Co-operation

EVERY Canadian is alive to the necessity for unselfish service of some sort, looking towards war-time economy and efficiency.

Where once a few men co-operated in the running of a machine or a business, whole communities are now working together for the welfare of all.

Each telephone call is a temporary partnership between the caller, the operator and the person called.

To get the best out of the telephone so that its task of effecting economies and promoting efficiency may be well done, there must be co-operation.

The person calling must
Make sure of the number by first consulting the directory.
Speak distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.

The operator must
Repeat distinctly the number asked for, and make quick and accurate connection.

The person called must
Answer promptly and courteously.
Speak distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.

We ask your co-operation in our efforts to make our service equal to war-time demands.
