EAGERLY WAITED

LETTER CAME BUT WITH AWFUL NEWS

St. John Captain Killed While on Way to Mail Epistle to Wife—Letter Forwarded With News of Death

Waiting expectantly for the coming of a letter from her husband, Mrs. William Davis of Brussels street, was pleased on Saturday to receive one from him dated Kingston, Jamaica, but her joy quickly turned to sorrow and she was overcome with grief when she found that the envelope contained the sad tidings that he had met his fate in the harbor there nearly a week ago. He was captain of a large vessel which was lying at that port for cargo and he had just written a letter in the cabin, to his wife in this city. He started ashore to see it in motion homeward by dropping it in a letter-box, but slipped and fell from the gang-plank into the water between the wharf and the schooner.

An effort was made to rescue him, but it was futile. It is believed that in falling he struck his head against an abutment and was really dead before he fell into the water. Others aboard the schooner found the letter addressed to his wife and forwarded it, along with the pitiful tidings of his death. Captain Davis belonged to Nova Scotia, but lived here for a time. He was about thirty-five years of age, and was much respected by many friends. His wife, for whom hearty sympathy is felt, resides with her sister, Mrs. Davidson, in Brussels street.
