The World has no cause but the cause of the people, and The World has supported Sir James Whitney because he has fought for the people as no other party leader has done in Ontario. But when he fails to see the people's side of a question we will tell him so, frankly and urgently, as in the matter of the rallway and municipal board, and some other questions. But telling the truth to Sir James, who is generally willing to listen to it, is bim so, frankly and uniquely, as in the matter of the railway and municipal board, and some other questions. Pastor Russell's Sermon

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 26.—Pas-or Russell of the London and Brooklyn abernacie preached twice here to-lay. We give a brief synopsis of his day. We give a brief synopsis of his discourse on Thanksgiving.

With more cause than ever for thankfulness, Christendom is losing the sentiment of gratitude to God, and Thanksgiving Day is to many merely a holiday. In religious matters in general Christendom is rapidly approaching the conditions prophesial by st. Faul, when men would preserve the form of godliness but deny its power. (II Timothy iii, i). The cause of this the pastor traced to the increasing intelligence of our day which, along religious lines, has cut loose from the Bible and proportionately cut loose from God.

Higher critics, not contant with the

from God.

Higher critics, not content with the rejection of the creeds of the dark ages, have attacked the Bible, prejudiced against it by the inconsistencies of the creeds. Thinking to render assistance to humanity and to the truth, they have for fifty years been quietly and successfully engaged in undermining the faith of Christendom in the Bible as a divine revelation. They claim for themselves a similar inspiration to that of the apostles, while they rid cultiple thought that holy prophets of old spake and wrote as they were moved by the Holy Spirit.—II Peter i, 21.

Rejecting the Bible as a special, divine revelation from a personal God, the next step of the higher critics was an easy one—to provialm nature the god and creator of all things—an impersonal god. Thus they were just in line for Darwin's theory of evolution—that nature is god, and work is the law of nature—the survival of the fittest—and the fittest the most pugnacious and overbearing and selfish-scheming.

Rejecting the Bible as a special drag for the revelation from a personal God, he next step of the higher crifics was in easy one—to provide nature the sod and creator of all things—an impersonal god. Thus they were just in line for Darwin's theory of evolution—that nature is god, and work is the law of nature—the survival of the fittest—and the fittest the most pugnacious and overbearing and selfsh-schem fig.

Thus we have gradually reached the place where the masses of Christendom doubt the existence on a prisual God, and are inclined to believe in a blind, brutal force—a nature god—and to hepe that by some process of condutton the children's hildren, in the far is hereafter, may at ain to something better than the present; but they see not we even the assurance of a fature life, for J. > Hearken to St. Paul's explanation of the extreme degradation of heathen-dom. He declares that because of unthankfulness God gave over those peo-ples to the doing of their own wills, to the degradation of their own bodies, to the dwarfing of their own intellects and morals.

We may be sure, similarly, that un-thankfulness to-day will bring upon man, naturally, a great curse—i great calamity. We see it coming.
