

As for multilateral European industrial activities, both sides were pleased to note Canadian participation in two EUREKA projects and felt that this was a promising way of bringing together the industrial partners on both sides.

The Canadian side described a study, which is nearing completion, of an inventory of Franco-Canadian co-operation in the area of emerging technologies.

Both sides reiterated the importance of protecting their joint intellectual properties.