Card Playing at Moncton. Your paper is considered a terror to card-players. It is read here by friends and foes, and the latter especially prize its columns with far and trembling.

Current Coin. "For heaven's sake, lend me five dollars," said a certain man to his friend. "I have had nothing in my house to eat for four days, but give me five dollars, and I will have come around to dinner."

There died last week in Nansmond County, Virginia, one William Parr, who had the rare fortune of inventing a new card game in the English language, which seems likely to become a permanent part of it.

There is nothing like order, system and regularity in all things. It gives an inward satisfaction which is better than riches. "What a virtuous glow for instance, must have warmed the heart of the Scotchman who has just died in Texas and who has left behind him the record that for fifty-eight years, he had lived in the door of his house, barefooted, in the night clothes, and played on the hearth-stove, and he had never worn a cravat."

The Government has managed, by being indefatigable in creating new offices for party politicians and otherwise wasting the public money, to create a deficit of about a million notwithstanding the increase of the revenue by some three millions. "Reform" costs something.

His "holy mission" is what the chief of the Carlist brigades calls his position to force himself into the position of ruler of a people who manifest a very strong disposition to have any other man but him to rule over them. But the word holy is prostituted to equally vile purposes in this country.

Edward Jenkins denies that he is to be succeeded by Mr. Annand as Agent-General for Canada. Perhaps Mr. Annand knows more about it than he does.
