

At Fort Churchill our way-worn voyagers received much attention from the officers of the Fort and from the missionary, the Rev. Mr.

village in Ontario, and every nail in it was driven by the missionary's own hands. Five miles from the Fort are the ruins of old

J. BURR TYRRELL.

(Leaving for Churchill.)

Lothouse, and his wife. Here was a substantial church capable of holding three hundred persons, which would do credit to many a

Fort Prince of Wales—a hundred years ago a noble fortress, three hundred feet square, with stone walls twenty feet high, thirty