IMMENSE VALUE OF BAKU OIL FIELDS

Suffer Stagnation Under Soviet Rule and Pumps are Idle.

Baku, Azerbaijan, Oct. 27-No part of Russia seems to possess more attractions for the American capitalist oil fields on the Caspian Sea. If properly developed these wells are capable of producing sufficient gasoline; kerosene, lubricating oil, vaseline and byproducts to keep the entre world supplied, it is said. But in their present state the fields present a melancholy picture. Only a small percentage of them are in actual operation. The great wooden derricks and the pumps, compressors and drills on the remaining wells are fast falling into decay. It is as if a great storm had suddenly visited a primeval forest, stripping the trees of their limbs and roots, and leaving ruin and desolation in its wake. At a distance the idle, decaying derricks, which cover an area of 60,000 acres, resemble a vast cemetery of conical tombstones. Scarcely a vapor of smoke issues from the blackened wells or the neighboring refineries to give the sombre picture any form of animation. Only here and there does one the a workman. The interminable rows of small wooden houses which in Czarist days housed the tens of thousands of employes, have degenerated into wretched hovels, for the most part deserted and ruined. The award of the scholarship to Cusson was not considered extraordinary by those who know his command of the plano, but it is remarkable that one who has been blind since birth should have qualified for the distinction. Cusson traveled alone under the care of the Canadian Pacific officials. He has taken residence with the Insti-tute National for the Blind, where he will stay during his studies in

Due to Soviet Rufe.

This stagnation is due to Soviet Russia's lack of capital, modern machinery and technical skill to develop the oil fields, which were taken over by the state soon after the 1918 revolution. "We have not the means nor the necessary equipment to work these fields properly," said an Azerbaijan Soviet official frankly to the correspondent, "and we are anxious to have American capital and American engineering skill."

When asked upon what terms American oil promoters would be admitted to Baku, the Soviet official referred the torrespondent to Moscow. It is obvipus from this that no concessions of privileges in the oil fields can be granted by the Azerbaijan government without the consent of the central government at Moscow.

According to the Moscow government at Moscow.

According to the central government at Moscow at the consent of the central government, the Baku fields are now producing only slightly less than the output of pre-war days. But a visit to the fields failed to confirm such roseate figures.

Only at the refinery of the Nobel brothers, now nationalized by the Soviet as Russian state property, was the cre anything like normal activity. Here the monthly production of oil and its by-products was said to be sufficient to take care of all of Russia's needs and to varied.

According to the detectives, Martholer has a criminal record, having been sentenced to the New Jersey State Reformatory in 1915 for robbery, and arrested in connection with a murder in Weehawken in 1921. At the present time, they said, he is under $6,000 bail, charged with stealing a truck in Newark, N. J. They said that they had expected to clean up a number of other thefts as the result of the arrests.

PLAN OLYMPIC FAIR.

A fair in aid of the Olympic fund of the M. P. B. A. A. coming to Armenia she took an intensive course in agriculture at Vassar College, graduating with high honors. The young American girl has introduced the "project" system of farming in Armenia, which proved so successful in the United States during the World War. She began her work here by giving instruction in agriculture to classes of destitute Armenian orphans.

COLLEGE SESSION PLANNED.

A meeting of representatives of the maritime colleges will be held in Halifax on Tuesday, October 28, to discuss the offer of the Carnegie Corporation. Dr. W. S. Carter, chief superintendent of education, will represent the University of New Brunswick. After the meeting he will go to Campbellton to attend the Restigouche County Institute, to be held October 30 and 31.

Increase in Cotton Culture— American Girl Teaches General Farming.

Erivan, Armenia, Sept. 25.—(Associated Press, by mail.)—American methods of cotton-growing are being introduced into Armenia. A new cotton factory equipped with modern American machinery has just been completed in Erivan. At the present time more than 40,000 acres of cotton are under cultivation. This is 40 times greater than the acreage under cultivation in 1921. The Armenian government expects this year to produce 30,000,000 pounds of raw cotton. One factory in Erivan has an output of nearly 2,000,000 pounds a month.

In order to encourage farmers to cultivate their own cotton fields, the government is allotting them large quantities of free seed. The government pays $2.75 for 40 pounds of the raw material. The present average yield is about 1,000 pounds an acre.

Djalal Oglu does not appear in any gazetteer or geography. It is a town of 6,000 souls, detached from the outside world and buried in the heart of the mountains of Armenia. It doesn't even boast of a telegraph office, newspaper, automobile or trolley-car. But there is a Vassar College girl here, Miss Phyllis Brown of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who is teaching the Armenian American methods of farming.

A Girl Farmer.

Miss Brown, who is connected with the American Near East Relief, not only has made two potatoes to grow where only one grew before, but she has taught the Armenian peastants American methods of dairying, cattle raising and poultry culture. It was Vera's body.

When the correspondent arrived in Djalal Oglu, after a ten-hour trip in an ox-cart over the Armenian mountains, he found the young Vassar graduate working a huge American plough, drawn by two sturdy camels, while a class of several hundred men and boys looked on. Until Miss Brown's advent, the Armenians had nothing except the old wooden plough in use in Biblical times.
