Polish Up the Dark Side.

Is life a fret and tangle
And everything gone wrong?
Are friends a bit disloyal, And enemies too strong?
Is there no bright side showing?
Then—as a sage has said—
'Polish up the dark side,
And look at that instead!'

The darkest plank of oak will show : Sometimes the finest grain, The roughest rock will sometimes yield A gleaming golden vein;
Don't ral! at fate, declaring
That no brightness shows ahead,
But 'polish up the dark side,
And look at that instead!' - League Journal.

A Morning Call.

'Do tell me,' said Mrs. Jones, who had dropped in for a chat, 'how it happened you have your bread baked and Katie was only mixing hers as I left.'

have your bread baked and Kathe was only mixing hers as I left.'

'That is simple enough,' I replied. 'Yesterday noon I served boiled potatoes for dinner and used the water in which they were boiled to scald my flour in making the yeast. As I started supper, I added salt and sugar and a yeast cake that had been dissolved. After supper dishes were washed I mixed my bread in a stiff loaf and let it rise until this morning, when I moulded it in loaves and put it in the tins. This was done while breakfast was cooking. You know I always prepare as much of this the evening before as possible.'

'Well,' she said, 'loesn't your bread get sour during the night?'

'Not a bit of it. On the contrary it is sweeter than when made the other way, as it does not rise so many times.'

'Do tell me why the blacking on your stove

does not seem to burn off so readily as it does for me.'

'Another simple thing.' I replied. 'Try mixing your blacking with strong cold coffee and a trifle of vinegar.'

'Just one more question and I will go. How do you manage to keep the flies from out the dining-room and kitchen with Miss Swo-year-old leaving screens open so much?'

'By using oil of lavender on all my table linens, curtains, etc. This has no disagreealed odor for people, but the flies do not take kindly to it, as you may see, and best of all it does not leave any stain and is very cheap.
