EGERTON ST. CHURCH REOPENED SUNDAY; WINDOWS UNVEILED

Minister Refers To Splendid Way Members, Friends Contributed To Building Fund.

The doxology was never sung with greater fervor than it was by the congregation of the Egerton Street Baptist Church when the church was reopened for the first time since the fire on the morning of February 1 of this year. Rev. Robert White, of Brantford, was the special speaker at the three services held in the church yesterday, which will be memorable occasions to the congregation. The windows which were destroyed at the time of the fire were all replaced and were dedicated at the morning service yesterday. The windows, though simple in design, are artistically beautiful. The four windows unveiled were dedicated to the memory of Charlie MacDonald, Jack McPhail, Martin and Charles Roberts, George Graham, and the late Mr. and Mrs. White, who were members of the church and noble characters of the young men to whose memory the windows were erected.

At the afternoon service the two windows presented to the church by the Invaluable Men's Class and the Married Ladies' Bible Class were unveiled. On Thursday evening the remaining windows will be unveiled, one to the memory of the late Mrs. E. H. Isard, and the other to the memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Isard, who were members of the church and noble characters of the young men to whose memory the windows were erected.

Rev. A. C. Bingham addressed the congregation, referring to the splendid way in which the congregation of London and friends as far away as Brantford have contributed to the rebuilding of the Egerton Street Baptist Church, the first church in that section of the city. He called them up and asked them to contribute to the rebuilding of the church, and he said that everyone who gives to the church will be remembered in the book of life. He said that the church is a place where we can find comfort and solace in our times of trouble, and he urged everyone to contribute to the rebuilding of the church.

Dr. Louis Wood, who was one of the most outstanding movers in the introduction of the minimum wage law to the Ontario Government, was the speaker at a meeting of the University Women's Club held at the Western Arts' Building on Saturday night. Speaking on "The Minimum Wage," he declared:

"We are not advocating the making of all the people into millionaires, but we are merely endeavoring to raise the standard of life, so that males and females may be rescued from a condition of life which is one of poverty and misery. We don't want simply palliatives in this world, but conditions that will allow people to make a decent living."

The speaker in referring to the excellent results that have been achieved by the minimum wage law was operative in the fact that this law had not only given the workers living at home, and often working in squalidness, filth and disease.

During the evening Dr. Wood was asked if he considered that present indications of unemployment predicted a bad time for the laboring classes. The speaker replied that Canada was now facing an industrial crisis similar to that which immediately preceded the outbreak of the war, that the crisis had been of short duration and that it would be followed by a period of prosperity, superficial though it may have been. He believed that now again the crisis might be passed in a short time and prosperity again enjoyed, but that he was rather inclined to be pessimistic about it.

"No one is really able to tell what will happen," he said. Dr. Wood traced the minimum wage principle back to Australasia, where it was first introduced, having its earliest beginning in New Zealand, in 1893. He spoke of how the principle quickly spread throughout the whole of Australasia and New Zealand, practically driving sweating out of the countries; how the principle was then taken to Great Britain, where it was introduced in 1908 and became law in 1909, thus raising the standard of living there; how the United States began agitating in this direction after the success of the law in Great Britain had been demonstrated, and how difficult it had been for the United States to get this law through its Congress on account of its constitution based on the "laissez faire" doctrine.

The speaker mentioned how the state of Massachusetts decided to try out the minimum wage law in 1912, and how subsequently thirteen other states followed in line, and how finally the principle had reached Canada, where it was introduced in 1919. He mentioned in particular several interesting cases in the hospital in Montreal, where the influence of the living spirit's quickening power on the wounded bodies of the men, leading them to recovery.

"The happiest moments of my life were spent among these men," said the speaker. "We who live must not forget that price, and we must put every endeavor into it, according to the law for which the men overseas died."

At the close of the evening service at Cronyn Memorial Church yesterday, Miss Helen Boulton of England spoke of her "Spiritual Experiences With the Men at the Front."

Beginning with a beautiful description of France's spiritual awakening and the influence of the living spirit's quickening power on the wounded bodies of the men, leading them to recovery.

Dr. Wood's address was followed by a splendid paper on "Labor Legislation As Applied To Women and Children In Ontario," given by Miss Grange, one of the club members. This paper dealt largely with the actual laws themselves which were read clause by clause and discussed. It referred to matters which had been passed for health and safety of employees, shorter hours, against child labor, etc., leading up at last to the latest acts, the adolescent school attendance act and the mothers' allowance act, the first of which is to come into force about September, 1921, compelling adolescent workers to attend certain classes for instruction in their particular trade, and compelling employers to provide such classes for the workers. The speaker told how of this act had been passed to promote industry and mechanical trades in Canada.

At the next meeting in January "Trade Unionism" will be the subject for study. Mrs. Neville occupied the chair on Saturday night, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

BISHOP M. F. FALLON TENDERED RECEPTION ON SUNDAY EVENING

Will Use Purse of Gold Given Him For Educational Purposes.

Rt. Rev. Bishop M. F. Fallon, head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, returned Sunday afternoon from a visit to Rome, Italy, France, England and other European countries. Two special cars over the London and West Stanley Railway carried a large number of prominent Catholics laymen and clergy to meet Bishop Fallon and Mr. and Mrs. Pocock, and a large crowd was also waiting at the London station. As Bishop Fallon stepped out of the car he was greeted by a rousing welcome from the boys of La Salle College, who gave their school yell.

A reception was tendered Bishop Fallon at St. Peter's Cathedral prior to the sermon Sunday evening, and a purse of $2,500 was presented to him. He stated that he would devote it to the advancement of Catholic education in the diocese, and not to personal use.

Liberal Response. The address was read by Richard Portfield and the presentation was made by R. M. Burns. In the address reference was made to the success of the educational work of the diocese, as Bishop Fallon in London, including Brescia College and La Salle College, and the success of the diocese in the liberal response of the people of the diocese to an appeal under the direction of the Archbishop of the poor missions of the Archdiocese of Winnipeg.

Opening his address, Bishop Fallon expressed a tribute to the excellent conduct of the diocese in his absence by the vicar general and his good work of the Christian Brothers. He was grateful for the Christian Brothers who had done for him in his education, and it was his one ambition that every Catholic boy and girl in his diocese should have every opportunity to enjoy the highest possible education.

During his visit to the Vatican, he stated that Pope Benedict XV. in his address to the world, had blessed the educational progress of the diocese. He said that the faith in strong devotion and the love of the Christian Brothers had done for him in his education, and it was his one ambition that every Catholic boy and girl in his diocese should have every opportunity to enjoy the highest possible education.

Home of Justice. "Home is the home of truth and justice, and I love truth and justice," said Bishop Fallon. "I have never sought for any favor."

During the war hitherto worst enemies of the pope had held out their hands, imploring him to curse their enemies, but the pope had refused to do so. He said that the pope had refused to do so because he was a man of peace and justice, and he wanted to see the world at peace and justice.

France and Switzerland, long estranged from the Vatican, have now appointed representatives, and the nations are turning to the Vatican for leadership in this time of unrest and trouble. He said that the pope had refused to do so because he was a man of peace and justice, and he wanted to see the world at peace and justice.

POPULAR SECRETARY OF TRAVELERS DIES. John H. Hiscocks in Office For Six Years—Burial At Wingham.

"He will be very greatly missed; he was the best secretary we have ever had," said G. Morley Adams, president of the Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association, at the funeral of John H. Hiscocks, 179 Waverley road, London, South, whose death took place at his home on Sunday.

Mr. Hiscocks had resided in London for seventeen years, coming to this city from Chatham in 1903, as head bookkeeper and cashier of the International Harvester Company. In 1914 he was appointed secretary of the Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association, a position which he filled until his death with great success. He was well known to the members of the association, and to the travelling community in Ontario and held in high esteem.

For some years he lived in Wingham, where he was a member of the St. James' Anglican Church, South London, and of the Wingham Masonic lodge. He is survived by his wife, one son, Rev. Griffin Hiscocks, Toronto; two daughters, Miss Gladys Hiscocks, Toronto, and Miss Vida, Montreal, and two brothers, J. J., Teeswater, and L. J., Chatham.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the St. James' Anglican Church, South London, for service, and at 11 o'clock at the funeral home, 905 Adelaide street, where interment will be made.

TRAINING OF INJURED WORKMEN PLANNED. Compensation Not Always Sufficient, Ontario Labor Members Contend.

To reclaim the "human scrap heap" is the purpose of a measure introduced by Labor members at the last session of the Ontario Legislature by which workmen injured at their occupation will be trained for some other vocation in the same manner as wounded soldiers now are trained. Dr. H. A. Stevenson said Saturday.

The proposition was made by three Labor members, Hon. Mr. McNamara, Riverdale; Hon. Mr. Homuth, Waterloo, and Dr. J. E. H. Stevenson, who was supported by the House, and it was decided to appoint a committee to consider the matter and to report on the operation. This likely will be done early in the next session.

DECISION RE TANNER CHILDREN RESERVED

Application by Parents For Custody of Eldest Boy Renewed.

The long-standing Tanner case was again argued before Justice Kelly in the weekly high court session here Saturday. W. C. Brown renewed an application on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Tanner for the custody of a boy, now 18 years of age, at present a ward of the Woodstock Children's Aid Society. Originally there were four Tanner children involved in the case, but one of them died and two others are known by the parents to be in foster homes where they are being kindly treated. It was charged by the parents that they were not notified by the Woodstock society when the one child died, but the society claims that it did not know the parents' address, and notified the dead child's brother who attended the funeral.

The society gained possession of the children through alleged unsuitable conditions prevailing in the Tanner home, but these conditions the parents now claim to have been improved. The boy still involved in the case is working for an Oxford County farmer.

Decision was reserved by the judge. When a later presentation was made to appear before him and give further evidence. A. S. East, Woodstock, appeared for the Woodstock Children's Aid Society.

There was also reserved in connection with an application of Nathan Norton for leave to transfer his property from the home of his wife, who has been living in California for some years, to the home of his wife, who was represented by representatives of either side, and the question whether the circumstances were such as to warrant the wife to do so is to be determined.

Are you rushing on to disaster?

TRAIN, marine, street car—in fact, all disasters are on the decrease, largely due to educational propaganda preventing carelessness. The toll of human life through ill health and disease is also on the decrease. People of the 20th century are realising more and more the necessity of keeping themselves fit and well, for without health they can never attain their ambitions.

There are still some, however, who ignore a vital factor in preserving their health and strength. They ignore medical scientists who tell us the necessity of repairing the ravishes on the heart and nerve centres. These are the people who fail to wake up one morning; the people who drop dead in the street, in the car or train, and just at a critical time when they are specially needed by friends and dependents.

ARE YOU IN THESE RANKS, inviting disaster? Do you ever feel that your work is proving a slight strain upon you? Would you be able to fill a bigger position to-morrow, make the rapid, clever decisions which bring success? Would your employer choose YOU? You can rest assured he won't if you're not in robust health. He can't take chances with ailing people. But you can obtain the health that will MAKE him choose you by restoring the heart and nerve centres, the vital organs of the entire system. Thousands of people have accomplished this by the use of Milburn's Heart & Nerve Pills.

GOOD health cannot be maintained if constipation is allowed to poison the system. Nujol works on an entirely new principle. Without forcing or irritating, it softens the food waste.
