

KAISER MUST KEEP SILENCE

HIS "INDISCRETIONS" HAVE REACHED A LIMIT

Ministers Can No Longer Be Responsible for Utterances, Says Von Buelow.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—Emperor William never was so severely judged by his parliament as he was yesterday during the debate in the Reichstag on interpellations concerning the conversations published with the permission of the Emperor in the London Daily Telegraph on October 28th. The criticisms of His Majesty's court, his ministers and His Majesty's treatment of the constitution, as well as of his freedom of speech, went to lengths that astonished observers acquainted with the traditional caution of the chamber in dealing with the personality of the sovereign, and the Emperor seemed to have no defenders. Chancellor Von Buelow made an address lasting fifteen minutes, but he lacked his usual spirit, and a person high in his confidence is authority for the statement that he also had told the Emperor that neither himself nor his successors could remain in office unless His Majesty was more reserved. The House received Von Buelow's explanation in icy silence. The Conservatives, representing the landed nobility, were almost as relentless as the Socialists, and the Radicals and the National Liberals. Yesterday's proceedings are regarded by the extreme Liberals as the beginning of a long contest between the crown and parliament that may end in Germany having a ministry responsible to parliament and not to the crown alone. Prince Von Buelow spoke earnestly in reply to the criticism on the government and Emperor. He said: "I must weigh my words because of the effect they will have abroad. I do not wish to add fresh prejudice to the damage already caused by the publication in the Daily Telegraph. I assume that the details given therein are not all correct, and I am certain that the story about a detailed plan of campaign to end the Boer war is not right. The plan consisted merely of some academic ideas concerning the conduct of war in general, which the Emperor conveyed to Queen Victoria in the course of their correspondence, and it was without practical significance for the operations then going on or for the ending of the war. "We must defend our policy during the Boer war against accusations and equivocation. We gave timely warning to the Boers that they were alone against England, and that there was no doubt regarding the result. "The facts with reference to the question of intervention have long been public property, and whether the communication of these to Queen Victoria constitutes a violation of diplomatic rules depends on circumstances unknown to the public. "Concerning the statement attributed to Emperor William, that a majority of the German people are hostile to Great Britain, the expression used by the Telegraph is too strong. Serious and regrettable misunderstandings have existed between Great Britain and Germany, but the German people desire peaceful relations with Great Britain and the British empire, joined with mutual respect. "Too great stress also is laid upon the point in the interview dealing with our interests in the Pacific ocean, which were incorrectly presented as inimical to Japan. We never thought about east Asia except for the purpose of obtaining a portion of the trade arising from economic development, and we have no idea of undertaking a maritime adventure there. The extension of the German fleet is just as little intended for aggrandizement in the Pacific ocean as in Europe. Germany's policy is not to limit the development of Japan. "For twenty years the Emperor has striven to improve the relations with Great Britain, often under difficult circumstances. The people of both countries occasionally have attacked each other without real justification, and the Emperor considered this a misfortune for both and a danger to the civilized world. The Emperor's instinctive thoughts, purposes and efforts, often without reason, have caused doubts to arise. We wish to avoid anything like the currying of favor abroad and anything appearing to exercise insincerity or the running after anyone, but I quite understand the Emperor's feeling aggrieved when attacked because of his zealous and honest efforts to bring about good relations with Great Britain in connection with the fleet, but these are entirely false. "The recognition by His Majesty of the unjustified misunderstanding of his interferences in reference to Great Britain and the excitement and regret aroused thereby in Germany, will, I am convinced, lead the Emperor, in future private conversations, to exercise that reserve which in the interest of a uniform policy and the authority of the crown is indispensable. If this proves not to be so, neither I nor anyone of my successors could take responsibility. I accepted the blame for the publication of the article in the Daily Telegraph, and offered my resignation, and it was the most difficult task in my political life to resign to remain in office. How long I will continue I do not know, but I consider it my duty at this difficult period to continue to serve the Emperor and the nation."

WOULD ABOLISH CABLE MONOPOLY

SILENCING INFLUENCES THAT MAKE FOR WAR

Heniker Heaton Makes Strong Plea for Penny-a-word Cablegrams.

London, Nov. 11.—Heniker Heaton, the father of the Imperial penny postage idea, addressed a big audience in the Royal Colonial Institute last evening, and advocated the transmission of cablegrams at one penny a word. He declared that an immediate end ought to be put to the present cable monopoly at any cost, and that the cable companies should be bought out at the market price by the civilized governments of the world. The first step to this end would be a conference of the postmasters general of Europe and the establishment of the penny a word rate in this hemisphere, then there should be a conference with the postal authorities of America. The carrying capacity of the cable lines between the continent and America, Mr. Heaton declared, was twelve times greater than the amount of business at present handled, and a majority of them were unscrupulously kept idle by the cable monopoly. Civilized governments should and would abolish frontiers for telegraphic purposes. Mr. Heaton urged a universal tariff as the best way to clear up misunderstandings and bring race in touch with races, thus silencing the influences that make for war. DEATH OF NEWSPAPERMAN. Buffalo, N. Flagler's Florida East Coast railroad, which have been pending in the United States courts for this district for nearly two years, were put on trial before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court yesterday. Daymond B. Stanchfield, who appeared for the accused, Mr. Flagler, the personal counsel for Mr. Flagler, and Deputy Attorney-General Usted, outlined the prosecution's case, claiming that the treatment accorded the workmen supplied to the Florida East Coast Company by the defendants was nothing more than slavery. John P. Stanchfield, attorney for the Florida East Coast Company, and personal counsel for Henry M. Flagler, the company's president and principal shareholder, moved that the indictment charging peonage and slavery be dismissed, as the one charge destroyed the other. Judge Hough was inclined to hold that the charge of peonage was not well founded, but declared that he would rule in the matter on any point brought out during the presentation of the evidence. TO REMOVE POSTMASTER. Seattle Official Was Guilty of Soliciting Campaign Contributions. REIGN OF TERROR IN CALCUTTA

DASTARDLY ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF SIR A. FRASER

DETECTIVE SHOT DEAD BY REVOLUTIONISTS—ARMS SHIPPED IN FROM U. S. A.

Calcutta, Nov. 11.—The city of Calcutta is terrorized by an outbreak of political crimes. The daring, but unsuccessful, attempt made four days ago on the life of Sir Andrew L. H. Fraser, the lieutenant governor of Bengal, was followed by a murder on Monday evening. A Bengal detective, who had been active in trailing the revolutionists, was shot down on a crowded street by three men. The people fear to give information concerning the criminals, lest vengeance be visited upon them. The police are powerless. One of the two natives who was found guilty of murdering a man named Goswami last summer was hanged yesterday. All the police reserves of the city have been ordered on duty to prevent sympathetic demonstrations. In the course of a trial at Midnapore, Bengal, in connection with a discovery of arms and explosives, a police informer testified that one of the accused had told him that many cases of rifles and revolvers had been shipped from America to Bombay under the guise of sewing machines and cotton goods. The attack on Sir Andrew Fraser was particularly daring, and was the third since his appointment in 1903. The lieutenant governor accompanied by the Maharajah of Burdwan, an important ally of the British, and Secretary Barber of the Y. M. C. A. attended a lecture given by Professor E. D. Burton of Chicago university at the town hall, which was crowded with an audience that included many of the most prominent residents. Just as the lieutenant governor stepped upon the dais, a young man, who afterward gave the name of Snowbury, rushed up and thrust a revolver within a few inches of Sir Andrew's body and pulled the trigger twice, but the cartridges missed fire and Mr. Barber, who is an American, lunged himself up and snatched the revolver from the assailant. The latter struck savagely at the secretary with his revolver and wounded him severely on the head, but was eventually overpowered. The Maharajah, a man of great stature and strength, called the lieutenant governor and flung him bodily through a door out into the street. A group of Bengalis, occupying chairs jumped quickly to their feet and rushed out of the hall. They escaped during the commotion. It is believed that they were present in order to assist Snowbury, but took alarm at his complete failure to carry out his plan. Officers for the coming twelve months were elected by the Officers Society Monday at a meeting held in the Sir William Wallace hall. Those chosen were: James Taylor, honorary president; F. J. Riddell, re-elected president for the third term; Donald T. Dwyer, first vice-president; Edward Wisland, second vice-president; James Angus, treasurer; W. Wisland, recording secretary; Arthur Manson, financial secretary; Robert Wilson, guard. The annual dinner of the society will be held on St. Andrew's night, November 30th, at the Empress hotel, and the arrangements are in hand. The fire brigade had a run about 3:30 p. m. Monday to the Northern Crown Bank where it was found that smoke from a defective chimney caused one of the staff working in the bank to send in the alarm. It was found out that a stove pipe had been pulled out from the chimney. No damage was done to the premises. The many friends of Major Hibben will be surprised and pleased to learn of his wedding, which took place in California to Miss Denniff, late of Victoria.

EXPLOSION ON LAKE STEAMER

SHOCKING SCENE ABOARD TEMISKAMING; FIVE DEAD

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 10.—A frightful accident occurred late last evening on Lake Temiskaming, adding a sacrifice of at least five lives to the already long list of shipping casualties which have occurred in one way or another on this body of water. Yesterday's catastrophe occurred about 6 o'clock when the boilers of the steamer Temiskaming, owned by the Temiskaming Navigation Company, blew up as the vessel was nearing a place known as Temiskaming landing on her regular trip from Hazelton. From the scant details of the accident received here nothing is known as to the exact cause of the explosion, but five persons are believed to be dead and several others are injured, two of them probably fatally. The steamer was carrying passengers and freight when without any warning her boilers suddenly exploded, wrecking the steamer and throwing passengers and crew into a terrible panic, several being cast into the lake by the force of the explosion. The scene is very remote, Temiskaming landing being on a branch of the C. P. R. running north from Mattawa. It is known that five met death from the explosion or drowning, while many are injured. A special train left Mattawa to bring the injured to that place for treatment. So far as ascertained last night the casualty list includes: McBride, a hunter from the United States, missing; J. Menard, fireman, McBride is supposed to have been drowned. EE A MOTHER'S EE
HAPPY THOUGHT.
A lady writing from Ireland says:—"I went to see my sister's baby, who was very ill indeed. She had been up for nights with him without sleeping; he was crying all the time as with some internal pain. The doctor told her he could do nothing except put him in a warm bath, which gave him a little ease for the time being. "I thought of STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS—which I used for my own children; and next day I sent some to my sister, when she gave the child half a powder according to the directions. For the first time for a fortnight she and the baby, and, in fact, all the household, had a good night's sleep, and the little fellow has continued to improve ever since." "These powders do not contain poison, nor are they a narcotic; but they act gently on the bowels, thus relieving feverish heat and preventing fits, convulsions, etc." EE STEEDMAN'S EE
