TIMBER MATTERS Some Cracks at Ontario Management in Report of Riddell-Latchford Commission.

Toronto, June 27—Reorganization of of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and changes in the departmental methods of securing and checking up the returns which are the basis of the payment of dues to the province and in dealing generally with the timber resources of Ontario are outstanding among recommendations of the Riddell-Latchford timber commission report as presented to the government yesterday. It quotes former Deputy Minister Grigg as saying that the "system of book-eping in the department would be a isgrace to a country store."

The report continues:—"A very objectionable as well as illegal practice has been followed of granting permits in large areas without competition of any kind." It cites thirteen limits disposed of in this way in the fall months of 1919, totalling about 926 square miles, and three similar cases earlier in the ame year involving 103 square miles.
