the first occasion since the announcement of the King's illness that the general public had an opportunity to give free vent to their feelings, and the Queen drove slowly past the troops at Buckingham Palace, constantly bowing and smiling acknowledgments of the people's greetings.

After this the Life Guards rode up to the Queen's carriage, to the accompaniment of "God Save the King," and the Prince of Wales closely inspected the troops and dismounted and conferred medals and crosses on those who had merited the honor of shaking hands with the recipients of the Victoria Cross.

Some Difficulty Over the Rate of Interest.

Pekin, July 1.—The Shanghai government has notified the bankers that China refuses to pay the July instalment of the indemnity except at the rate of 4 per cent. prevailing on April 1, 1901. The foreign ministers consider the Taotais declaration is the result of the announcement of the United States minister, Mr. Conger, to the Chinese government, that the United States sustains China's contention, and is willing to accept payment on the basis named. But the ministers are confident that the United States will accept the decision of the bankers, when she is convinced that the United States is her only supporter. Some of the ministers insist that the United States policy is unreasonable and in direct opposition to the terms of the protocol. They assert that Prince Ching, the foreign office and other Chinese officials, before learning that China had the support of the United States in this matter, admitted that their arguments were rather poor for mercy than a demand for justice.

Vancouver Has Monster Crowds But Weather Is Somewhat Bad.

Day Observed at Ottawa—Winnipeggers Enjoy Sports and Picnics.

From Our Own Correspondent. Vancouver, B. C., July 1.—(Special)—Dull, rainy weather marred to some extent the enjoyment of the Dominion Day activities at Vancouver. This is to be regretted the more as the number of visitors from the outside were more numerous than on any other similar occasion. Victoria sent two monster excursion loads over, and Nanaimo did splendidly by contributing 500 people to swell the crowds. The soldiers were to be paraded in the morning, but did not do so owing to the bad weather. The crowd congregated on the sidewalks and listened through the gaily decorated business streets.

The day's festivities wound up with a band competition at the Point. Hundreds of spectators gathered on the beach and the crowd was larger in the grand stand than at the attractions of the brilliantly lighted scene. Westminster Lacrosse Team Loses Second Match to the Shamrocks.

Visitors Make a Plucky Fight for the Trophy But Without Avail.

And Eastern Team Wins By A Score of Five to Two Goals.

From Our Own Correspondent. Montreal, July 1.—Today's lacrosse match between the Shamrocks and the New Westminster team, which was the second of a series of three games for the Minto cup, resulted much the same as that of Saturday last, the Shamrocks winning by a score of 5 goals to 2. The game was not entirely free from roughness and many of the men were penalized, but no serious injury was suffered by any of the players. Hookin, of the Shamrocks, whose wrist was dislocated by a fall, which is claimed to have been the result of foul work on the part of Gray, New Westminster's clever point. The latter checked heavily throughout, and did not always confine himself strictly to the playing rules.

When Hookin retired he was replaced by P. Doyle, a junior, who showed himself to be a very clever stick handler, and an exceedingly promising crotchet. However, notwithstanding the rigorous checking, holding of sticks and tripping, the best of feeling prevailed, and at the close of the game was more largely a defensive one for the visitors than that of last Saturday, and while the defence as a whole played a fine role, it was not so successful as that of last Saturday, and while the defence as a whole played a fine role, it was not so successful as that of last Saturday.

For the visitors, Chyent, young Benoit and the two who played so ably yesterday, as well as also Cowan, Latham and Peelle. Lynch also distinguished himself when he got an opening, but he was too closely covered to accomplish much. The visitors will be banqueted by the Shamrocks at the Windsor hotel tomorrow. Toronto, July 1.—(Special)—Customs receipts for the ending yesterday were $5,007,945, as compared with $5,310,885 for the year 1901. This increase of $302,930 is due in large measure to the great increase of dry goods and millinery importations following the general prosperity of the community. The duty collected during June was $468,831, as compared with $378,845 in June, 1901. The number of entries shows rapid increase as well as value. There were 105,018 in the year ending yesterday, as against 9,007 over 1901.
