

Open the draft from upstairs

When you feel a trifle chilly, it's not necessary to go down cellar to turn on the drafts of

McClary's Magnet Furnace

Simply pull up the chain from the floor above, as shown, and a strong draft through the ash-pit door is opened.

Fire soon burns up briskly—chilly feeling quickly disappears. When warm enough, lower the chain.

It's a genuine comfort producer, buy the "MAGNET"

Built for wood, but will also burn coal.

Sold by enterprising dealers everywhere.

Practical Elasticity

"Maritime" wire-fences are made of a coil-spring wire that holds the coil shape and not only makes the fence easily adaptable to rough, holey, ground, but prevents the possibility of sudden strain and breakage as well.

"Maritime" wire fences need few posts; twenty or thirty feet apart is near enough. Every post saved reduces the cost.

Moreover a long panel between posts enables the fence to better encounter any sudden shock.

TALKS PLAINLY WITH POLICE.

Judge Wilson Gives His Views On The Treatment of Unfortunates By Fredericton Officers.

Before the County Court adjourned in Fredericton on Thursday last, Judge Wilson took occasion to refer to the death of young Hickey, which recently occurred in a cell at the police station, under what he considered very sad and terrible circumstances. Here was a young man who leaves his home in Amherst, goes to Hartland and gets employment. Later he gets into trouble and comes to Fredericton, gets under the influence of liquor, falls into the hands of the police, and is thrown into a dark and cold cell, without food or warmth, and nothing but a deal to lay on and a deal block to sit upon. No friendly attention was paid to him until 11 o'clock the next day when he was called upon to appear before the police magistrate. He did not respond to the call and the officer tries to arouse him by the tender mercies of a kick. He does not wake and is found to be dead. It is certainly a sad and terrible death and one which might everywhere lead people outside of this Cestial City, with its many churches and educational institutions to believe that the unfortunate violators of the law, who happen to fall into the hands of the police force are treated more like brutes than human beings. I thoroughly concur in the recommendation of the coroner's jury which investigated this case, that better accommodations should be provided at the police station for criminals. The whole tendency of public opinion and those who are entrusted with the administration of the law in criminal cases is towards an effort to reclaim them so that they may be restored to their friends and relatives and to the position of respectable citizenship. It is hoped that the police committee, the police magistrate and the officers of the law in this city, will fall in with the trend of public opinion.

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

Quaint Olden Time New York Business and Social Addresses.

In the first directory of New York city, which was issued in 1786, there are some peculiar and quaint entries. For instance, in those days it was not uncommon for medical practitioners to sell drugs, as is shown by the following address, "Samuel Bredhurst, physician and apothecary, 64 Queen (now Pearl) street."

Clergymen of that period were exceedingly precise regarding their titles. Thus, "Abraham Bache, reverend of the Church of England, 29 Smith street," and "Joze Phelan, clergyman of the Church of Rome, 1 Beekman street."

Leon Rogers, tailor, of 5 Broadway, was described as a "breeches maker," John Bean, 60 Broadway, as "surgeon and tooth puller," S. Cryzier, 69 Cherry street, "punch and porter house," Jo Deleplane of 132 Queen street, "Quaker speaker," D. Hitchcock, 89 Queen street, "house carpenter and undertaker," John Hogland, 95 Queen street, "digger, etc.," Henry H. Kip, 25 King street, "inspector of pot and pearl fishes," John Nitchie, 7 Garden street, "starch and hair powder maker," Samuel B. Webb, 29 Lower Dock street, "gentleman."

In those days, too, there were a great many "gentlemen" and a few "washwomen." All teachers were then addressed either as "schoolmasters" or "schoolmistresses." The retail dealers on Broadway and Wall and Queen streets called themselves "shopkeepers," the hotel men were "tavern keepers," and the policemen were "watchmen."

THE COLD WATER ORDEAL.

It Was Once an Important Test of Guilt or Innocence.

The cold water ordeal was one of the most important tests of guilt or innocence a few hundred years ago. If the accused floated, he was guilty; if he sank, he was innocent. In the twelfth century some altar vessels were stolen from the cathedral of Laon, and the learned Anselm proposed that a child from each parish and then a child from each household should be put to the test and so on until the guilty one was found. The proposition raised a great outcry, and the people clamored that those who had easiest access to the church be the first to undergo the ordeal.

This looked reasonable enough. So the bishop ordered the six priests of the cathedral to prepare for the test. In the meanwhile Anselm thought to try the experiment himself as a preliminary test. So he was bound and placed in a tub of water. To his great satisfaction as well as discomfort he promptly sank. The day arrived and with it an immense crowd to see the trial. The first priest sank, the second floated, the third sank, the fourth floated, the fifth sank, and then Anselm himself—wonder of wonders—in spite of experiments and protested innocence floated around with the buoyancy of an air bubble. While he was serving his sentence in prison Anselm found time to write a learned treatise on the "Inexpediency of the Water Ordeal and Its Failure in Many Cases."

New Zealand Eating Birds.

The New Zealand eating bird is one of the commonest and at the same time the handsomest of the New Zealand birds. The neck is ornamented with a frill of curly feathers of a greenish color with white centers, and the throat is adorned with a tuft of white feathers, which has gained for it the popular name of "parson bird," an appellation appropriate not only because of this decoration, but because of the resemblance of its peculiar attitudes when singing to the gesticulations indulged in by exuberant lecturers when wishing to drive home their points. The bird is an excellent mimic and can be taught to repeat short sentences with extraordinary clearness and also to whistle short songs quite as well as a parrot.

Queen Bees' Giant.

Queen Bees' Giant. A Flemish porter who was over eight feet high and of great strength, and he was an extremely good natured man. Whenever he met any one who was abnormally tall he used to patronize him in a friendly sort of way, and on one occasion when he met at an inn two soldiers who were over six feet in height he said, "Come under my arms, my little fellows." And, taking them up, he walked down the room with them under his arms as if they had been children, much to their disgust.

Willing to Oblige.

Uncle (to little Bertie, aged five, who is being taken off to bed)—Good night, Bertie. Of course you always remember your aunts and uncles in your prayers? Bertie—Oh, yes, Uncle Felix! Shall I tell you what I say? I say, "God bless Aunt Kitty and make her thin, and God bless Uncle James and make him fat, and God bless Uncle Felix and"—which do you want to be, fat or thin?—Punch.

A Fast Train.

"Is this a fast train?" asked a passenger who was tired of looking at a station at which the train was not supposed to stop.

"Of course it is," was the conductor's reply.

"I thought so. Would you mind my getting out to see what it's fast to?"

Always the Same.

Tailor's Little Boy (walking with his father, sees a street roller)—What's that, papa? Tailor—The street's being newly ironed and pressed.—Figaro.

"Some men can take new furniture and make it look as if it was made a century ago," says a journalist. So can some children.

When the "kiddies" want "some-thing good"—when mother wishes "a bite between meals"—when father feels a bit hungry at bedtime—how they all go for the pail of
