for the mayoralty. Harry Winberg, and the little I managed to eat at other meals would soon sour on my stomach. I was constantly belching oditor of The Hebrew Journal, who was defeated by Mayor Church in the 1916 campaign, announced himself last night. Mr. Winberg says that he is not anxious to be mayor of Toronto for the sake of the prestige or the salary actached to the office, but inerely to serve the best interests of the citizens. To substantiate this statement he says that on the day he is elected he will place seven $1,000 bills and one $500 bill in the hands of City Clerk Littlejohn to be devoted to the interests of the soldiers and their families. Seven thousand five hundred dollars represents the amount of the mayor's salary for one year.

Outside of the mayoralty fight yes-

Outside of the mayoralty fight yesterday was a day of unrest in the campaign. The doubtful candidates were, in most cases, still considering to what office they would aspire. But in the fight for the mayor's chair the first skirmish was fought and it proved to be an interesting one.

Traced the Rumor.

It/ started with a rumor to the effect that Major C. H. Riches and Controller Robert Cameron, who are opposing ence to see how best they could work together to defeat the present mayor. The story was traced to the mayors office, and when seen by a reporter for The World, his worship stated that he had heard of the conference from a man high up in Liberal-Conservative circles. That gentleman informed the reporter that Major Riches himself was responsible for the statement that a conference had been arranged. When the reporter got Major Riches on the telephone, he stated that he expected to see Controller Cameron some time during the day, but denied that he had arranged a conference to "fix" the election to defeat Mayor Church. "I never saw the controller, tho, and I never spoke to him in my life," explained Major Riches "His brother telephoned to me and said that Con troller Cameron might drop in during the afternoon to talk things over."

Without Authority.

Controller Cameron was indignant when he heard the story and characterized the report that he and Major Riches were trying to "fix" the elec-tion as a "deliberate falsehood."
