AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" - The Wonderful Fruit Medicine - will Protect You

Autointoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the kidneys and liver are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Disturbance of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the kidneys and bring on pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema - and keeps the whole system unhealthily by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Autointoxication or self-poisoning - as "Fruit-a-tives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

The formal vote of thanks was seconded by Mr. Frank Cockshutt, who declared himself a great admirer of the patriotic fund, administered the most splendidly of any fund in the history of Canada, and standing forth as an example to the future.

He added a word of praise to the officials of the local committee and to the factory-men's branch of the executive.

"The boys at the front are fighting our battles," he declared, "and we must pay their way as far as possible. The only thing before us now is to win the war, and we must

Mr. Woodside did not approve of the raising of the Patriotic Fund by taxation. The charming thing about the present administration of the fund was the spirit of sympathy and inspiration carried into the work, the spirit which alone could meet many situations arising out of the war. Brantford at large knew the efforts being put forth by the men in charge of the committee, none would hesitate to put their shoulder to the wheel. Mr. Woodside declared, none should hesitate to make their contribution for the year 1918.

Ladies to Help. Mrs. J. J. Hurley gave assurance that the Kith and Kin association added a word of praise to Mr. Spence, Mr. Watt and Mr. F. W. Thompson, under whose leadership, they would do their share in the campaign.

Mrs. W. C. Livingston, on behalf of the Women's Patriotic League, promised the hearty co-operation of that body.

Mr. Logan introduced a motion that the work be carried on as in past years, subject to the discretion of the executive, the objective for the city to be $150,000, and the date to be set at Feb. 12, 13, 14 and 15.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Miller, and carried unanimously.

Committees Chosen. The following were appointed as heads of committees: Reg. Scarfe, Governor; C. M. Thompson, secretary.

Publicity - W. B. Preston, convener. Lists - Logan M. Waterous, convener.

Headquarters Committee - A. B. Burnley, convener. Old Boys' Committee - Geo. Hatfield, F. S. Blain.

The following committee was nominated to approach the county council in the hands of the executive.

"I don't think the county council will need a denunciation," observed A. E. Watts, county clerk.

It was decided to leave this matter in the hands of the executive.

The following will interview the city council: W. F. Cockshutt, W. S. Brewster, C. Cook, T. H. Preston, Dr. Hart.

Mr. Spence next called upon Mr. Norman Somerville of Toronto, who served as chief organizer of the Victory Loan campaign for the province of Ontario.

A Boost for Brantford. "I have been struck by the unanimity shown in Brantford after three years of patriotic work," observed Mr. Somerville, in opening.

He was high in his praise of Brantford's record in past years, declaring that he had cited the example of this city throughout all parts of the province.

Campaign in Toronto. In Toronto, the campaign opened this week, to raise $3,000,000 in three months. By the end of the week, one hundred men would speak in the theatres of the city; Sunday, G. W. V. A. men would occupy every church pulpit. The organization was more perfect than ever before.

An absolute block system had been adopted for the entire city, half of which in all the business houses and industrial plants, would be canvassed by men, and the other half by the women workers. At least 1,000 women would be engaged in active campaign work.

The publicity committee was the largest and best organized on record, comprising 500 members, who would spread to every nook and corner of Toronto the gospel of giving. Behind the whole publicity committee was the vast experience of Mr. J. J. Gibbons.

Other committees included finance, lists and "shock absorbers" - a committee to deal with the friction bound to arise from a campaign of such proportions.

The campaign was a joint effort for the patriotic fund and the Red Cross, $2,000,000 for the former and one for the latter.

Mr. Somerville laid stress upon the benefit bound to accrue to any community from a campaign, the best factor which ever entered into the citizenship of Ontario, he declared.

The present campaign in Toronto would be the most difficult yet undertaken, for a mysterious feeling had arisen that the government should handle the Patriotic Fund.

Mr. Somerville painted a graphic picture of the conditions which prevailed in the fall of 1914, with Canada face to face with business depression.

"Men," he exclaimed, "in the name of God, was there ever a time when we were better prepared to give, than at the present. Is the accumulation of wealth to wipe out our desire for service?"

Of the $12,000,000 raised for the Patriotic Fund, $7,000,000 had been raised by taxation, federal, provincial or municipal. Another million had been given, almost all as if by taxation, from large business corporations.

If the government were to raise this money, regulation of allowances would be necessary to cope with the cost of living in various parts of the Dominion. Under the present system, the local committees were fully capable of supervising and regulating the administration, of dealing with every individual case.

Under the present system, politics could not creep in; under government control, it must be inevitable.

It would be impracticable for the government to raise $12,000,000 annually and to hand the money at once over to two thousand scattered administration committees.

Centralized control would be essential, and central control must involve the elimination of the sympathetic personal touch which had placed the fund upon its present basis.

Criticism of the administration were inevitable, but they were the fewest ever levelled at any administration in the Dominion of Canada.

After three and a half years of service, the Canadian Patriotic Fund would receive at the hands of 99 out of every hundred citizens, the verdict "absolutely honest, kind and fair."

Where government administration of the Patriotic Fund to be adopted, government control of the Red Cross and every other war fund must logically follow.

"Are we to stand by as idle spectators?" demanded the speaker. "Those men over yonder are active participants, as they were three years ago, prepared to give all. Should they look back over the waters, to this fair land of prosperity, and learn that we have quit?"

A Dangerous Spirit. Whatever arguments might be brought forward in favor of government control of the fund, such a course was not to be adopted, and every man should stand prepared to meet the danger within the community, to wipe out the suggestion of letting the government do it, the suggestion which must eventually develop into the suggestion "let us have peace."

"That spirit," declared the speaker, "that desire to do this thing by proxy, is the most dangerous thing which ever entered into our life, it is bound to eat the heart out of our life, and if we give way to the suggestion, we have stifled our patriotism for patriotism is engendered of service, the spiritually which expresses itself in service. For the sake of our future, our own national life, for the sake of the man over yonder, don't let it creep into any part of our war activities."

W. F. Cockshutt, M.P. Mr. J. H. Spence, after expressing his appreciation of Mr. Somerville's address, called upon Mr. W. F. Cockshutt to move a formal vote of thanks. The latter admitted having felt faint-hearted as to the prospects for a 1918 campaign, but declared that personal obligations of citizenship should not be waived for any government, nor should any government take away the privilege of making personal contributions. "The commendation of a good conscience, before God and man, is worth a good deal to any man," observed Mr. Cockshutt. "We are up against as crucial a situation as the war has yet produced, but we are here to bear the responsibilities of the hour. The Brantford fund is thoroughly well administered, it is absolutely above criticism."

HANSELMAN Continued from page one. The military department with E. Munro Greer, of Toronto and A. J. Wilkes, crown attorney of Brant, prosecutors.

In his preliminary address to the jury, Mr. Greer said that the first charge really constituted treason, and that such a charge in Germany would have been tried by a very different kind of court. Addressing the jurors he said:

"It will be shown to you how the shells were weakened by boring and plugging at their base, and whether the prisoner was guilty of the act it will be for you to decide."

Chief Stelm of Brantford told about questioning Hanselman as to his nationality. He did not consider him a fit subject for internment and he warned the jury to be on their guard.

Hanselman admitted he had heard of the case of shell plugging. He was told that machine was used for boring out the flaws which were afterwards plugged so they would pass inspection.

Stephen Simons, a 17 year old employe of the munition plant, swore at time and again he saw Hanselman, and proceeded to question him in regard to plugging shells in a munition plant. He claimed that the prisoner could give no satisfactory explanation.

Upon examination the Chief admitted he had heard of the case of shell plugging. He was told that machine was used for boring out the flaws which were afterwards plugged so they would pass inspection.

ANOTHER DRAFT IN CITY TODAY

More C. O. R. Men Attached to Unit Here - Other Military Matters

Brantford witnessed to-day another influx of C. O. R. men, a squad of whom arrived in the city this morning, hailing from Hamilton and other points nearer here. The newly summoned draftees were seen about the streets during the greater part of the day, passing to and fro between the armories and the post office, clad in a curious motley of semi-khaki and semi-civvies, bearing their kit bags and other insignia of their newly adopted military life.

The new men are as cheery and light-hearted as a bunch as their predecessors and bid fair to make the finest type of soldiers, according to officials of the C. O. R.

The first of a series of concerts was heard at the men in the old exangeltic tabernacle, by the local Y. M. C. A. military workers, last night. The attendance was gratifyingly large, and the entertainment was crowned with an unusual degree of success, anguring well for those to follow.

Although there are several minor cases of sickness in the regiment, the general health of the C. O. R. men continues very good. A few are receiving treatment in the hospital, these including Sappers Daniel Clay and Samuel Norman, who were injured in the explosion at the old post office last week, and who are both making speedy progress toward recovery.

BOYS' CLUB. The St. Andrew's Boys' Club met last night at the home of Mr. Charles Jackson, Arthur avenue. Earl Howard, the president, was in the chair. After a Bible talk by the Rev. J. W. Gordon, some important business was transacted, including arrangements for a Fathers and Sons' Banquet for the fathers and sons of St. Andrew's congregation. It is likely that the date will be Feb. 5. The rest of the evening was spent in games, piano selections were provided by Mr. Alf. Jex, and Mrs. Chas. Jackson treated the boys to a dainty lunch.

ST. ANDREW'S Y. P. G. The regular meeting of the Young People's Guild of St. Andrew's church, was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Cook, Palmerston avenue, with the president in the chair. The reading entitled "New Year's Resolutions", by Miss G. Millard was much appreciated. Following this Rev. Mr. Gordon gave an outline of the work in teacher training and an explanation of the first phase of the study.

LIBRARY BOARD AND FUEL. The Public Library Board will meet this afternoon to discuss the fuel situation.

NO COURT. There was a clean slate at the police court this morning, as the local police officials are in Hamilton to-day working on the case of C. L. Hanselman.

MAYOR THANKS CITIZENS. The mayor desires to express his appreciation for the way in which the citizens have co-operated in their endeavors to relieve those who have no coal.

MINISTERS TO CONSERVE. The local ministers met yesterday to discuss the fuel situation. All were agreed that it was necessary to conserve fuel in every way possible. Several churches have more coal than can be of immediate use to them and are turning it over to the city. One church has already contributed four or five tons.

BIG 16 CLASS BANQUET. Fifty members and guests attended the annual banquet of the "Big 16" boys' class at the Wesley church parlors, when Capt. Cornelius of the G. W. V. A. gave a very interesting address on trench life. He related a number of his experiences at the front, which were very informative and appreciated by all those present. Games were conducted by Mrs. Jewel, and were quite interesting. After the supper a number of interesting addresses were given. Rev. Dr. Martin, Mr. A. E. Day, Capt. Cornelius, Mrs. Jewel and Miss Mae Wood, all spoke on important class subjects. Mr. Geo. Ward, the class teacher, replied to the addresses, endorsing the good advice which had been given by the class by the speakers. The class presented Mr. Ward with a gold tie pin, the address being read by the president of the organization. The evening was then brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Nuptial Notes. Riddell-Durand. The Rev. C. B. Jenkins solemnized the marriage of Alfred John Riddell and Lily Matilda Durand on Saturday, the 12th of January.
