The Sarcastic Girl.

The sarcastic girl is, in the language of the negro elocutionist and orator, growing "more prevalent" every day. She is a trifling more insufferable than her giggling, gushing, romance-loving sister, whom, however, she always contemplates with pitying contempt, not entirely free from disguised scorn.

She has not the ability to distinguish between impudence and satire, and it is an easy task to convince her that ill-bred rudeness of speech is the perfection of irony, and that to say spiteful and unpleasant things to everybody she meets is sure to win her a reputation of being sarcastic.

She eagerly cultivates her fancied talent, never allowing an opportunity to exercise it to pass unimproved, and she generally succeeds in making herself heartily disliked by those who are unfortunate enough to be numbered among her acquaintances.

The family think her brilliant when everyone else pronounces her insulting. The habit of being "sarcastic" grows upon her, until, by the time her fond parents conceive her to be a prodigy, society avoids her as a pest. As she grows older she becomes dissatisfied with her loneliness.

Then, too, she hears whispers that she has been pronounced "hateful" by the people who once told her she was brilliant.

If she marries, her husband soon tires of her society, and, in common with the rest of the world, avoids her as much as he can, and seems to envy those who are more fortunately circumstanced in this respect. She feels this, and it only makes her more spiteful and disagreeable. Her children feel no sweet companionship in her presence; their natural affection for her is quenched by her unhappy disposition, and they early learn to withhold their respect. Her life is as miserable as it can well be, and when she dies she passes almost, if not entirely, unregretted, a warning to the sarcastic girl, if she should but discover it, and profit by the lesson.

Fortunes for Farmers and Mechanics.

Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. If you are Billed have a slow complexion, poor appetite, and feel nervous spirits, and generally feel that you are in a moment of delay, procure a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It will cure you, and that is the fact. It is the only medicine that will cure you. It is the only medicine that will cure you. It is the only medicine that will cure you.

The Reason Why.

A good many years ago, when a certain place in Texas was a very small town, quite a number of prominent citizens went out on a hunting expedition. One night when they were all gathered around the camp fire, one of the party suggested that each man should give the time and reason for his leaving his native State and coming to Texas, whereupon each one in his turn told his experience. Judge Blank had killed a man in self-defence, in Arkansas, Gen. So-and-so had forged another man's signature to a check, while another came to Texas on account of his having two wives. The only man who did not make any disclosures was a sanctimonious-looking old man, who, although a professional gambler, was usually called "Parson."

"Well, Parson, why did you leave Kentucky?"

"I don't care to say anything about it. Besides, it is only a trifle. None of you would believe me, anyway."

"Out with it. Did you shoot anybody?"

"No, gentlemen, I did not. Since you won't to know so bad I'll tell you. I left Kentucky because I did not build a church."

Deep silence fell on the group. No such excuse for coming to Texas ever had been heard of before. There was evidently an unexplained mystery at the bottom of it. The Parson was called on to furnish more light.

"Well, gentlemen, you see a congregation raised $3,000 and turned it over to me to build a church—and I didn't build the church. That's all."

Satisfactory Results in Montreal.

Whilst Montreal is a model city in many respects, it is not exactly a quarter section of Paradise, as Capt. Geo. Murphy, Chief of Government Police can testify. A reporter of a Montreal journal called upon this gentleman a short time ago, and put to him the following query:

"Chief, do you find duties irksome and dangerous in your strange calling?"

"Irksome," replied Mr. Murphy, "I seldom find them; but that they are attended with danger is very true. There is danger to be faced, of course, from wind, weather and criminals, and the least of these dangers, is not those of exposure and bad weather. The heavy, moist atmosphere that gathers over the water is very conducive to rheumatism, and many of my men suffer from that complaint more or less. I believe that our danger from exposure from this time forward is past, as St. Jacques Oil, if applied in time in cases of rheumatism, has a wonderful way of knocking that malady out of people. It certainly relieved me of a severe pain in my shoulder."
