round the corner like Chery Slime. There is, or was, a genuine Baron de Blaquiere, whose motto is "hold to the truth." He is mentioned in Debrecht as Chief Aluager of Ireland (aluager is one who measures by the ell). Probably this illustrious nobleman was one of those who got an inch and took an ell. Hence the motto. He is, however, a fine specimen of the Irish incendiary when reduced to poverty. He ought to be appointed a magistrate under the Crimes Act. Others, not a whit better than he, have been thus provided for.

PROFOUND sorrow will be the universal feeling among Catholics everywhere at the result of the difficulty of which Dr. McGlynn is the central figure. He is now formally cut off from the Church, and it remains to be seen whether those who sustained him in his opposition to the commands of his ecclesiastical superiors will stand by him. The principles and the movement for which he has shown his willingness to risk the greatest of misfortunes may be all that he claims for them and be destined to revolutionize society. But we fear that they will end, as so many previous departures of the same kind have ended, in failure.

In answer to our request for an explanation concerning its statement that "Sir Hector's contestation in Three Rivers and Mr. McGlovey in Quebec West have been interfered with by elements outside of the leaders," the Quebec Telegraph says:—

There is no difficulty about giving details in this matter. Some time ago it occurred to the leaders of both sides of the House in Parliament, that many contestations could be settled in an amicable manner, for the simple reason that years and years would elapse before such cases would be concluded in our courts. For instance, in Three Rivers the election contestations of Sir Hector and Hon. Turcotte were arranged to be dismissed in Court, by default. Now, what really occurred is this, that while Mr. Turcotte was thrown out of the Court of Review here, that of Sir Hector was proceeded with at Three Rivers, through Mr. L. V. Pelletier, a good deal of gossip, and will end, if not previously arranged, in strange complications. Those who are charged with the settlement of the matter feel very much annoyed, and are bound to follow it up. This is our explanation of the matter, and we are sure that the Post will see how matters stand in contestation affairs.

This only confirms our previous suspicions that electoral fraud has been supplemented by equal chicanery.

AN Ottawa Government organ quotes the following paragraph from the N.P. Tariff Bill of 1879 to prove that the Tories are not opposed to reciprocity:—

"Any or all the following articles—that is to say: Animals of all kinds, green fruit, hay, straw, bran, seeds of all kinds, vegetables including potatoes and other roots, plants, trees and shrubs, coal and coke, salt, hops, wheat, peas, barley, rye, oats, Indian corn, buckwheat and all other grain, butter, cheese, fish (salted or smoked), lard, tallow, meats, (fresh, salted or smoked), and lumber may be imported into Canada free of duty, or at a less rate of duty than is provided by this act, upon proclamation of the Governor-in-Council, which may be issued whenever it appears to his satisfaction that similar articles from Canada may be free of duty at a rate of duty not exceeding that payable on the same under such proclamation when imported into Canada."

Our contemporary does not take into account the great fact that the whole situation has changed, since the act of 1879 has been a dead failure so far as bringing about the results contemplated by the clause quoted. Eight years practical experience has also demonstrated that the policy inaugurated in 1879 has had an effect directly the reverse of that claimed for it. It has proved ruinous to the agricultural interests of the country, and must give way to a broader policy of continental freedom in matters of trade and commerce.

WHO FEARS TO SPEAK OF '87? The final act of Tory infamy was carried on a third reading in the British House of Commons last night.

Majority..... 87 Year..... 87 Of Coercion Acts..... 87 Keep silence, boys, till you hear something drop.

DEBT. Canadian finances under Tory manipulation have a touching affinity to Scotch metaphysics. They can be made to prove anything anyhow. Take, for instance, the statement that appears in the Record of this morning. We are gravely told that "it must be borne in mind that the figures given below will be considerably altered by the final statement; the present surplus will be reduced and the net debt correspondingly increased."

After this preliminary bit of consolation, we are calmly assured that the net debt of the Dominion is $270,200,373. The tables that accompany this showing are unexceptionable, so far as addition and subtraction are concerned. But the wind-up is perfectly paralyzing in the beauty of its simplicity. Look at it:—"The expenditure on capital account last year was $8,177,649. Taken altogether the statements so far are satisfactory. They show that after all the accounts of the year are settled there will probably be a small surplus on account of consolidated fund, that the net increase to the public debt will be trifling compared to the $26,751,414 last year, and that this increase will be greatly exceeded by the amounts spent on capital account."

THE CITADEL FIRE. Incidents reported in connection with the fire at the citadel of Quebec reveal some rather extraordinary features of Canadian militarism. In the first place, we are told that the stables where the fire originated were a perfect tinder-box. Such a construction within an important fortification is a thing unheard of anywhere save under the supervision of the genius that presides over Canadian militia affairs. We are also informed that the magazine was surrounded by piles of cordwood. A more admirable arrangement for bringing about a great explosion could hardly be devised. But what astounds us most is the bursting shells. Were these engines of destruction loaded and packed in straw, or hid in the woodpile, so that in case of fire they would be handy for doing the largest amount of damage? Anyway, supposing they were in the proper place, who ever heard of loaded shells being kept in store? In actual warfare shells are never loaded till the batteries are manured for action, and no more are loaded than are actually used. Of course our Canadian military heroes may have different regulations; if so they are an exception to the artillery service of every country in the world.

THE FIGHT FOR FREEDOM. For some time past the Landlordry of Ireland has issued a weekly seven-by-nine sheet filled with falsehoods concerning Irish affairs and garnished with abuse of the English Liberals and Irish Nationalists. The last number of this detestable publication to hand contains what it calls "The Obstruction Record." This is a tabular statement of the number of questions and speeches by the twenty-eight principal opponents of Coercion in the House of Commons during the present session. These figures are published with a view to discredit the Opposition for pursuing a policy of obstruction. But the effect on all right thinking people will be the exact reverse. Especially will the friends of liberty at home and abroad applaud the heroic determination and exhaustive labor of the noble band who so stoutly resisted the most tyrannical, unconstitutional measure ever proposed in the British Parliament. We cannot, of course, vouch for the correctness of figures coming from so doubtful and untrustworthy a source, but accepting them as they are we are glad to reproduce them. When a powerful English parliamentary party, led by the greatest of living statesmen, makes so persistent a stand against the enemies of Irish freedom, we may be sure that the Tory policy of oppression and extermination is doomed to failure and speedy collapse, to be followed by the triumphant vindication of the alternative policy so ably and wisely advocated by Mr. Gladstone. The following is the table:—

Table with 2 columns: Name, Questions, Speeches. Includes Bradlaugh, Clancy, Clark, Conybeare, Dillon, Ellis, Fynn, Gladstone, Harcourt, Harrington, Healy, Healy, M., Kennedy, Lemond, Molloy, Nelson, O'Connor, O'Connor, O'Connor, O'Donoghue, Parnell, Redmond, Sexton, Tanner.

"From the foregoing," says the authority quoted, "it will be seen that five and twenty members of the Imperial Parliament—seven English and eighteen Irish—have between them put 530 questions and made 1,168 speeches in the House of Commons during a period of eighty-four days." This we regard as a magnificent proof of the zeal and ability of the friends of Ireland, and we accept it as an augury of the coming victory of the principles of liberty and justice in the management of Irish affairs.

THE FOUNDINGS. Interviews published by THE POST concerning the treatment of foundlings have caused a profound sensation. The statements made by Dr. Laberge in the first instance contained details of misery too horrible to contemplate; yet it is a fact that this unnatural evil has been going on unchecked for a long period of years. Commenting on the reports in THE POST, the Witness remarks:—

The scene described by Dr. Laberge of three children being murdered—not kindly and cleanly murdered by suffocation or strangulation or stabbing, but with every possible concomitant of filth, torture and starvation—is not a thing that has happened once and for all. It is a first time, but it is not the first time. A wholesale establishment murders children by the score, by the hundred, by the thousand. It has not been unknown. It is at least fifteen years—since the Witness described the condition of things in a precisely similar way to what Dr. Laberge does now. At that time a leading physician came out in print and told us that Dr. Laberge does now, that the good Sisters could not help it, as they had no money to buy milk. That was just at the time when they were covering acres of ground with costly buildings. The murderers at Cote St. Louis might better plead the same thing. Dr. Laberge makes out that charity is not even an establishment murders children by the score, by the hundred, by the thousand. It has not been unknown. Dr. Laberge makes out that charity is not even an establishment murders children by the score, by the hundred, by the thousand. It has not been unknown. It is at least fifteen years—since the Witness described the condition of things in a precisely similar way to what Dr. Laberge does now. At that time a leading physician came out in print and told us that Dr. Laberge does now, that the good Sisters could not help it, as they had no money to buy milk. That was just at the time when they were covering acres of ground with costly buildings. The murderers at Cote St. Louis might better plead the same thing.
