

REMARKS.
An American potato bug, in the family of Cichlidæ, as described by the author.
A potato bug, a native of the United States, raised in the laboratory.
It is a white of a shop in an obscure street of London is this announcement: "Gulls removed, messages taken, carpets beaten, and poetry composed on any subject."
A mosquito has it is now in progress in the United States. It has reference to some land in San Francisco, and according to the "United States Jurist" the defendants exceed 1,000 in number, and 270 lawyers are engaged in it.
It is a pleasant thing to reflect upon," says Dickens, "and furnishes a complete answer to those who contend for the gradual degeneration of the human species, that every baby born into the world is a finer one than the last."
The paper is made of common waiting paper by waiting it with pure benzene, perfectly free from oily matter. This renders the sheet transparent for a time, and then evaporates, leaving it colorless as before. Plans are being made to make the paper transparent in this way.
They do play such lovely sacred music at my daughter's," said a poor old lady, "there's one piece in particular that is so solemn and devout—'The soul beeth will die.' What she really heard was, however, 'The girl I left behind me.'"
The "New York Times," "Gazette" of June 10th, presents an affecting scene of a young man, in the sudden demise of the leavesworth, Kansas, "Times." It is a story as given in the "Gazette" are as follows: "May the poor curses of the Apocalypse seize your d—d city, Amen!"
The "Rural New Yorker" says that hams to be properly cured should always be rubbed with salt-petre as well as salt. A ham, as it is cut to cook, when inflated, should be soaked in salt-petre water before boiling for it to be boiled in a map of salt-petre, in the water in which it is to be cooked. It is a valuable and unpleasant flavor.
Dennis is the twilight evening later, a fine astronomical after a storm, and a beautiful evening of the heavens, and his mother, who had replied, "I don't know, Willie," "Yes, you do, Willie," "No, Willie, I don't know where the stars came from." "Well, you bet I do," "The moon, Willie!"
A negro has recently been pasted in England with double tongues or reeds, instead of a single one as heretofore used, the tongues being turned in and on with each other, and vibrated by air passed through bellows. Small sizes, for use at parties, easily worked by hand, are said to make a noise that will penetrate the densest fog to a long distance.
SHIRLEY GOSN.—There is a Western story of a man who was too lazy to work, and whose neighbors, being tired of keeping him, determined to drown him. Missing the squire, his pity was touched. "Not him, drown," he said; "I'll give him a load of corn to keep him alive." The victim raised his head from the water, "Shirley, spare!" "No," the squire dropped again. "Drive on, boys, then." The story has its own moral.
A Rhode Island man experienced a sensation that no other man ever experienced and lived. He was struck by lightning, and had his boots taken off without seriously injuring him. He says he is not what may be called a particular man on general principles, but if it is all the same he would just as soon hereafter have his boots removed by the old-fashioned boot-jack. The old-fashioned boot-jack is not so quick, but he is never in much of a hurry anyway; and he says it will do him.
The alarming increase of potato-bug raid is a subject of much solicitude to Western people. The Illinois papers team with bug items, and if all they say be true, the pecky vermin must be about the only things visible in some quarters. "The last story that has come to our notice is to the effect that an army of bugs in searching for new fields of conquest, came across a deserted farm, and that they actually stole some cuttings from a neighboring domain, planted them there, and then camped on the spot that they may be on hand when the fruit sprouted, and have the pleasure of strutting the tender plants which they themselves had been the means of bringing out.
