CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Dies In Far North.

Toronto, June 7.—A cablegram was received last evening, announcing the death at Dawson City of Donald Watson Davis, ex-M.P., and ex-collector of customs at Dawson. In 1870 he settled at Macleod, N.W.T., as an Indian trader. He was elected to Parliament as a der. He was elected to Parliament as a member of the Conservative party in 1887, 1892 and in 1896. After resigning as customs collector he became a pros-pector in the Yukon. A son, Rider, is attending Upper Canada College.

IS YOUR CATARRH ANY BETTER?

Probably getting worse all the time. Why not give up that snuff and stop dosing your stomach? The one sure treatment is "Catarrhiczone," sure to cure because it goes where the disease really is. UNDER WAITING JAMES ORDERS

Copyright, 1906, by E. W. Sargent

Jack Randolph sat on the piazza and read over the telegram again. Already the paper was cracking on the creases from frequent foldings and unfoldings. Randolph could have read it from memory. "Go to Old Point Comfort," it read, "and wait orders."

He had been waiting orders for four days now, and repeated telegrams to the office had simply brought forth repetitions of those instructions.

Randolph was sick of it all. Ever since he had refused point blank to consider the question of a marriage to some girl his father had picked out for him he had been exiled to the road as special salesman and had been jumped from east to west on the most absurd propositions

There might be a man coming to Old Point who wanted to buy a suspension bridge, but Randolph could not see why he had not been sent to the office of the firm instead of being shipped to Old Point. Not that he objected to a week at the famous resort with nothing to do, but the uncertainty of it all was irritating. He decided to send another telegram and headed for the tele-

He never got there, for just as he swung around a corner of the piazza the prettiest girl he had ever seen ran into him as she dashed along the piazza. By the time mutual apologies were concluded Jack had forgotten all about the telegram and had come to the con-clusion that he was satisfied to stay at the Point as long as the office decided he was needed there.

Instead of going into the office he volunteered his services as guide to Marjorie Carson, who had arrived the night before, and it was well along in the afternoon before he even thought of the despised telegram.

He met Mrs. Carson on their return and that evening he changed his seat to their table and was installed as their guide and counselor. More than ever scarcely encouraging to his hopes, but as the days progressed he gained in her favor, and before the end of his Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—That he first week he had begun to flatter him-

Mrs. Carson clearly approved of him, Early in the acquaintance he had taken pains to acquaint her with his history in an impersonal sort of way that did Mr. Boyer named five companies which allowed him from three to five cents on each ton sold to the railroad company.

It was well along in the third week before he had ventured to speak of love to the girl. It was as they were coat sleeve. He had thrown an arm about her and had kept it there until with a rosy face she had disengaged

"I can get along all right now," she said, as she stepped ahead. He laid a hand upon her shoulder.

"I hope you can'z" he said simply "I should like you to think that you always needed me." "I don't," was the savage answer.

"I don't ever need you, and I wish you would go away.' "Pardon," he said quietly. "I had no wish to be offensive.

They went along in silence, but as they parted at the foot of the piazza steps she turned toward him and held

"I am afraid I was very rude," she said simply. "Will you forgive me?"
"If you will take back what you said," he answered pleadingly.

"I think you're horrid," she exclaimed with a sudden shift from her penitential mood. "If you were a gentleman you would not annoy me this

She sped up the steps before he could demand an explanation, and left behind her a much puzzled swain.

He was too tactful to reopen the question that evening, but for half the night he paced the floor after he had gone to his room and vainly sought for an explanation of her odd remark.

That she liked him was apparent. He could not see wherein he had been offensive, and yet she had spoken as if he must understand what the matter

He was still puzzled the next morning when they met at breakfast, but there was no opportunity for an expla-nation until late that evening. Just before the party broke up Jack and Marjorie were standing on the piazza. The others had moved toward the entrance and had left them alone in the corner.
"What did you mean yesterday?" 1

A man talks about owning his business. But, as a mather of fact his business owns him. His whole life is regulated by the demands of the business. The time at which he rises, his breakfast hour, the time rises, his breakfast hour, the time given to meals, are all determined by business obligations. He rushes through lunch because he "can't spare the time from business" to eat leisurely. He won't take a rest because he is negled at the store or office. He is in fact an absolute slave to business. The results which follow this slavery are to be seen on every hand. Men dyspeptic, Irritable, nervous, with drawn faces, and on every hand. MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, June 6.—(Special.)—Receipts were 300 cattle, 80 milch cows, 2500 calves, 300 sheep and lambs, 600 hogs. The market for hogs was very firm at the recent advance in prices. Demand was good and sales of selected lots were made at $7.80 to $7.90 per cwt., off cars. There were some hogs sold at the lower figures, but they were of an inferior quality.

The wet muggy weather, together with the small supplies of good cattle and the high prices asked for them, caused a very dull market, but the unusually liberal supplies of small stock seemed to meet the present demands of the butchers. Prime beeves sold at 5½c to 5½c per lb., and they were not extra; pretty good cattle, 4½c to 5c, and the common stock, 3c to 4s; large numbers of milkmen's strippers have been sold this week at 3c to 4½c per lb. There is a good demand for milch cows at from $30 to $60 each. Calves sold at $350 each. Salves sold at $150 each. Salves $440 et 55 to $10 each. Salves $440 et 55 to $10 each.
