On Wednesday, 29th ult., Fred. King of Fairville, with several companions, went to the Bay Shore far the purpose of having a swim. The young men stripped and wading some distance from the shore started to swim in. King was behind his companions and when they got on the beach they looked around for him and noticed that while his body was on the surface his head was below water, face downward. Fearing that he had met with some accident they rushed back to his rescue. The water at this place is very shallow. The body was car-ried ashore as quickly as possible and every effort made to resuscitate the unfortunate lad, but without avail. A physician happened to be close at hand and being called upon informed King's friends that their companion was dead. The body was taken to the residence of the deceased's father, L. H. King, at Fairville, Oroner Robinson was immediately notified, and having empanelled a jury held an inquest. After considering the evidence of King's com-panions, the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning. she continued, "away from the dust and the dirt with which you are mixed." "The reporter shut his eyes, and what did he see? Green fields wandering away through clumps of cedar and spruce-white cottages surrounded by forests of flowers-happy children chasing butterfles, and green graves kept green by the handiwork of loving hearts. "I think," she said, "That of all men's lives," the acddet is that of these who live in clues." the saddest is that of those who live in cities. And the reporter thought of the green fields and the marguerites and the daisies, and the thousand wild blossoms to which he gives no name, and the brooks that purl over their lossy pebbles, and he rested his head on his hand and answered not. It was not Mr. Kennedy, but whoever it was, he touched the arm of the reporter very lightly, and he said : Huh ! come awa !"

known as an efficient teacher, still appears in connection with the English department, Albert A. Mack, Professor of instrumental and vocal music, assumed charge of that department at the commencement of last August. Having had a thorough training in Germany for fifteen years, he will certain yrove a valuable acquisition to Mt. Allison. Miss M. E. Townshend's Art Gallery elicited very favorable press comments at the recent closing exercises at Sackville, and she will next year add several attractive features to this department, Miss Anna Mack, who

LONDON AND DEPTFORD.

Monday's trade was not quite so bad as that experienced in Liverpool, but on Thurs-day nothing but handy, well finished cattle could be sold. Considering how trade ruled temperature meeting was held as white a meet-ing house. Long Beach, under the anspices of Pearl Lodge, I. O. G. T. The meeting was presided over by the worthy chief, Theodore Holder, who introduced the delegation from St. John as the speakers. After singing some at Deptford, prices at Islington were fairly good, and I have no doubt 133. was made for choice sorts. Here, as everywhere else, it was the weather, the weather. After the meagre offerings temperance hymns, and reading and prayer the audience were attentive listeners to an address by Calvin Powers-who expounded the temper of Thursday, and the absence of any-thing like the usual consignment from Liverpool of killed beef, a better tone was John Meahan followed in the same strain, and after another hymn being sang Messers, John Law, A. P. Wilson and A. A. Mabee gave earnest addresses on beha'f of apparent in the central meat market, and yesterday (Friday) a clearance was almost reported. Today a wire from Smithfield quotes 125, for bodies, so that the drop in eported. temperance. The meeting was the first of the kind ever held at the Reach, and the audience prices is recovering just a trifle. Taking the usual charges this figure (120.) would equal 1112. in Liverpool, so that we may expect for next week some little advance. est mani for last year was exceptionally light, and this year it looked as if even it would be made lighter. With this week's returns, however, the chances are that insurance doxology. In the evening a moneter gospel temperance rates will jump up, the mortality having leaped from 0.80 to nearer 4 per cent. It is meeting was held at the Temperance hall in Greenwich, Q. C, under the auspices of Prosvery unsatisfactory to learn that the serious pect Lodge. Temporary seats had to be called into requisition to accommodate the large gathering. The meeting was presided over by W. Ludlow (Belyea, councillor for Greenwich, who in a neat address explained osses on the Batavia occurred between Montreal and Quebec, and, without further comment. I would say that the facts of the case should be thoroughly sifted. Regular liners are maintaining splendidly the good name earned during the last couple of years, but the ocean tramps are playing the deuce with us, not only through high freights, but in many other ways quite as detrimental to the best interests of the trade.

Of these berries about 100 bushels have already been shipped to Boston, but on account of the abund-ant crop in New England the profit realized has been small. The business is largely under the control of L. Blanchard of Boston, whose business agent here is Harry Woods of Wels-ford. The fruit is packed at the railway stations where it is delivered, ready for ahp-ment, and in consequence it reaches Boston in better condition than when it is repacked at a _eneral denot. eneral depot
