congestion of the liver. It does not matter much what particular form of liver complaint caused death, for all are more or less fatal. When the symptoms of liver disease are noticed, it is generally too late to hope for a cure. Liver trouble is a common disease of birds—particularly of the heavy breeds—and it is usually brought on by overfeeding of unbalanced rations; too close confinement, or insufficient exercise. As a rule, the necessity of feeding varied rations is not half understood by poultry-keepers. It is far easier to prevent liver complaint, roup, etc., than it is to cure them. At this time of the year the best treatment to give fowls is free range, if possible, where green stuff may be picked up. The rations should be well balanced and fed in judicious quantity.

WIDTH OF A PLOT

I want to sow a ten-acre plot of oats. The length is 1060 feet. How wide will it have to be to make ten acres? SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—410 feet 11 inches.

NASAL GLEET

I have a mare ten years old; about nine months ago she took some trouble either in the head or throat, and would discharge a white substance from the nose, but does not do it all the time. She is not as bad as she was last summer, nor does she discharge so much. She never coughed. If she is at slow work, it does not seem to bother her, but when driving on the road she will wheeze, you would almost think she had the roars; but, on stopping, she immediately stops wheezing. Could you suggest any remedy?

Sask. A. D.

Ans.—Your mare is suffering from nasal gleet, which is a sub-acute or chronic inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the nasal chambers, and the sinuses or cavities of the head, and in which there is probably a collection of pus. It is usually the result of neglected simple cold, or exposure, such as running out to a straw stack all winter. Any injury over the face, if sufficient to fracture the bone or injure the blood vessels, may produce it. It may be the result of a carious tooth or any foreign body or growth in the nasal chambers. Treatment: Feed the animal well (feed off the ground). Use injections of alum, 2 drams, to a pint of warm water, into the nostrils two or three times a day. If it is the result of a diseased tooth, the tooth should be extracted. If the sinuses of the head are affected, the only treatment is to trephine to open them up, which can only be done by a skilled veterinarian. On account of the wheezing noise you speak of we would conclude that either the sinuses were affected, or that it was the result of a growth in the nasal chambers, which would interfere with respirations during exertion, for which surgical treatment is indicated.

MARKET OUTLOOK FOR OATS

What do you think are the chief factors causing the present high prices for oats? Is there anything in the statement that the price of oats runs in sympathy with the price of wheat, i. e., when wheat is high, oats also go high in price? Everyone seems to think that high prices will prevail for wheat for some time. Is there any good reason to suppose that there will not be a good price for oats during next fall and winter?

READER.

Ans.—The price made for oats in any year is based upon the supply of the commodity offering and the demand for it. That, primarily, creates a price for the grain, and that price further is affected by the price which other grains may be purchased for which are used in whole or part for the same purposes as oats. Thus a scarcity or high price for one cereal will influence the price of other grains. There is a good deal of truth in the statement that the price of oats rises and falls with the price
