ITEMS OF NEWS FROM A VERY BREEZY EXCHANGE.

Quite to the Point by a Man Who Is Always Ready to Back Up Al; That He Says.

[Copyright, 1902, by C. B. Lewis.] TE are told that no eastern editor accepts a railroad pass for fear of being biased in favor of the corporation. We can't understand it. We have three annual passes, and we like nothing better than to hold a railroad president up by the neck and give him a shake. Perhaps it is the difference in the climate.

None of the extinct volcanoes of Ari zona seems inclined to resume business but we still have cloudbursts and ey clones to keep us up to the mark.

Major Halsey of Lone Jack and Colo nel Henderson of Grass Valley exchanged shots the other day in the latter town, and the only damage was the wounding of a dog. We advised the both of 'em long ago to do thei shooting with clubs.

The assertion at the head of our ediorial columns that the Arizona Kicker as the largest circulation of anything on the face of this earth may be doubted, but as a matter of precaution the man who doubts it had better bring two guns along and get the drop on as before he begins to talk.

Most of the coroners in this territory instruct their juries to bring in a verdict of "struck dead by lightning" when a bikist is found dead along the highway. The Red Mountain Eagle calls upon 500 single women of the east to come out here and marry 500 single men of Red Mountain and encourage them in its normal condition, hearing will be their work of rebuilding a state. We have seen about 300 of the men of the ten are caused by catarrh, which is Red Mountain district, and our advice nothing but an inflamed condition of to the single women of the east is to stay right at home and die of old age.

> The friends of John Haynes fear that he has met with an accident of some sort. He started to ride over to Cochise last week, and two days later his boots and a few bones were found on the trail. It is the general belief that a mountain lion got him, and our toss is his gain.

A traveling fakir who came into this neighborhood four weeks ago and sold his liver pads for a dollar apiece and sang the hymn of the "Sweet By and By" with tears in his eyes has been found dead near Rocky Ford. He either sang too sweetly or his pads were a fraud.

It is now three weeks or more since any one pulled a gun and tried to shoot the hands off the postoffice clock, and we are living in hopes that the reform will last several months to come. We are prepared for a surprise party, however, and shall shoot as straight in return as we know how.

In a communication to this paper two weeks ago Judge Gildersleeve spelled "happy" with only one "p," and we took the liberty of adding another. He now announces that he won't be "hapy" until he has had a shot at us, and we suppose we shall have to give him an opportunity. It is rather a bore, though, and there are times when we are inclined to let a halfbreed Indian run away with our dictionary and boil it down for soup.

It has now been definitely ascertained that the man who was lynched at Blue Grass Valley last March was a William Scott of Iowa, who had come out here to seek his fortune and gobbled a horse as a beginning. It is well enough that William should have been identified, but we can't see how it is going to help his case any.

The story in a Chicago paper that we won $8,000 on a hand of poker is the veriest nonsense. In the first place, the average jackpot around here is seldom above $2, and in the next we never met a man in this territory who wouldn't lie down if the sum got much above $3. The story arises from the fact that with king high in our own hand we bluffed Judge Harkins, who had an ace full, out of a two dollar and a half pot. The town is full of poker, but even the best players have to sweat the blue out of their suspenders in making enough to buy a plug of to-M. QUAD. bacco.

DINED IN THE KITCHEN.

One Satisfactory Meal Grant Had After His Tour of the World. "When General Grant stopped at the Palmer House in Chicago on his return from his tour of the world," said a man who was there at the time, "the steward was all but stupefied one noon at seeing the ex-president slide in at the kitchen door as though escaping from some one. "'I am sorry to trouble you,' he said, as though asking a great favor, 'but may I have a little corned beef and

"'Why, certainly,' the steward replied; 'but shan't I send it out to you in the dining room? "'No,' he answered; T'll eat it right here if you'll let me sit down.' "So a place on the rough board table, where the cook had been fixing the meat, was cleared, and Grant drew up a stool and set to, and the way he got away with that corned beef and cabbage was a caution. When he had finished, he laid down his knife and fork with a funny sigh of satisfaction, put one hand on the steward's shoulder

"'Young man, I don't suppose you care for that at all, but if you had had to eat what I have for the past few months it would taste like a dinner for the gods. It tastes homey!" "The ex-president had dined with everybody from the queen down, but that cabbage and corned beef doubtless reminded him of the time when he was not so well known, but probably far happier-when people in St. Louis called him 'captain' when they spoke to him and bought the wood he carted into town to sell."

Character at a Glauce.

An insignificant nose means an insignificant man. An open mouth is a sure sign of an empty head (keep yours closed). A projecting upper lip shows malignity and avarice. Pointed noses generally belong to meddlesome people. Large eyes in a small face betoken maliciousness.

A retreating chin is always bad; it shows lack of resolution. A projecting under lip indicates ostentation, self conceit and folly. Fine hair generally betokens native good taste and intelli-

A dimple in the chin is pretty, but indicates weak mental organization. High cheek bones always indicate great force of character in some direction. Fullness of the temples is supposed to show powers of mathematical calculation.

A small mouth, with nose and nostril also small, shows indecision and cowardice. Half shut eyes show natural shrewdness, together with lack of sincerity. Slow moving eyes are always found in the heads of persons of prudence and ability.-London Answers.

Wheat In Fable and History. Possibly wheat was the corn so plenty in Egypt when famine drove thither Joseph's unnatural brethren. Wheat went with other precious things into the mummy cases and sealed jars stored in royal tombs. Today acres by the thousand laugh in bearded grain said to have sprung from sparse kernels plundered by a ruthless explorer from a royal mummy's hand. Does it whisper now-this new-old Egyptian wheat-to its constant friend the sun, of Rameses and Pharoah - of Apis, the sacred bull-of Isls, Egypt's Ceres - of Osiris - the great sphinx - and Memnon's head, singing to hail the sunrise? If it would but speak aloud so mortals could comprehend, how our wisdom might be broadened! What a recasting of history must be wrought and how we boasting moderns might hide diminished heads!

A Tart Retort. Lord Roberts once found himself the center of a circle of new friends in a London club. There was a very tall gentleman present, who, evidently believing himself to shine as a wit, seized every opportunity to raise a laugh at the other people's expense. On being introduced to Lord Roberts the wit bent down patronizingly to his lordship and remarked: "I have often heard of you, but"shading his eyes with one hand as though the famous general, being so small, could be seen only with difficulty-"I have never seen you." To this Lord Roberts promptly re-

"I have often seen you, sir, but 1 have never heard of you."

The Safest Place In a Storm. Every one is aware that it is not wise to seek a tree's shelter in a thunderstorm; but, if you must take refuge there, then climb to the topmost branches. It has been proved that the upper boughs of trees during a storm would be the safest position, and it is said that birds in the branches are seldom killed. When the tree is struck by lightning, it is the trunk which, presumably from its greater dryness, is a bad conductor and which therefore suffers the most.

Special Inducements to Liberality. "What are your rates?" asked the prospective victim of the lady fortune

"I can't afford to tell you anything but disaster for 50 cents," replied the lady, "but for $1 I'll agree to tell you a good fortune with no bad luck in it."

His Ideal Woman. Parke-The other day I was in a kind of vision and saw my wife as the most perfect woman in the world. Lane-Where were you?

Parke-In an intelligence office, de scribing her to a cook I was trying to engage.-Judge.
